Escobar Moves From Escalon to Jimenez After Planning to Attack Federals.

NEW STAND IS TEMPORARY

GENERALS CALLED ROBBERS

Yesterday's Developments in Mexico.

The rebel forces under General J. Gonzalo Escobar retreated north from Escalon and set up headquarters at Jimenez yesterday after a Federal plane had dropped bombs upon rebel troop trains at Escalon.

General Calles arrived in the city of Torreon, evacuated by the rebels on Monday, and took personal command of the advancing Federal army.

The Mexican Government announced that it planned to ask the extradition, as bank robbers, of rebel leaders who cross the border into the United States.

General Marcelo Caraveo, the rebel Governor of Chihuahua, denied reports from Mexico City that he had proposed peace negotiations to the Federal Government.

Fifteen Federals, an entire guerrilla band, were killed by rebels near Ojinaga, according to a report received by The Associated Press in Juarez.

MEXICO CITY, March 19.—General Plutarco Elias Calles, the Federal generalissimo, entered Torreon at 6 P. M. today at the head of the column he is commanding in person.

The government commander immediately began planning the pursuit of General J. Gonzalo Escobar, commander of the rebel troops that had evacuated the city yesterday. General Calles expects to direct in person the pursuit of the main rebel column.

In Mexico City the government is working out a plan for the extradition of Generals Escobar and Marcelo Caraveo and other rebel chieftains if they should cross the United States border from the States of Sonora and Chihuahua. The government contemplates asking their return as common thieves who have looted banks. The government is fully aware of the fact that extradition on charges even indirectly involving political refuge is out of the question under international and also American law. If extradition were granted by the United States Washington, if it follows previous custom, probably would specify that the accused must be tried on the crimes charged on the extradition papers and not for real or alleged political crimes against the Mexican Government. The penalties for conviction as robbers, bandits or common thieves range as high as imprisonment for life.

At the same time the government hopes, through attachment and subsequent proceedings in United States courts, to recover money and other loot which the rebels are said to have already taken or to contemplate taking to the American side of the border, the total amounting to millions of pesos. All of this was confirmed by President Portes Gil this morning at an interview granted to foreign correspondents at Chapultepec Palace.

All Lumped as "Robbers."

The President vigorously stressed his view that Generals Escobar, Roberto Cruz, Fausto Topete, Caraveo, Francisco Manzo and the other revolt leaders were simply "common robbers," whose objective was the American side of the border, where they hoped that extradition would be refused and that they would be permitted to keep their alleged loot.

The President estimated that money looted from the vaults of branches of the Bank of Mexico in Monterey, Durango and Saltillo amounted to not less than $1,250,000. He said he had no estimates of the total alleged loot from Torreon, Jimenez, Chihuahua City, Juarez, Nogales and other cities and towns in the northeastern sector, most of which is still in control of the rebels.

In the case of Torreon, however, advices to the President are that General Escobar looted not only the Bank of Mexico branch, but other banks in the city, one of the richest in the republic, where government funds and private deposits are among the largest in Mexico. Just what the total will be when the full reports of all banks and business houses involved are available is purely a matter of speculation. It is generally believed, however, it will run well

Seek to Protect Riverside From Children's Vandalism

The problem of preventing children from committing vandalism on Riverside Drive was discussed yesterday afternoon at a meeting at Temple Israel Community House, 210 West Ninety-first Street. The meeting, under the auspices of the junior members of the Women's League for the Protection of Riverside Drive, was to enlist aid of Columbia University students in protecting the drive.

In addition to destroying shrubbery, plants and trees along the drive, children have damaged statues, it was said by a number of speakers. Among those who urged child education for the protection of the drive were Miss Elizabeth Evans Hughes, Miss Mary Clark, Miss Ruth Von Roeshlamb, Miss Sally Knight Vredenburg and William Brainard.

HAD $6,000,000 INSURANCE

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, March 19.—An estate appraised at $56,914,260, exclusive of real property, was left by Rodman Wanamaker, merchant, of New York and Philadelphia, who died March 9, 1928, according to the inventory filed by the executors today with the Registrar of Wills at Norristown.

The estate is the largest ever handled by the Montgomery County officials, and was said to be the largest ever left by a Philadelphian. So voluminous is the inventory that no attempt will be made to transcribe all of the assets, as is customary. Instead, only totals will be given.

Holdings of 75,000 shares of common stock of the John Wanamaker Company, appraised at $48,243,831.93, represent by far the largest item in the inventory. These included his interest in the New York and Philadelphia stores, with branches in London, Paris, Tokio and Shanghai.

The estate includes the proceeds from sixty separate insurance policies issued on Mr. Wanamaker's life by forty-four companies of this country, Canada and South America. The surrender value of the policies at his death exceeded $6,000,000. He was said to have been at that time the most highly insured man in the world and all of his policies were for personal coverage.

Millions in Realty Besides.

No appraisal was included of the big realty holdings of Mr. Wanamaker in Philadelphia and other cities, but the Wanamaker store building here alone is assessed at $20,000,000 for purposes of taxation. His Philadelphia holdings also included the Liberty and Lincoln Buildings.

The appraisal of the estate, which is held in trust with the bulk of the income to be shared by his children, John Wanamaker Jr., Mrs. Gurnee Munn and Mrs. Hector Munn, was made by Archibald W. Norman and Thomas L. Prendergast on behalf of William L. Nevin, vice president of the Wanamaker stores, managing executor and trustee, and six fellow executors and trustees; William P. Gest, Levi Rue, Maurice Bower Saul, Owen J. Roberts, J. Willison Smith and R. H. Montgomery, all of Philadelphia.

The personal and household effects in the Wanamaker homes and elsewhere, appraised by Samuel T. Free-

ROOT'S PLAN FACES KEEN SENATE FIGHT; HURST GIVES REPORT

ADMINISTRATION SATISFIED

JURISTS HAIL ROOT 'GENIUS'

He Backs Seats for Dominions of Britain—Jurists Confident of Our Entry as Labors End.

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—When news came today from Geneva that the League of Nations Committee of Jurists had approved the formula for accepting Senate Reservation No. 5 in order to pave the way for the admission of the United States into the World Court, it became apparent that the irreconcilable element in the Senate did not intend to permit the acceptance of the formula without a spirited contest. The irreconcilables, it was gathered, will make every effort to delay Senate action on the formula as long as possible, and when the time comes for its consideration they will do their best to prevent its ratification.

At the same time, the administration is well satisfied with the formula as finally adopted at Geneva. The text of it was received at the State Department today by cable from the American Consul at Geneva and formed the subject of extended conferences between Secretary Kellogg, Hugh S. Gibson, Ambassador to Belgium; Theodore Merriner, chief of the department's Western European Division, and other department officials.

The original text of the formula for permitting the United States to enter the World Court under Reservation No. 5, which was drafted by Elihu Root as a member of the Committee of Jurists, had been cabled to the State Department and was approved by Mr. Coolidge, then President; Mr. Hoover, then President-elect, and Secretary Kellogg.

Administration Favorable.

From all that was learned today, there is every reason to believe that the formula as adopted, after it had been modified in accordance with suggestions of Sir Cecil Hurst, British member of the Committee of Jurists, is equally acceptable to the Washington Government. The changes made are regarded in administration circles as not embodying any marked departure from the Root formula.

While Secretary Kellogg and his departmental advisers have not had time to complete their study of the revised formula as adopted, and the attitude of this Government must be determined ultimately by President Hoover, everything indicates that the administration will be behind the formula when the time comes to present it to the Senate for acceptance.

There seems to be a general agreement that as the formula is interwoven with Reservation No. 5, it will be necessary for the Senate to ratify it.

The impression obtained today that the irreconcilable Senators, who never have been satisfied with the course of the Senate in agreeing to participation of this Government in the World Court, even with far-reaching Reservation No. 5, will make a strenuous attempt to delay action on the formula adopted at Geneva. One suggestion advanced in irreconcilable quarters was that it would be necessary to wait for the formula to be approved at a meet-

Two Summer Fishing Grounds Chosen For Hoover in Virginia and Maryland

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—President Hoover has chosen two spots where, in the coming Summer, he will enjoy his favorite recreation, fishing.

Lawrence Richey, one of the President's secretaries and an ardent angler, today purchased as his own investment the Catoctin Manor estate at Catoctin, Md. It comprises 1,500 acres, has four miles of good fishing streams and is within two hours' ride of Washington. Mr. Richey also acquired a fifteen-year lease on four additional miles of stream and this will give him and the President eight miles of the best fishing waters within 100 miles of Washington.

Arrangements were also made for the President to use a section of land in the Shenandoah National Park, near Madison, Va., through which run eighteen miles of the Rapidan River, containing several varieties of trout. This spot is three hours by automobile from the capital.

A cabin is to be built by the State of Virginia near this location, but it will be necessary to construct a long stretch of road at a cost of $14,000 before the fishing stream can be reached by automobile. Mr. Hoover, however, intends to try his luck there before the cabin is built. This spot was selected by Horace Albright, Director of National Parks; Henry O'Malley, United States Commissioner of Fisheries, and Mr. Richey.

The last session of Congress authorized the expenditure of $48,000 to make suitable for the use of Presidents as a Summer White House government property at Mount Weather, Loudoun County, Va., but it does not appeal to Mr. Hoover as a place for either rest or recreation, since it offers no fishing streams. It is expected that the Catoctin Manor streams, being the nearer to Washington, will be visited by the President most frequently on week-end trips during the Summer months.

The Virginia fishing ground is situated in Madison County, in a mountainous region full of enchanting scenery. It is near Criglersville. Most of the county lies on the eastern slope of the Blue Ridge.

The Village of Catoctin on the outskirts of which is the Catoctin Manor House, is a veritable spotless town. Its long main street, which is part of the road between Washington and Gettysburg, is lined by old stone houses, one-story in height, with their outside walls always covered with fresh coats of whitewash.

The village is twelve miles from Frederick. The manor property was owned by Thomas Johnson, first Governor of Maryland, and the Manor House, which is situated on the roadside, is not included in the sale to Mr. Richey. It was built in 1731 for the home of Governor Johnson.

Mr. Richey will build a cabin along the creek, in a thicket of willows, the most beautiful part of the estate, half a mile from the roadway. There President Hoover will have absolute privacy when he fishes.

CALL CAUCUS TO PICK LEADER OF TAMMANY

But Boom for McCue Gains—Outsider Likely to Be Named Friday if Caucus Fails.

On invitation of County Clerk Thomas M. Farley, fifteen Tammany district leaders with nine out of the twenty-three votes on the executive committee, met yesterday afternoon in Mr. Farley's office and issued a call for a caucus of district leaders to try to reach an agreement on a successor to George W. Olvany as leader of Tammany. The caucus will be held tomorrow afternoon at Tammany Hall.

Each of the fifteen district leaders present declared in favor of the election of one of their number to succeed Judge Olvany, now that Surrogate James A. Foley has refused definitely to permit himself to be considered for the place. The call for the caucus was issued in an attempt to bring about an agreement among the district leaders on a candidate, so that a new Tammany leader might be elected at the meeting of the executive committee on Friday. It was said to be generally understood by the district leaders that failure to agree and postponement of the election would bring about a renewal of pressure to pick some one outside their number. It is the general belief that failure to elect on Friday is likely to bring about an abandonment of the idea of electing a district leader.

Curry Seemingly in Lead.

The day ended with four avowed candidates among the district leaders, John F. Curry of the Fifth, Martin G. McCue and City Clerk Michael J. Cruise of the Twelfth and Edward J. Ahearn of the Fourth. Mr. Curry seemingly was in the lead and his friends continued to claim a majority of the leaders for him. There were indications that a block had been formed to stop the election of Mr. Ahearn, who obtained an early lead but has failed to add to his support in the last few days. A boom for Mr. McCue has started and is likely to continue. He is regarded as "the dark horse" candidate among the district leaders and it was said that it was possible that he might be chosen if Mr. Curry and Mr. Ahearn should kill each other off.

The situation among the district leaders was described as decidedly chaotic. This was reflected by the small attendance at Mr. Farley's conference, and the outlook for a much greater attendance at the proposed caucus was said to be rather discouraging. As one of the district leaders who is not a candidate phrased it, there are a lot of the leaders who are waiting for some one to suggest them for the main leadership and who have refused to attend conferences or pledge themselves to any candidate for fear of offending some of their colleagues.

It was said that in the event of a failure to agree on a leader on Friday, another attempt would be made to get Surrogate Foley to take the place for the good of the organization, despite his refusal even to take part in the selection of a leader. The present mood of the leaders is to accept advice only from Judge Foley, and possibly Mayor Walker, among those outside the executive committee.

Former Governor Smith returned yesterday after nine days' absence in Albany. Mr. Smith refused to discuss the Tammany situation with reporters. Just what steps he and his friends will take are not known, but it is expected that he will take a

HOOVER ADJUSTS PATRONAGE HERE

Machold Will Be Spokesman for Rule of "Triumvirate," Plus Snell and Parker.

HARMONY DINNER IS HELD

State Leaders and Representatives of Congress Delegation Agree to Cooperate.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—President Hoover, in the first of a series of political conferences tonight, composed the differences existing in the Republican organization in New York which developed following an earlier announcement that Messrs. Hilles, Machold and Hill would be recognized as the political power, with State Chairman Machold acting as the mouthpiece.

The powwow was held at a dinner at the White House, and after coffee and with the smoke ascending in the President's study the general political situation in New York State and its importance in national affairs were discussed with reference to the desirability of having complete harmony.

In addition to the triumvirate, Representative James S. Parker of New York was at the dinner, representing the Republican members of Congress from New York. Representative Snell, who was invited, could not attend.

The settlement reached leaves undisturbed the triumvirate set up, but adds to the inner council Representatives Snell and Parker as the representatives of the Republican members of Congress.

Discord Gone, Says Parker.

Representative Parker had conferred with President Hoover in his offices prior to the dinner. He said that Mr. Snell had been obliged to fill an engagement in Potsdam, his home town, but that he (Parker) was acting in behalf of Mr. Snell and the entire House delegation, which has been demanding a place of power in the party councils.

"There is no discord in the New York Republican organization," he said. "The little differences that existed have disappeared. All elements will be recognized and State Chairman Machold will act as our mouthpiece.

"The Republican members of Congress felt that they were in better touch with the legislative situation and ought to be recognized in party affairs. That has been agreed to, and the Republican party today is in better shape than at any other time. We expect to make a decisive showing in the coming election."

Upon leaving the White House at 11:10 o'clock Mr. Machold said briefly that the entire political situation in New York had been discussed. He said that harmony existed before the dinner and that the gathering accentuated the fact.

The outcome of the initiative taken by President Hoover as the titular head of the Republican party was that Mr. Hoover was able to satisfy himself, it was declared, that harmony had been perfected. The President was represented as satisfied that, with the members of Congress included in the councils, and a single head in the person of Mr. Machold, certain unpleasantnesses that developed earlier had now disappeared.

President Hoover is said to have traced the New York problems as he saw them and allowed his guests to fill in gaps and offer suggestions as

HOOVER WILL AVOID SPECTACULAR STEPS TO ENFORCE THE LAW

TO SEEK PUBLIC SUPPORT

Effort Will Be to Bring Realization of Need for Respecting All Statutes.

TO USE SOUND METHODS

Will Frame Businesslike and Gradual Procedure After Commission Has Reported.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The administration's program for law enforcement and the improvement of Federal judicial machinery and procedure will not be carried out in any spectacular fashion, it became known today. The administration hopes to create a public sentiment favorable to the enforcement of all laws and to the substantial, permanent advancement of the country, and to bring about public realization of the necessity of enforcing the laws as they are in the statute books.

No drastic or sensational steps are to be taken by the administration to impress the people with the abuses of prohibition enforcement. The administration hopes to obtain law enforcement by proceeding sanely through judicial reforms and by instilling in the people respect for laws which in many parts of the country are disregarded.

Through the law enforcement commission's studies the administration plans to build up law enforcement by a reorganization of both judicial administration and processes. Nothing can be accomplished by spectacular raids, it is believed. This is beyond the scope of the administration's plans. Its purpose is gradually, and as rapidly as possible, to increase the enforcement of all laws whether they relate to prohibition, narcotics, or other subjects.

Public Support Chief Aim.

The spirit of the administration is to educate the people to the necessity for respect for all law, to win their support by advocating measures which would gradually remove, through orderly processes and not sensational drives, abuses in prohibition enforcement and disregard for other laws. It is hoped to substitute in the minds of the people regard for law enforcement in place of the indifference now existing.

There is no thought that the administration can effectively carry out its program by drastic methods, descents on night clubs and the use of the Federal courts to impose the penalties of the Jones law upon prohibition violators without regard to the character of their offense. The policy to be followed will be shaped chiefly after the Law Enforcement Commission makes its survey.

To Apply Business Methods.

The administration hopes to get the best and the majority opinion behind the laws and this will be sought by education, not by drives and raids.

It is recognized by those responsible for law enforcement that these methods do not increase respect for law, but in many instances intensify opposition. The reforms sought through the law enforcement commission will win the support of the press and every decent citizen in the United States, the administration hopes.

Efficiency in government and improvement in law enforcement will be sought by President Hoover by applying sound and businesslike methods. He does not desire to be known as a superman, and there will be nothing of the sensational about the way he proceeds.

The President is going slowly in tackling prohibition and the abuses which have slowly grown up around the laws. He knows very well that the ills cannot be removed by a surgical operation. Accordingly, he is seeking men for members of the law enforcement commission who will

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, March 19.—A hole opened in the clouds to the east yesterday and despite a wind which made a flight hazardous, Commander Byrd flew through to his three men in the mountains, whose long silence had so alarmed us.

The three, Larry Gould, Bernt Balchen and Harold June, were safe and well despite hours of fighting terrific storms, and the rescue plane returned in the darkness with Balchen and June. Commander Byrd, Larry Gould and Malcom Hanson, the radio operator, who flew to the mountain with the chief, are remaining until another flight can be made to bring them back to Little America.

The wind is blowing up drift snow and it is cloudy, but there is some hope that the flight may be made later in the day. Those at the mountains are perfectly supplied, have plenty of food and fuel as well as shelter.

The silence of Gould's party at the Rockefeller Range since Thursday was explained by their battle with a terrific storm which, at its height on Saturday, wrecked their plane.

A wind of 120 miles an hour tore the plane from the snow and from the lines by which it was anchored, carried it off a mile and dropped it, a splintered wreck, on the glacier ice.

Desperate Fight to Save Plane.

The three men had worked for hours to save it in a gale which at times blew them straight out from the lines they were holding and pelted them with snow lumps from the mountain, two miles away.

But all their efforts were unavailing and, while they were getting a little rest in their tent, the plane lifted straight up in the air and disappeared in the stormy darkness.

There is no doubt that they have discovered a new Antarctic storm area comparable to that of Adelie Land, where Sir Douglas Mawson had such appalling storms.

When resting outdoors Gould and his companions had to lie flat and hold themselves in place by knives and ski sticks stuck in the ice. Only a sloping wall of snow blocks prevented their tent from being blown away.

Cloud Curtain Delays Start.

The flight was made and the rescue accomplished at a time of great depression in our camp. Failure to start the engine the day before, when the weather had been so good, made every one gloomy.

While the clouds were thick and gray overhead and over the horizon so that a curtain seemed to hang between us and the mountains, the dog teams were being prepared for their desperate attempt to get through.

Commander Byrd moved quietly but anxiously about, watching the sky and encouraging his men to greater effort. But it was evident that the delay was hard for him to bear. He feels a deep sense of responsibility for the safety of those who have come with him to this frozen land.

Early in the afternoon the clouds began to break overhead and the sun shone through. A twenty-mile wind was blowing from the east and a gap in the clouds began to widen on the horizon.

Commander Byrd gave orders to warm up the engine of a plane so that he might leave if there was the promise of even four hours of fairly good visibility.

It must be remembered that dowhere clouds cause the horizon to disappear completely and merge with the snow so that a plane flying low

By The Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, March 19.—Hays Van Gorder, a master forger, so clever with a pen that he forged his way out of Leavenworth Federal Penitentiary, is behind the bars again because the lure of his "racket" was too strong.

The astounding story of how the notorious criminal duped the officials of the prison with a forged court order for his release was revealed here today with the announcement by postal inspectors that Van Gorder had been recaptured while plying his old game of passing forged money orders.

Van Gorder forged the order that won him freedom, had it delivered into the hands of prison officials through channels that appeared to stamp it as regular, and walked away to continue his operations with only the prison officials aware that he was not safely locked up.

A flood of bogus money orders soon appeared in Middle Western States and postal inspectors followed the trail to Milan, Mo., where a suspect was arrested and identified as Van Gorder.

Postal authorities could not believe it because they were confident that Van Gorder was serving at Leavenworth. But Van Gorder was brought here and an inquiry at the prison revealed the forged court order.

A fellow-convict, C. Von Esch of St. Louis, who also gained his freedom on the fake orders, has not yet been apprehended. He was serving a sentence for violation of the narcotic law.

Postal inspectors tonight said that Von Esch walked from the prison with Von Gorder.

Warden Thomas B. White, during whose absence on a trip to Washington the men effected their strange release on March 2, admitted that an investigation was under way.

Von Gorder, aged 53, who says he was graduated from the University of Minnesota in 1908 and a former school teacher in that State and Wisconsin, denied the prison forgery tonight.

"All I know is that I was called into the office and released," he asserted.

He also denied making a similar attempt to escape eight years ago, said to have been frustrated by officials at the prison's very threshold.

JONES LAW VIOLATOR GETS 3 MONTHS HERE

JUDGE LISTS SENTENCES

Federal Judge Coleman, in sentencing yesterday the first defendant under the Jones law, outlined from the bench his future plan of procedure under that newest and severest of prohibition enforcement statutes, which provides a maximum penalty of five years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine for the transportation or sale of intoxicating liquor. He declared he would impose the following penalties:

For employes of liquor-selling resorts who plead guilty—six months in prison.

For employes of such places who are convicted after trial—a much heavier sentence.

For owners, or proprietors and employers of liquor-selling resorts who plead guilty—sentences heavier than those imposed upon employes in similar circumstances.

For employers who are convicted after trial—the severest penalties of all.

Announcement Stirs Courtroom.

A courtroom filled with defendants in liquor cases heard Judge Coleman's announcement. A buzz of seeming protest arose which caused bailiffs to rap loudly for silence. Although he did not mention fines, it was understood that the fines probably would be included in the penalties for employes who stand trial and are convicted and for all employers, whether sentenced after pleas or conviction.

Despite this announcement, however, the first victim of the Jones law was sentenced by Judge Coleman to serve only three months in prison and from that term were subtracted fourteen days which he had spent in jail since his arrest because of his inability to get a bail bond. The defendant, who pleaded guilty, is Ernest Dougall, a chef in a restaurant at 243 West Fiftieth Street.

Dougall, according to his attorney, Robert McCormack, is a World War veteran and former lieutenant in the 165th infantry (old 69th). Mr. McCormack declared his client had never been charged with any crime before and that his fourteen days in jail and the loss of his citizenship for selling a few drinks of whisky in the absence of the bartender had already amounted to a

Washington Police Map Padlock Campaign To Dry Up Capital as Example to Nation

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—A move to make the capital the driest city in the United States was started today by the Washington police. Orders were issued by Superintendent Hesse for a thorough canvass of all places suspected of selling liquor, with padlocking of every speakeasy the objective.

Dry leaders of Washington some time ago sought a thorough mopping up of liquor cases in the city, urging that the nation's capital should set an example to officials of every other city.

The police indicated that the task of obtaining padlocks would require a great deal of systematic effort. United States Attorney Rover informed the department that for successful padlock proceedings evidence must be furnished to "show such a continuity of violations as to establish the fact that the particular premises are being used as a regular course of business" for keeping and selling liquor.

Seeking to pile up all the evidence possible against places for which padlocking is to be sought, the police department has planned a thorough study of its records of past arrests for prohibition law violations. Evidence of arrests having a bearing on the cases in question will be employed to show "continuity of violations."

To aid the police, Mr. Rover drew up an outline of evidence required for padlocking procedure. This called for complete data concerning the places alleged to have become a public nuisance, along with a record concerning each liquor law violation in which the place had figured.

to get under them is always facing the danger of flying into the ground.

The surface becomes invisible and it is impossible to tell whether it is one hundred or a thousand feet below. The altimeter gives no indication of a rise in the snow slope. And when drift obscures the surface, the problem of a forced landing is so complicated that a safe one is largely a matter of luck.

Byrd Makes His Decision.

The wind was about twenty-two miles an hour and there was a little drift scurrying over the snow when Commander Byrd went out to look at the weather and found that there was a chance of being able to fly at least some distance toward the East. He did not know what the conditions were at the mountains.

He conferred with William C. (Cyclone) Haines, the meteorologist, who thought the weather was about as good as could be anticipated. It was about 3 o'clock.

Commander Byrd sat down in the room which has become our library and thought it over. He had on a green knitted wool hood and swung his fur hat in his hand. He knew the flight was a gamble, but felt that there was a chance of success. He looked up and rose to his feet.

"All right, we'll try it," he said and climbed up the steps in the snow that lead from our house to the surface above.

Engine Promptly Responds.

Mechanics had the motor in perfect condition. The blow torch hissed under the fireproof funnel that led to a hood covering the entire motor. Hot oil was poured into the tank. The hood was removed and the engine was started, this time with a sputtering and barking which soon steadied down to an even and powerful roar.

Dean Smith, the pilot, nursed it carefully and tested the mixture as he opened and closed the throttle, listening intently.

Dean is a huge man, well over six feet and weighing over 200 pounds. He is slow and deliberate of speech, a man who chooses his words with a cultured appreciation of their value, intelligent and resourceful. The fact that he is alive after years of flying the night mail between New York and Cleveland is sufficient acknowledgement of his skill as a pilot.

Malcolm Hanson, the radio operator, is of an entirely different type. He is short and intensely active, highly strung and a demon for work. And he is a radio engineer of great ability. These two men Commander Byrd selected for the flight.

Sun Gleams Over the Course.

The plane was moved with some difficulty from the bed of snow in which it has been for days and Dean turned it up the hill to the west for the take-off.

Threatening as the weather was at a distance, it was beautifully clear over the field. The sun, hanging low over the horizon, was a shimmering ball of red gold and its rays turned the drifting snow flurries into tongues of flame.

To the north a bank of dark cloud hung over the sea and to the south was another ominous cloud. But to the east was a patch of olive-green sky exactly on the plane's course.

Dean taxied up the slope in the broad path of sunlight in which the distant edge of the cape to his left was etched. He turned and started down, heading into the stiff wind. The surface was hard and hummocked and the plane bounced and swayed alarmingly. It was rough going and the skis were badly punished.

"I expected to look over the side and see them in pieces," said Dean, later.

Plane Vanishes in Hole in Clouds.

But the stiff wind soon lifted the plane, and it shook off the treacherous surface and climbed slowly and in a straight line for that distant hole in the clouds. In a few minutes it had vanished.

Work was forgotten, and the room where the radio is located was filled with men, talking over the chances of success.

The brief message that all was well and that they were dodging clouds did not tell of the weird sensation of flying into the growing twilight where the horizon disappeared, nor of the drift below which swirled amid the thick fog and hid the ground, nor the apparent closing in of the clouds behind them, hiding the sun and cutting them off from return.

All we knew was that they were flying into the unknown, facing dangers which all aviators avoid when possible, on an errand the outcome of which we dreaded.

An hour and a half went by and then came word that they were at the first mountain. They passed another mountain, but there was no sign of the missing plane.

Men were listening around the buzzing loudspeaker from which the sound of the motor of Commander Byrd's plane came like an echo of a distant wind.

Missing Party Is Sighted.

Signals ticked in, and looking over Howard Mason's shoulder as he copied the message, one suddenly read:

"See the plane now. Some one below waving."

A shout went up, "They are safe!" But there was only one man apparently. The message said, "Someone."

Where were the others? Were they dead or injured in the tent? We asked ourselves these questions looking at each other, sucking at forgotten and unlighted pipes.

We could see that tiny light flashing up in the morning darkness. What dreadful message did it carry?

"Landing," the Pencil Spelled Out.

We looked at each other in amazement and fear. The blinker must have told of something very serious if they were to chance a landing in that poor light after a storm that had bumped and torn the surface. Could they do it safely? We were a silent and worried group of men.

There was a long period of silence. Mason looked up and said they had taken in the antenna and he could no longer hear the engine after it had been throttled down for the glide.

We could imagine Dean, cool and resourceful, looking first to one and then to the other side, stalling in over a surface he could not see accurately, waiting for the first shock of touching. The moments dragged as Mason twiddled his dials, turning them back and forth without results. Suddenly he picked up his pencil.

"Landed O.K., every one O.K.," he wrote.

The shadow of gloom which had hung over us all day was lifted by those commonplace little words. Men jumped up and down and pounded each other on the back until Mason, the most imperturbable member of the expedition, looked up with a frown of annoyance. He wanted to hear the message.

Got Word From Plane.

There was nothing more for the time, and then came a message that startled us. It was from the plane, and was sent by June, the chubby, calm eyed and efficient pilot who has been acting as radio operator on the flights.

He and Balchen were on their way back with Smith and were twenty minutes out from the mountains in the approaching darkness. Commander Byrd was staying behind with Hanson and Larry Gould until they could be reached on another flight.

They tumbled to their feet and ran out on the field. They waved their fur parkas, for it was bitterly cold out there, with the wind blowing strong from the east.

We stared into that wall of darkness above which a few stars twinkled dimly. Behind us was the faint glow left by the sun, a cold pale radiance that marked the horizon sharply under a line of broken clouds. It was that glow that Dean Smith was steering by as he headed toward the coast above the clouds until he could see the dark shadow of the sea among them.

Then he turned and followed along what he believed to be the Barrier wall, flying without seeing anything below him, hoping that open spot which we had told his was above us had not closed.

Twenty minutes away, and cans bolding rags soaked in kerosene were set out in the row at right angles to the wind so that he could land between them. A lantern was held up to the mouth of the orange marker so that it showed clearly in the gloom.

SHARK FIGHTS LAUDER FOR THREE PENNY TIP

Sir Harry was fishing in the Bay of Islands, and by extraordinary luck was able, within two hours, to hook a swordfish, as game a fighter as the ocean can offer and a great prize in these parts.

Apparently attracted by its deadly enemy, a shark of medium size, had been lurking in the vicinity. No sooner had Sir Harry cast his line again than a terrific tug, quite unexpected, unbalanced him and would have carried him headlong into the water had not the boatman helped him to keep to his feet.

The fish, seen to be the shark, fought frantically for half an hour. Then, as it was brought in, apparently exhausted, it snapped viciously at Sir Harry's hand.

Sir Harry dryly said it would have been a terrible thing if the shark had taken his hand, for he was holding a threepenny bit in it with which he was going to tip the boatman for saving his life.

ENRIGHT GETS $3,750 FUND.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 19.—A controversy of three years' standing over the pension awarded to former Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright of New York City by former Mayor John F. Hylan, culminated today in the Court of Appeals in a partial victory for Mr. Enright.

Mr. Enright retired as Commissioner on Dec. 30, 1925, and at that time a pension of $5,000 was allotted to him. The award was attacked by W. J. Schieffelin, in behalf of the Citizens Union, as in contravention of certain provisions of the New York City Charter.

The Court of Appeals, in an opinion by Judge Frederick E. Crane, specifically held that the retirement of Mr. Enright with a pension giving him half his salary as Commissioner, or $5,000, was irregular, but that he could be retired as chief inspector and thus was entitled to $3,750 a year.

"The Mayor retired the Commissioner on a pension of $5,000," the opinion of Judge Crane reads. "This was too much. The Corporation Counsel concedes it should have been $3,750. The judgment of the Special Term (Supreme Court) restrained the trustees and treasurer of the Police Pension Fund from paying to Enright any pension whatever. This judgment must be modified by allowing to the ex-Commissioner a pension of $3,750 and enjoining only the payment of any sum in excess of that amount. As both sides have been partially successful in this court, no costs will be allowed."

COOLIDGE COMING TO NEW YORK TODAY

MAY BUY HIS "USED" CAR

Limousine He Had In Washington to Be Brought to Northampton for Inspection.

Special to The New York Times.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., March 19.—Calvin Coolidge is going to New York tomorrow for conferences with friends.

It is generally assumed that his trip is in line with his recent announcement that he had finished all magazine articles for which he had contracts and would prefer an executive position.

It is understood here that he has had many offers from large concerns as a result of this statement and can become associated with any one of several large business organizations. An insurance company is reported as interested.

Mr. Coolidge's reputation for thrift, according to experts, would make him an asset of great value for any banking or business organization with which he became associated.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., March 19 (AP).—Calvin Coolidge has decided to purchase the limousine he used during his last year in the White House. This was learned today when the former President met newspaper men in his law office here.

The government furnishes the Chief Executive with a new automobile each year, disposing of the old one. The one used by Mr. Coolidge is to be brought here for his inspection. Neither he nor Mrs. Coolidge will drive the machine, however.

Mr. Coolidge's retirement from public life has not brought with it entire freedom from public demands. He continues to receive more mail than he can answer. Two stenographers have been engaged to attend to his correspondence, a large portion of which requires personal replies. Mrs. Coolidge also receives a large amount of mail each day. A secretary for her has not yet been engaged, although it is felt one may become desirable.

The President today received a memento which gave him considerable pleasure. It was a colored woodcut of Main Street, Northampton, as it appeared seventy-five years ago. The woodcut was sent by Philip Blackburn Smith of Bermuda, who had purchased it in England.

Mr. Coolidge has so far made no plans for trout fishing, although the open season begins on April 15 in this State. At present all his exercise is derived from walking to and from his office.

THAW SUIT TO BE RETRIED.

Jury Disagrees on Woman's $100,000 Action Charging Attack.

The $100,000 damage suit against Harry K. Thaw, brought by Marcia Estardus of 1,552 Lawrence Avenue, the Bronx, on charges that he attacked her at a New Year's party in 1927, will have to be tried again, because the jury which heard the case on Monday reported yesterday its inability to agree.

Although the plaintiff insisted she had been bruised and bitten by Thaw and produced witnesses, the defendant offered evidence to the contrary. Thaw did not testify and was not in court.

PRINCE TO BE MASON.

British Heir Will Join New Barristers' Lodge.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 20.—The Prince of Wales will soon become a "Barrister-Mason." He is to be installed as an immediate Past Master of the new Masonic Lodge for barristers of the Middle Temple, according to The Daily Express.

A warrant for establishment of the lodge has been granted by the Grand Lodge of England, the membership being confined to members of the Middle Temple. The Prince is already a "bencher" of the Middle Temple.

Col. Donovan a White House Guest.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Colonel William J. Donovan, whose failure to obtain a place in the Hoover Cabinet aroused much interest last month, was a guest at the White House today. Others at luncheon were Representative Swing of California, ex-Representative Walter H. Newton and Frank K. Heath of Grand Rapids.

Navy Adopts 'Lung' Device for Submarines; Orders 7,000 as Standard Safety Equipment

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The oxygen bag developed by Lieutenant C. B. Momsen of the navy, which is known as the "lung" device for the rescue of men imprisoned in submarines below the surface, is being adopted as standard by the navy. Announcement was made today that, since exhaustive tests of it had established a satisfactory record, the "lung" device would be placed on all submarines in connection with trap-door arrangements which would permit the escape of imprisoned crews to the surface with relative safety. Orders were recently placed for 700 of the bags and today 6,300 more were contracted for, making an average of nearly three to each of the 2,600 officers and men of the submarine personnel.

They will be completed and placed in all submersibles within three months. First installations will be on the new V-boats, or fleet submarines. Next they will be placed on forty-six S-boats now in commission and then on twenty R and nine O type submarines.

The "lung," which resembles a gas mask, has a rubber oxygen container with a mouthpiece which fits between the teeth and lips to prevent the entrance of water. The bag contains oxygen and in tests conducted thus far has left no ill effects upon the men.

Danger of the "bends" is largely absent, it was said, because more time is required for this malady to develop than is consumed in the ascent to the surface from any depths to which submarines can go.

Tests have been successfully conducted from depths of 200 feet, it was reported. They were held first at the Washington Navy Yard and then at Dahlgren, off the Naval Proving Grounds in the Potomac River; in the Chesapeake Bay, off New London, Conn., and near Key West, Fla.

The "lung" is donned by the man escaping from the undersea vessel. The bag is filled from a tube attached to an oxygen tank and he enters an escape hatch. His entrance to the escape hatch is closed off from the submarine, the hatch is flooded, and a buoy, to which is attached a long line, also attached to the ship end, is released. Slipping out of the hatch, the man lets himself slowly up the buoy line to the surface.

BRAZIL DENIES LOAN PLAN.

London Offer Not Accepted Due to Unfavorable Market Conditions.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAO PAULO, March 19.—The Minister of the Treasury states that the reports published yesterday, based on information in the Journal de Commercio of Rio de Janeiro, regarding an exchange stabilization loan are incorrect; that the government has not negotiated a loan and that the government does not consider a loan necessary at present in order to carry out the exchange stabilization plan.

The Journal de Commercio replied today, stating that its information was sent from London to a Rio de Janeiro firm that is accustomed to depend on the London contact. The Diario de Sao Paulo says:

"We have followed for more than five weeks the negotiations for the loan, even indicating the London bankers, namely, N. M. Rothschild & Sons, from whom the government received an offer in January of £15,000,000 to complete the government's financial plan to make all the paper currency convertible into gold, but we are now reliably informed that the government does not plan to accept the loan at present, which Rothschild was preparing, probably with Dillon, Read & Co., as the money market conditions are not considered favorable.

"We know the President does not plan to make a conversion loan without first obtaining the approval of the board of the Bank of Brazil to make it a central bank of commission and rediscount.

SEE ROYAL RECONCILIATION

Rumanians Say Marie Will Seek It With Carol in France.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUCHAREST, March 19.—Despite all public denials, there is a well-grounded report that Queen Marie plans to resume close relations with former Crown Prince Carol during her present visit to France. The Queen has already given her villa on the Cote d'Azure to the Prince.

A way to reconciliation between the Queen and her son, it is understood, was prepared at a meeting between Prince Carol and his sister, Princess Ileana, at Hohenzollern Palace, in Sigmaringen, Germany.

The meeting, it is understood, was fruitfully spent by the Prince in sowing seeds which, it is now expected, will lead to at least partial reconciliation with his mother. Whether Carol will ever be allowed to return to his native soil is another question.

According to a dispatch to THE NEW YORK TIMES, Queen Marie had lunch with Prince Carol in Paris on Sunday.

London Times Favors Court Plan.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 19.—The London Times alone among London's journals will comment tomorrow upon the labors of the jurists at Geneva. It will say that the new articles certainly seem to lay a firm basis upon which the United States, "if it desires to act upon Secretary Kellogg's suggestion," may enter the World Court. "The procedure arranged looks on paper to be clumsy and likely to be productive of delays," it continues. "In practice, however, the objection my not prove to be serious, since, in common with all legal proceedings, a certain slowness is inevitable in the business at The Hague.

The 212th Coast Artillery of the New York National Guard was reviewed by Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen last night at the regiment's armory, 120 West Sixty-second Street. FOCH IS MUCH BETTER.

Sound Sleep Lowers Both His Temperature and Pulse Rate.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 19.—Marshal Foch had a good night and his improvement continued throughout the day.

His physicians reported that the patient benefited greatly by a sound sleep, which had lowered both his temperature and pulse. Dr. Davenieve said after his evening visit:

"We have every reason now to hope for the long delayed favorable turn in the Marshal's condition."

CITY LOSES APPEAL ON NASSAU LINE

BOUNDARY CHANGE STANDS

Because Measure Was Not Passed With Emergency Clause It Was Attacked by City.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 19.—The Court of Appeals today decided that the changes made in the boundary lines between the City of New York and the Town of Hempstead by Chapter 802 of the laws of 1928 are constitutional. Judge Irving Lehman wrote the court's opinion. The City of New York contended that the act relates to the property affairs or government of the city and that it is special or local in its terms. Because the act was not passed with an emergency message, the city asserted that it violated the Constitution.

"The act passed by the Legislature," Judge Lehman wrote, "which the plaintiff (city) challenges in this action, does more than settle the location of a disputed boundary. True, there had been disputes as to the correct line, but there can be little doubt that the line, as defined by the act, is, at least in part, a new line. A strip of land varying in width from 100 to 400 feet and approximately a mile long is declared to be part of Nassau County, and there seems to be no dispute that some of this strip was included within the limits of the city of New York, as defined in the charter."

"We recognize that, conceivably, in some cases the effect of a change in the boundaries of a city upon its property affairs or government might be very serious," the opinion concluded. "Disconnection of territory might render the existing form of government of a city inappropriate to meet the needs of the altered boundaries. It might place outside of the altered boundaries property of the city of substantial value. We do not now pass upon such a situation."

ROW DELAYS INDIA FLIGHTS.

British Cannot Start Till Italy and Greece Agree on Port of Call.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 19.—A conflict between Italy and Greece over the organization of the Italian air route between Genoa and Alexandria, it was announced tonight, had resulted in delaying the opening of Great Britain's great trunk airway from London to India.

The British planes were all ready to start within ten days on their weekly schedule, but the Italians, who had arranged to operate a mid-week trip in conjunction with them, have refused to make Athens a port of call between Genoa and Alexandria. Though the week-end service over the same route is to be made exclusively by British planes, a start cannot be made until Italy and Greece reach an agreement.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., March 19 (AP).—The two Episcopalian missionary sisters who died today on the Island of Luzon were from St. Mary's Episcopal Convent on Mount St. Gabriel, near here.

Pending official confirmation of the deaths the family names of the sisters were not given out.

hand in the situation, particularly if the executive committee fails to elect a new leader on Friday.

Mayor Walker continued to interest himself in the situation. Among the leaders who called on him during the day were Nathan Burkhan, Mr. Curry and the latter's chief supporter, Mr. Hines. Another caller was John H. McCooey, Brooklyn Democratic leader. Mr. McCooey admitted that he had discussed the Tammany situation incidentally with the Mayor but said that it was mentioned only casually since it was not the province of a Brooklynite to take any part in a controversy which concerned only Manhattan. Mr. McCooey explained that the purpose of his visit was to urge the appointment of Frederick G. Lemmerman as Commissioner of Public Welfare to succeed Bird S. Coler, a resident of Brooklyn. Mr. McCooey added that the Mayor for certain reasons did not wish to make the appointment immediately but said he hoped he would appoint Mr. Lemmerman eventually.

Three of the four candidates for the leadership, Mr. Curry, Mr. McCue and Mr. Cruise, attended the Farley conference. No supporters of Ahearn were present. It was learned that the Ahearn men, under the leadership of Clarence H. Neal Jr. of the Twentieth, and Charles H. Hussey of the Third, held a conference of their own during the day.

The Tammany executive committee consists of thirty-four men and thirty-five votes. Today, there being a vacancy in the Seventh District, caused by the death of James J. Hagan, to which Marshall Ingraham is expected to be elected next Monday night. The vote is by Assembly districts, each district having one vote. Some of the districts have two men leaders and some three, in which case each leader has a fractional vote. Assuming that the women co-leaders will vote with the men leaders, as always has been the case, the voting power of the district leaders at the Farley conference is as follows:

One-third vote each — William L. Kavanagh, Third; Charles J. McManus and John F. Curry, Fifth; William P. Kenneally, Martin G. McCue and Michael J. Cruise, Twelfth; total, 2; grand total, 9.

Mr. Farley came out of the conference room with Mr. Curry, whom he is understood to be supporting. Both were smiling broadly.

"This was an unofficial conference," Mr. Farley said. "No one had any authority to call it. I sent out an invitation and the men here responded to that invitation. The purpose was to hear expressions on the leadership. We held an informal discussion and decided that telegrams should be sent out for a caucus at Tammany Hall Thursday afternoon.

"In the discussion over the leadership we did not take up any one man. There were three candidates present. Curry, McCue and Cruise. I am not a candidate. I understand that there has been mention of Stephen Ruddy as a candidate but no one spoke for him at the meeting."

Mr. Farley said that attendance at the caucus, of course, would be voluntary and that there was no way to bind those who did attend. He said there had been no proposal to have some informal balloting and require the low man on each ballot to drop out and declared that those at the conference had not declared in favor of any candidate.

"When we caucus on Thursday, I'd like to lock them in a room until they agree on a leader and then let them out again. The conference this afternoon was a unit for the selection of a district leader and it was a unit for a caucus."

Three Others Suggested.

No new candidates for the leadership developed during the day, although there were suggestions of Stephen Ruddy of the Sixteenth District, Peter J. Hamill of the First and Joseph J. McCormick of the Twenty-second among the district leaders. Development of candidacies outside the ranks of the district leaders will await the result of Friday's meeting, it was said. In case of a failure to elect a new leader on that day, it was said, some new names undoubtedly will be suggested and it is probable that there will be conferences of influential members of Tammany outside the executive committee and that such men as Mr. Smith, Mayor Walker, United States Senator Robert F. Wagner and Judge Foley would be asked to participate.

Mayor Walker is said to have refrained so far from indicating a preference for any candidate. He is regarded as friendly to Mr. Curry, Mr. McCue and Mr. Cruise, but opposed to Mr. Ahearn.

In Republican circles the scramble for the leadership was regarded as holding promise of victory in the city campaign.

CITY SALARY BILL SENT TO ROOSEVELT

WHALEN BACKS PROPOSAL

Commissioner Will Urge the Governor to Sign and Will Campaign for It.

REAPPORTIONING BILL IN

Roosevelt Asks Change in Law to Permit Payment for the Queens Sewer Inquiry.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 19.—After members of the New York City Board of Estimate and Apportionment had been characterized by Assemblyman Hutchinson as "political cowards," the Assembly today passed and sent to Governor Roosevelt the Kennedy bill providing for a referendum in the city this Fall on the question of fixing the minimum salaries of first grade policemen and firemen at $3,000 a year.

Seven up-State Republicans voted against the measure. Assemblyman Hutchinson, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, charged the Board of Estimate with "passing the buck" to the Legislature.

"The board has the authority to fix the salaries of the policemen and firemen at $3,000 a year. Why don't they go ahead and do it?" he said.

Assemblyman Bloch, Democratic leader, replied that the policemen and firemen preferred to have the salary question first submitted to the voters of New York.

"There is no doubt that the voters of New York favor this salary increase for the policemen and firemen," Mr. Bloch said.

"Well, then, in Heaven's name, why doesn't the Board of Estimate go ahead and increase the salaries?" interrupted Assemblyman Hutchinson.

May Take Up Dry Bills Today.

Both houses held fairly long sessions today disposing of minor bills. It had been expected the fight to pass the State prohibition enforcement bill would flare up in the House, but Assemblyman Jenks, dry leader, was prevented from moving to have the Codes Committee discharged from further consideration of his bills because of the absence of one or two dry Republicans.

There appears to be great uneasiness in the dry camp despite the fact that the advocates of prohibition are claiming 76 votes for the Jenks bills. Assemblyman Jenks admitted he did not have "one vote to spare" and that he would not attempt to pass his measure unless every dry Republican was present. The absence of one dry, it was said, would likely mean the defeat of the prohibition measures. If all the Republican Assemblymen are present at tomorrow's session, Mr. Jenks expects to move his bills.

Republican members of the Senate held a brief conference this afternoon but adjourned, subject to the call of Senator John Knight, president pro tem. It had been planned to take up tax reduction and farm relief measures and consider other legislation with the view of cleaning the calendar preparatory to final adjournment one week from tomorrow.

Reapportionment Bill Offered.

The long-awaited reapportionment bill made its appearance today. It was sponsored by the reapportionment committees of the Senate and Assembly. Some changes will be made in the measure, however, before it is passed and sent to Governor Roosevelt. Former Governor Smith vetoed an almost similar bill in 1926 and there are indications that the present measure will meet the same fate at the hands of Governor Roosevelt.

Under the bill the Senate would be composed of fifty-two instead of fifty-one Senators. This is done by dividing Suffolk and Nassau counties, now comprising the First Senatorial District, into two separate districts. In order to create this new district the committee had to provide for some changes in the up-State districts and new Forty-first and new Forty-second Districts were proposed.

The proposed new Forty-first Senatorial District would be composed of the counties of Broome, Tioga and Chemung. At present the Fortieth District is composed of the counties of Broome, Chenango and Cortland. The new Forty-second District would be composed of Chenango, Schuyler, Tompkins and Cortland. The present Forty-first District is made up of the counties of Tioga, Chemung, Schuyler and Tompkins.

Under the measure New York City gains one Assembly district net. Manhattan would lose four Assembly districts and two Senatorial districts; Bronx would gain two Assembly districts; Nassau would have three Assembly districts instead of two; Queens would gain one Senate and three Assembly Districts, while Richmond would remain unchanged with two Assembly districts.

Three strongly Republican up-State counties, Dutchess, St. Lawrence and Steuben, each would lose one Assembly district under the bill.

Special Message by Governor.

Governor Roosevelt sent a brief special message to the Legislature today urging the enactment of a bill to amend the public officers' law so that $30,000 expenses incurred last year when Justice Townsend Scudder was named a Moreland commissioner by former Governor Smith in the Queens sewer scandal may be paid. The New York City Corporation Counsel has held that under a decision of the Court of Appeals this expense cannot be paid by the city unless the present law is amended.

Justice Scudder served as Moreland commissioner from Feb. 8 to March 1 last year and then the Court of Appeals held such service by a Supreme Court Justice was in violation of the Constitution.

"Inasmuch as these expenses were incurred in good faith and in the service of the public, I recommend that legislation be enacted curing the defect in the statute," Governor Roosevelt wrote in his message.

Two Crime Bills Adopted.

Two bills sponsored by the Baumes Crime Commission were passed today. The Senate approved a measure providing for simplified indictments. The Assembly passed a bill under which a person would be permitted to plead to information laid by a District Attorney instead of waiting until an indictment is returned. This is designed to speed up trials of criminal cases.

By a party vote the Assembly today rejected a motion by Assemblyman Bloch under which the minority leader of the Assembly would have been notified in advance in writing of all meetings of the Ways and Means Committee.

"The Ways and Means Committee works in secret now and I feel that the minority leader should know when the committee is planning to meet," Mr. Bloch said.

The Senate adopted a resolution by Senator Hofstadter, New York Republican, memorializing Congress to allow Porto Rico to elect its own Governor instead of having a Governor appointed by the President.

Whalen Favors Pay Increase.

Informed by Joseph Moran, president of the Patrolman's Benevolent Association, who is in Albany, that the Legislature had authorized a referendum in New York City on the question of raising the pay of policemen and firemen, Police Commissioner Whalen yesterday gave his emphatic approval of this and said he would campaign for the increase.

Saying he would submit a memorandum to the Governor, showing the need for the increase and urging him to sign the bill, Commissioner Whalen stated that higher pay would result in better patrolmen and an improvement in the service of the department. He believes that not only first grade men but "rookies" as well should receive higher pay, and said he would do all in his power to get it for them.

Mr. Whalen also said he was gratified to learn that the Legislature had granted the former Police Commissioner, Richard E. Enright, a yearly pension of $3,750.

"I am glad of that," said the Commissioner. "Mr. Enright put many years in the Police Department, and it is only fair that he should get a pension. He should not be deprived of it because he held an executive position."

Income Tax Totals Continue to Rise; Receipts for 16 Days Show $13,000,000 Gain

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Treasury officials appear confident that if the present ratio of gain in the collection of income taxes continues a comfortable surplus will be reported on June 30, the end of the fiscal year 1929.

A month ago it was officially estimated that the Treasury surplus for the year would approximate $26,000,000. Figures made public by General Lord, director of the budget, on Jan. 28 indicated a deficit of about $37,000,000.

The budget for 1930, as submitted to Congress in December, showed a possible surplus for the current year of $36,990,000. General Lord changed his estimate a month later and predicted a deficit instead of a surplus because of some extraordinary expenditures that he had not taken into account in preparing the budget estimates in December. Among them was one item of $75,000,000 appropriated by Congress to settle claims for tax refunds.

Now things are looking up, and while the Treasury officials will not say so for publication, they are fairly confident the government will close its books for the year with a surplus.

Comparing the first sixteen days of March of this year with the corresponding period of March, 1928, income taxes have increased more than $13,000,000. The total was $109,346,854, as against $96,789,053 for the same period in March, 1928.

For the fiscal year up to date, as compared with the corresponding period a year ago, there was a drop of more than $9,000,000, or from $1,204,294,128 to $1,194,547,649. Nevertheless, Treasury officials are satisfied that if the monthly figures indicate a trend upward the department will open its books on July 1 with a surplus instead of the deficit that was pictured by the budget director in his statement of Jan. 28.

Total collections from income tax at the end of the March quarter were $597,137,852, as compared with $604,583,981 at the end of the corresponding quarter in 1927.

SURVEY BOARD BARS COMPENSATION FUND

IT PRAISES MISS PERKINS

Urges Listing of Silicosis as Compensatory Disease, Assails the "Padrone" System in State.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 19.—The Industrial Survey Commission, in its annual report to the Legislature today, rejected almost in toto the recommendations of Professor Lindsay Rogers of Columbia University, who was appointed by former Governor Smith a Moreland act commissioner to investigate the State Labor Department.

The findings of Professor Rogers, printed in three parts, after several months of study last year, were transmitted to the Legislature by Governor Roosevelt and are now pending.

The Survey Commission's report presents agreement only on one minor proposition—that lump sum settlements for injuries in workmen's compensation cases be placed under the exclusive jurisdiction of the Industrial Board, to prevent improvident use of awards. The report specifically rejects Professor Rogers's major proposals for reorganizing the workmen's compensation system, including the suggestions that the Industrial Board assume the administrative duties in the Compensation Bureau now held by the Industrial Commissioner, and that a $5,000,000 revolving fund be placed at the disposal of the bureau to improve its efficiency.

Professor Rogers was appointed commissioner at a time when charges against the Labor Department were emanating from the Industrial Survey Commission; and he took occasion not only to examine some of its members, but to criticize the method of selecting its personnel and the affiliations of its executive secretary, Henry D. Sayer.

The report today goes a long way toward satisfying one demand of the State Federation of Labor by urging the inclusion of almost a score of occupational diseases for which workmen's compensation should be awarded. Among them is silicosis, a lung disease prevalent among quarry workers and stone blasters, especially excavators of the new subway lines in New York City.

The regulation of employment agencies is recommended.

The handling of laborers in a sort of "padrone" system, which it asserts has appeared in the State, is assailed by the commission. Great numbers of men are shipped out of New York City to labor agents or camps and farmed out on consignment to unknown employers, the report states.

Taking up Professor Rogers's findings, the Survey Commission declares that he agrees with it on the "demoralization of the Workmen's Compensation Bureau."

"Both investigations disclosed that fraudulent claims were being passed through the department," it asserts.

Since the inquiries, Miss Frances Perkins has become Industrial Commissioner, the report points out, declaring that she has sought cooperation and should be assisted to correct conditions.

STALIN FORCES RAID TROTSKY SESSION HERE

'Right Wing' Sympathizers Are Routed in Clash at Labor Temple.

Last night for the second time a New York meeting to protest the expulsion of Leon Trotsky from the Soviet Union turned into a near riot. The first occasion was several weeks ago. In the outbreak last evening some half-dozen members of the "right wing," or Stalin group, were pummeled and about two dozen were ejected from the Labor Temple at 242 East Fourteenth Street.

There were extra patrolmen on guard at the building in preparation for possible trouble, but the two dozen men and women of the "right wing" managed to enter a rear door while the first speaker, Martin Abern, was talking. The fight started immediately.

Some persons in the audience started forward to eject the newcomers; the latter drifted toward the rostrum apparently with intent to assault the speakers. The forces met near the raised platform. Pieces of lath and sticks were used; the fight lasted several minutes. Then the police dashed into the struggle and the Stalinites were overwhelmed.

Several of the intruders suffered scalp wounds; two of them were taken away for medical attention. No ambulances were called, however, and the condition of the injured was not regarded as serious.

"Journey's End" Company Here.

The entire company of "Journey's End," an English war play, arrived yesterday on the Aquitania, to present the production at the Henry Miller Theatre here. The cast was accompanied by Gilbert Miller, who will produce the play. Mr. Miller said he would continue his plan of organizing and casting his plays abroad and then bringing them here for production, thus saving a considerable sum in placing a show on Broadway.

DOOM POWER PLANS, URGED BY ROOSEVELT

Republicans Plan to Kill Bill as It Is Introduced by Democratic Leaders.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 19.—A bill carrying out Governor Roosevelt's recommendation for the creation of a board of trustees to plan for State development of the water power resources of the St. Lawrence River, today was introduced by Senator Downing and Assemblyman Bloch, Democratic leaders.

In the House, Mr. Bloch attempted to have the measure immediately advanced to the order of second reading, but Assemblyman Dunmore, Republican floor leader objected.

Republican leaders have definitely decided not to follow the Governor's water power suggestions and the bill will be allowed to die in committee.

The Republican legislative chiefs have taken the position that Governor Roosevelt's power proposal is the long-advocated plan of former Governor Smith "dressed in a new suit."

PASSAGE ASSURED OF THE FUSION BILL

HEARING HELD AT ALBANY

Chadbourne and Others Urge the Proposal as Basis for Fight Against Tammany.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 19.—After a public hearing today before the Senate Judiciary Committee on the Hofstadter-Moffat bill to substitute the city convention for the direct primary as an agency for the nomination of candidates for Mayor and other elective city, borough and county offices in New York City, it was learned that Senator Hofstadter had received substantial assurances from the Republican leaders that the bill would pass.

This indicates that unless Governor Roosevelt objects to the measure the next Mayor of New York City will be nominated by a city convention and thus the way prepared for a strong anti-Tammany fusion movement in the city election this Fall.

While it has not received official backing from the Republican organizations of the five New York City counties, it is thoroughly understood that they look with favor upon the bill, which originated with the Young Republican Club of Manhattan.

The bill has the support of many independent Democrats whose names have appeared repeatedly on the roster of New York City fusion movements and who might be classed as "Roosevelt Democrats" in the sense that, like the Governor, they have achieved their greatest distinction from display of the necessary courage to oppose Tammany in its own stronghold.

Tammany Hall Silent.

While Tammany dominates the Democratic side of both the Senate and Assembly, none of its spokesmen appeared at the public hearing today to oppose the bill. In fact, there is a distinct impression at the Capitol that, while the Hofstadter-Moffat bill was conceived as an anti-Tammany measure, Tammany would not be averse to its passage, for all that it was stated by a Democratic lawmaker that Democrats might find it awkward to vote for the city convention bill and Governor Roosevelt to approve it because the Democratic State platform contains a strong endorsement of the direct primary as opposed to the convention system of nominating candidates for public office.

The only opposition that materialized at the public hearing today came from organized labor. John M. O'Hanlon, legislative agent of the New York State Federation of Labor, presented a resolution which he said had been unanimously adopted by the Central Trades and Labor Council of New York City opposing the bill and he also placed the federation on record in opposition.

The Central Trades and Labor Council, Mr. O'Hanlon said, could speak for 750,000 workers who live in the city of New York.

William M. Chadbourne, a New York City Republican of prominence who was conspicuous in the Mitchel fusion movements both in 1913 and 1917, was the principal advocate at the hearing of favorable action upon the measure. Mr. Chadbourne filed with the Senate Judiciary Committee a statement in favor of the measure in which he gave the names of thirty survivors of the two Mitchel fusion campaign committees who have come out strongly for its passage. He said that only one out of the number he had canvassed had opposed it.

Mr. Chadbourne is looked upon as a prospective central figure in any 1929 fusion that may be undertaken.

Mr. Chadbourne said he had canvassed sixty surviving members of the 1913 Fusion committee with regard to the Hofstadter-Moffat bill. Thirty-one, he said, had expressed an opinion and all except one in favor of the measure.

Other Supporters Are Heard.

Three of these appeared at the hearing and went on record in favor of the bill. They were Joseph M. Price, who was chairman of the executive committee of the 1913 Fusion committee and is an independent Democrat; George W. Felter, president of the Greenpoint Savings Bank in Brooklyn, and Edgar F. Hazleton, president of the Queensboro Savings Bank.

Edward E. Lumbard, president of the New York Young Republican Club, and Charles D. Williams, a prominent member of it, also spoke in favor of the measure.

Mr. Williams read a letter from Henry De Forest Baldwin, another independent Democrat who has been conspicuous in anti-Tammany fusion movements.

"This legislation is in no sense partisan," Mr. Baldwin said in his letter, which was filed with the committee. "I am and always have been a Democrat, although I have supported fusion candidates in Mayoralty elections. My experience has been that the Democratic party has always nominated better men when faced with the threat of the election of strong opponents."

EXHIBITION IS OPENED BY NATIONAL ACADEMY

The 104th annual exhibition of the National Academy of Design was opened yesterday with a reception at the American Fine Arts Society Building, 215 West Fifty-seventh Street. There are fifty-eight exhibits by academicians, sixty-five by associate members and 248 by non-members. The exhibition is confined to painting and sculpture.

The walls of the four exhibition rooms are gay with bright-hued landscapes, flower paintings, figure paintings, portraits and still lifes. There are many snow scenes. In the centre gallery are a dozen pictures portraying city and country in the grip of Winter, and the proportion of Winter scenes in the other galleries is high.

A painting by Paul King, A. N. A., shows three old buildings in a snowy landscape. Harry Leith-Ross, A. N. A., shows an "Upland Farm" under a white mantle. Arthur Powell, A. N. A., set down on canvas the appearance of the Bronx River Parkway on a Winter afternoon. From the artist colony at Taos, N. M., come other cold weather studies. Carl E. Woolsey has submitted "Taos Housetops." H. L. Blumenschein, N. A., has sent another version of Taos which he calls "Adobe Village, Winter."

The exhibition will be open to the public today and will continue till April 7.

TO REPORT MURRAY BUT NOT FAVOR HIM

APPROVAL TODAY FORECAST

Republicans Have Opposed This and Other Appointments of Democrats as "Partisan."

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 19.—After attempting in vain to have Governor Roosevelt withdraw the nomination of John F. Murray, a youthful and active Kings County Democrat recommended by John H. McCooey, Democratic leader of Kings, for a vacancy on the Port of New York Authority, the Senate Finance Committee, controlled by the Republicans, voted today to report his nomination to the Senate "without recommendation."

It is expected that even though a favorable report has been withheld by the committee Mr. Murray will be confirmed when his name comes before the Senate tomorrow. There is no objection to him personally except on the ground of his youth, he is only 29 years old, and his lack of experience in public life.

The chief objection of the Republicans is on the ground that he would take the place of a Republican member, Herbert K. Twichell of Brooklyn, who died recently, and that the appointment would make the New York State personnel on the Port Authority wholly Democratic, while of three members from New Jersey only one is a Republican.

The appointment has been held up in the Finance Committee since the beginning of the session. At first the Republican members of the committee seemed to be determined to refuse to report the nomination at all. Mr. Murray, apparently, has influential Republican friends. Thus pressure was applied. It is expected, however, that before Mr. Murray is confirmed Republicans on the floor of the Senate will take advantage of the occasion to attack the Governor for injecting politics in the Port Authority by starting out to make the authority a partisan body.

The Finance Committee also reported "without recommendation" and for the consideration of the Senate a number of Democratic appointments for vacancies on the visiting boards of State hospitals and other State institutions. The nominations were sent in several weeks ago.

In making its report tomorrow recommendation for favorable action by the Senate will be withheld in every instance where the Governor has named a Democrat to succeed a Republican, although all the positions are honorary and carry no salary or recompense in any form.

Senator Hewitt, chairman of the Finance Committee, made the following statement regarding the committee's action:

"The committee's action in declining to report these names without favorable recommendation is without prejudice to the character, qualifications or standing of the nominees, as far as our investigations reveal. They are all excellent citizens but they are purely political appointees in that all succeed Republicans whose terms have expired."

Governor Roosevelt would make no comment, but smiled when told what the committee had done. An attaché of the executive department pointed out that even with the Democrats appointed by Governor Roosevelt to succeed Republicans whose terms had expired, the boards on an average would have five Republicans to two Democrats.

Governor Roosevelt will send to the Senate tomorrow the nominations of the following, all of New York City, for membership on the Board of Charities: Dr. Lee K. Frankel, to succeed himself; Mrs. Mary K. Simkhovitch, to succeed William Rhinelander Stewart, and Victor F. Ridder, to succeed himself. Mr. Ridder is vice president of the present board. Mrs. Simkhovitch is a settlement worker and is head of Greenwich House. William Rhinelander Stewart, who has been a member of the board for a generation, is very old.

SEES BIG DEVELOPMENT IN EIGHTH AV. SECTION

Association Aide Says Subway Will Bring Wealth to Area, Eclipsing Fifth Avenue.

Eighth Avenue will supersede Fifth Avenue as "the show street of New York" as a result of the development which is expected to follow the completion of the new subway under that thoroughfare, according to Dr. S. M. Frank, a director of the Eighth Avenue Association, on behalf of which he presented to the Paramount Hotel, at a luncheon there yesterday, a bronze plaque "as recognition of its contribution to the architectural beauty of this community and the city at large."

The luncheon, which was attended by representatives of various other civic bodies, was given by the officers and directors of the Eighth Avenue Association to Frank Locker, Michael V. Rosenberg, Isidore Zimmer and Samuel Reznick, proprietors of the hotel, which was symbolized by speakers as "the pioneer in a section which is very rapidly becoming the hotel centre of the city."

Dr. Frank, in reviewing the history of the midtown section from 1760 to 1929, told how the farm, embracing the territory from Forty-sixth to Fiftieth Street and Broadway to the Hudson River, which was bought by John Roese for $5,000, was now worth approximately $125,000,000. Describing the new subway as the latest development in the area, he predicted that the new transportation system would be in operation by next year and that five years after the subway is opened Eighth Avenue and its intersecting streets would be entirely built up with new structures.

Representative John J. Boylan recalled the early development of the west side and saw in the construction of new steamship piers along the North River the need for more hotels adjacent to the section.

ROOT PLAN FACES KEEN SENATE FIGHT

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

ing of the Council of the League of Nations to be held at Madrid in June before the Senate could be called upon to consider the formula.

Another suggestion was that the Assembly of the League must ratify the formula also, but there is disagreement with this view. According to the irreconcilable view the formula will not be finally approved in time to permit the Senate to get it during the extra session of Congress, which will begin on April 15.

The apparent main contention of Senate opponents to American adherence to the World Court Protocol is that the formula emasculates Reservation No. 5. This reservation, which relates to advisory opinions of the World Court, was the only real stumbling block to the acceptance of the Senate's reservations by the nations signatory of the Court Protocol when their representatives met in Geneva in September, 1926.

But they said today that while the formula, as adopted, still seems to vest virtual veto power in the United States, it leaves the way open for the League Council to change the Court rules so that a majority of the Council could determine that an advisory opinion should be rendered by the Court. Supplementing this argument, it was contended that while the Root formula as amended still leaves the United States free to withdraw from the Court if its objection to the Court rendering an advisory opinion was not sustained, such withdrawal would result in world-wide criticism of this government on the charge that it was seeking to wreck the Court.

Criticism on Veto Power.

The irreconcilable point of view expressed today was that the Hurst modification of the Root formula leaves the League Council in a position where it could adopt a rule that would destroy the power given the United States by Reservation No. 5 virtually to exercise the veto power over any proposal to have the Court render an advisory opinion on a question in which the United States has or claims to have an interest, and which it finds objectionable.

Irreconcilable leaders are now saying that they had no fault to find with the Root formula as originally drawn.

This argument was advanced in the face of a phrase in the Root-Hurst formula that if the United States should exercise the power of withdrawal it "will follow naturally without any imputation of unfriendliness or unwillingness to cooperate generally for peace and good-will."

Criticism of that character to the terms of the formula is likely to be construed as far-fetched. It suggests that those Senators who have never been reconciled to American participation in the World Court have no really substantial basis for opposing the acceptance of the Root-Hurst formula by the Senate. Their hope of preventing the acceptance of the formula seems to lie in delaying as long as possible the presentation of the formula to the Senate, and in the meantime endeavoring to build up a hostile public opinion which will be reflected among Senators.

TEXT OF HURST REPORT.

Document Will Be Offered to the League Council.

By CLARENCE K. STREIT.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, March 19.—An examination of the text of the report which Sir Cecil Hurst, British jurist, will submit to the June session of the League of Nations Council, along with the new protocol for American adhesion to the World Court, shows that the jurists are very sanguine that it provides the means for a mutual understanding between the United States and the League on the Senate reservations.

It also indicates that the rôle of the Secretary General of the League will be very important in an exchange of views with the United States in concrete cases, for it leaves the door open to him becoming virtually the League's minister plenipotentiary in negotiating with Washington when the Council is not in session.

The report, which is drafted in terms evidently meant to meet the susceptibilities of all the states concerned, especially the United States, delicately touches upon the difficulties of reaching an understanding previously due to Washington's rejection of the invitation to confer with adherents of the Court in the 1926 conference and says that Mr. Root's presence has been of the "greatest assistance" to the committee in accomplishing their task now.

To any one who has discussed the court issue with Mr. Root the report shows that Sir Cecil had adopted his general way of approaching and handling a court problem.

Due to the objections of Arnold Raested, Norwegian delegate, yesterday, the present redrafted text sidesteps the question of whether unanimity of the Council is necessary on advisory opinions, saying that the jurists found it would be premature to attempt to decide this now. It outlines the steps still necessary for American entry into the Court, as explained in these dispatches yesterday, and concludes:

"When that happy result has been achieved it will be possible to feel that further progress has been made in establishing a reign of law among the nations of the world and in diminishing the risk that there may be of a resort to force for the solution of their conflicts."

Text of Hurst Report.

The text of the Hurst report follows:

"On Feb. 19, 1929, the Secretary of State of the United States addressed to each of the governments which signed the protocol of signature of the statute for the Permanent Court of International Justice, dated Dec. 16, 1920, and also to the Secretary General of the League of Nations, a note suggesting that an exchange of views might lead to an agreement with regard to an acceptance of the stipulations set forth in the resolution adopted by the Senate of the United States on Jan. 27, 1926, as the conditions upon which the United States would adhere to the said protocol.

"This note was considered by the Council of the League of Nations at its meeting on March 9, 1929, and cordial satisfaction was expressed at the prospect which the note held out that a solution might be found for the difficulties which had prevented the adherence of the United States in 1926.

"On the same date a resolution was adopted by the Council requesting the committee of jurists which was appointed by the Council at its meeting on Dec. 14, 1928, to consider the revision of the statute of the Permanent Court of International Justice, to deal with this question as well as those with which it was already charged, and to make any suggestions which it felt able to offer, with a view to facilitating the accession of the United States on conditions satisfactory to all the interests concerned.

"It has been of the greatest assistance to the committee in the accomplishment of this additional task that among its members was to be found the Hon. Elihu Root, former Secretary of State of the United States and one of the members of the committee which in 1920 framed the original draft of the statute of the Court. His presence in the committee has enabled it to re-examine the work accomplished by the special conference convoked by the Council in 1926, after the receipt of the letter of March 2 of that year from the then Secretary of State of the United States informing the Secretary General of the League that the United States was disposed to adhere to the protocol of Dec. 16, 1920, on certain conditions enumerated in that letter.

Early Proposals Unacceptable.

"The United States did not see its way to participate, as it was invited to do, in the special conference of 1926, and unfortunately the proposals which emanated from that conference were found not to be acceptable to the United States. Nevertheless, as is shown by the note of Feb. 19, 1929, from Mr. Kellogg, the margin of difference between the requirement of the United States and the recommendations made by the special conference to the powers which had signed the protocol of Dec. 16, 1920, was not great.

"For this reason, the committee adopted as a basis of their discussion the preliminary draft of a protocol annexed to the final act of that conference, and have introduced into the text changes which they believe to be necessary to overcome the objection encountered by the draft of 1926 and to render it acceptable to all parties. This revised text is now submitted to the Council of the League of Nations.

"Discussions in the committee have shown that the conditions with which the Government of the United States thought it necessary to accompany the expression of its willingness to adhere to the protocol establishing the World Court owed their origin to the apprehension that the Council or the Assembly of the League might request from the World Court advisory opinions without reference to the interest of the United States, which might in certain cases be involved. Those discussions have also shown that the hesitation felt by the delegates to the conference of 1926 as to recommending the acceptance of those conditions was due to the apprehension that the rights claimed in the reservations formulated by the United States might be exercised in a way which would interfere with the work of the Council or Assembly and embarrass their procedure. The work of the last committee has been to discover some method insuring that neither on the one side nor on the other should these apprehensions turn out to be well founded.

Advisory Opinion Is Crux.

"No difficulty has at any time been felt in regard to the acceptance of the conditions laid down by the United States, except in so far as they relate to advisory opinions, and the task of the committee would have been simplified if its members had felt able to recommend that the system of asking the Court for an advisory opinion upon any particular question should be abandoned altogether.

"The committee, however, is of the opinion that the time is not yet ripe for any such drastic solution. The system of asking the Court for an advisory opinion has proved to be of substantial utility in securing the solution of questions which could not conveniently be submitted to the Court in any other form. It is also on occasions of utility in enabling questions to be submitted to the Court which parties to the suit were for various reasons unwilling themselves to submit to it in the form of international litigation.

"The committee has also felt obliged to reject another method by which satisfaction might without difficulty be given on the conditions laid down by the United States. It is that of recommending the adoption of a rule that in all cases a decision on the part of the Council or Assembly on an advisory opinion from the Court must be unanimous.

"As was pointed out in the final act of the special conference of 1926, it was not possible then to say with certainty whether a decision by a majority was not sufficient. It is equally impossible today. Nor is it expedient to attempt to force this question of unanimity to a decision at the present time. It would be premature to do so. All that is possible is to guarantee the United States a position of equality in this matter with the states which are represented in the Council or Assembly of the League, and leave the major issue to be settled by the gradual evolution of recognized and obligatory practice.

Concrete Treatment Advisable.

"Furthermore, mature reflection convinced the committee that it was useless to attempt to allay the apprehension on either side which has been referred to above by the elaboration of any system of paper guarantees or abstract formulae. A more hopeful system is to deal with the problem in concrete form and provide some method by which such questions as arise may be examined and views exchanged, and the conclusion thereby be reached after each side has made itself acquainted with the difficulties and responsibilities which beset the other.

"It is this method, which the committee recommends should be adopted, and to provide for which it now submits a revised text of the protocol, to be concluded between the States which signed the protocol of 1920 and the United States of America.

"The note of Feb. 19, 1929, from the Secretary of State of the United States makes it clear that the Government of the United States has no desire to interfere with or embarrass the work of the Council or Assembly of the League, and that that government realizes the difficulties and responsibilities of the tasks with which the League is from time to time confronted. It shows that there is no intention on the part of the United States Government of hampering upon unreal or unsubstantial grounds the machinery by which advisory opinions are from time to time requested.

"The committee is thereby enabled to recommend that the States which signed the protocol of 1920 should accept the reservations formulated by the United States upon the terms and conditions set out in the articles of the draft of the protocol. This is the effect of Article I of the draft of the protocol now submitted.

"The next three articles reproduce without substantial change the corresponding article of the draft of 1926.

Machinery of Notification.

"The fifth article provides machinery by which the United States will be made aware of any proposal in the Council or Assembly for obtaining an advisory opinion, and will have the opportunity of indicating whether the interests of the United States are affected so that the Council or the Assembly, as the case may be, may decide on its course of action in the full knowledge of its position. One may hope with confidence that an exchange of views so provided for will be sufficient to insure that an understanding will be reached and no conflict of views will remain.

"The provisions of this article have been worded with due regard to the exigencies of business in the Council of the League. The desirability of obtaining an advisory opinion may only become apparent as a session of the Council is drawing toward its close, and when it will not be possible to complete an exchange of views before the members of that body separate. In that case, it will be for the Council to give such directions to the Secretary General of the League as circumstances may require in order to insure that the intentions of the article are carried out.

"A request addressed to the court may, for instance, be held up temporarily, or may be dispatched with the request that the court will nevertheless suspend action on the request until an entire exchange of views with the United States has been completed. The provisions of the article have purposely been framed so as to afford a measure of elasticity in its application.

"Similarly, if the court has commenced the preliminary proceedings consequent upon the receipt of a request for an advisory opinion and has given notice of such request to the United States in the same way as it has to the other governments in the proceedings, the other governments' proceedings may, if necessary, be interrupted in order that the necessary exchange of views may take place. What is said in this paragraph in regard to requests for advisory opinions made by the Council would also apply to requests by the Assembly in the event of the Assembly making such request.

Provision for Withdrawal.

"The provisions of this article should in practice afford protection to all parties in all cases, but if they do not it must be recognized that the solution embodied in the present proposal will not have achieved the success that was hoped and that the United States would be fully justified in withdrawing from the arrangement. It is for this eventuality that the provision is made in the last paragraph of the article. It may be hoped that should any such withdrawal by the United States materialize it will in effect be followed or accompanied by the conclusion of some new and satisfactory arrangement.

"The remaining provisions of the draft of the protocol do not call for detailed comment because they are in substance similar to the corresponding provisions drawn in the protocol of 1926.

"It is necessary to consider what steps may be necessary to bring the protocol, of which the text is now submitted, into force in the event of the recommendations of the committee being accepted.

"If the terms of the protocol are approved by the Council it will be advisable for the Secretariat to be directed, when answering Secretary Kellogg's note of Feb. 19, 1929, to communicate the draft to the Government of the United States. Since the protocol, if approved, covers the entire ground of Secretary Kellogg's note, its transmission with the statement of the Council's approval would seem to constitute an adequate reply to that note. It should at the same time be communicated to all the States which signed the protocol of Dec. 16, 1920.

"It should also be communicated to the Assembly in which the proposal for the appointment of this committee originated, in order that, if its term be acceptable to that body, a resolution approving it may be passed by the Assembly in the course of its ensuing session. Any action taken by the Assembly should be communicated to the signatory States which are called upon to determine whether or not they will sign the new protocol now.

Machinery of Acceptance.

"If the replies from the various governments indicate a desire for a further exchange of views in regard to the nature of the proposed arrangement with the United States or the terms of the draft of the protocol, it will be for the Council to decide whether such an exchange of views should proceed through a diplomatic channel, or whether it shall be necessary to convoke a further special conference for the purpose, at which the States not members of the League might be represented. In any event, such an exchange of views should be possible to complete before the conclusion of the Assembly session in order that approval by the Assembly may be obtained during 1929. A copy of the protocol in the terms approved by them will be prepared for signature, and every effort should be made to secure that delegates to the meeting of the Assembly, or of the special conference if there should be one, should be authorized to sign the instrument, and should actually sign it, before they leave Geneva. The signature of the representatives of States who are not members of the League should be obtained at the same time.

"As provided in Article VII of the draft, the protocol will come into force as soon as it has been ratified by the States which ratified the protocol of Dec. 1, 1920, and by the United States, and as soon as it comes into force it will be possible for the United States to take the necessary steps to become parties to the protocol of Dec. 16, 1920, and to any further protocol which may have been concluded for introducing amendments into the statute of the Court.

"When that happy result has been achieved it will be possible to feel that further progress has been made in establishing a reign of law among the nations of the world and in diminishing the risk that there may be of a resort to force for the solution of their conflicts."

ROOT BACKS BRITISH ON DOMINIONS' STATUS

He Holds They Should Enjoy Rights of Separate States in World Court.

By CLARENCE K. STREIT.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, March 19.—A question reminiscent of the campaign in the United States on the ground that "the British have seven votes to our one," aroused a long debate in the Jurists' Committee today, and, to the surprise of many, Elihu Root was one of two jurists supporting the British thesis that the dominions should enjoy the rights of separate States.

The question concerned whether a dominion was entitled to name its own "national" judge to join the World Court bench when cases arise concerning it, in addition to the judge representing Great Britain. The British jurist, Sir Cecil Hurst, asserted a few days ago that the dominions had such a right and reasserted that right today, seeking to have the jurists remove any doubts on the point.

The possibility that this would lead to certain cases, such as questions involving freedom of the seas in which every dominion could claim an interest—to there being seven judges from the British Empire on the Hague bench aroused such opposition that the jurists after a two-hour debate decided they were incompetent to settle the question. They agreed to let the various opinions expressed be printed in the minutes with the stipulation that this did not prejudice the issue.

When the question had thus been shelved, Mr. Root, who had not participated in the debate, intervened with a brief statement saying that since the matter was going into the record he would like to note that the United States had recognized a separate international personality for the British Dominions by exchanging fully accredited diplomatic representatives with Canada and the Irish Free State.

The Norwegian delegate, the only other jurist supporting Sir Cecil Hurst, said it was not a question whether a separate status for the Dominions was desirable, but whether they already had it. He believed their separate personality had been recognized by the court statute.

The jurists ended their work tonight with a round of glowing tributes to the "genius" of that "exceptional statesman of a kind the world needs," Elihu Root, for turning the problem of American adhesion to the World Court from the abstract to the concrete, thus allowing an escape from the previous impasse.

Judge Anzilotti, president of the Court, in a speech called Mr. Root "the spiritual father of the Court." The Dutch jurist, Professor Van Eysinga, who presided over the session, said that he was the "god of the machine who had long been needed to bring about cooperation on the Court between the United States of America and the United States of the League of Nations." He pointed out Mr. Root's part in the original Hague court of 1907, and said that Mr. Root "alone brought about a solution" allowing the establishment of the World Court in 1920, and "now for the third time has shown that he deserves well not only of his country but of mankind."

The jurists adopted the final report on the revisions recommended for the Court statute, the most important of which have already been published. Mr. Root, fatigued by his arduous labor, was ordered by his nurse to spend the next two days in bed in order to rest. He will then motor to Paris.

LONDON, March 19 (Canadian Press).—In a leading editorial today The Daily Chronicle says the question of the representation of the dominions on the World Court on the same footing as other members of the League of Nations "should certainly be pressed on our side."

"The dominions are in the League of Nations as full members," the paper continues. "One of them, Canada, is at present sitting on the council of the League. It is intolerable that all members of the League should not be equal before the law. Of course, members of the British Commonwealth have special mutual ties between them, but they are by no means the only group of member States of the League which have."

Villagers Flee, Surprised by Rising Waters in Night—Aviators Report Pillaging.

BRATLSLAVA, Czechoslovakia, March 19 (AP).—Army engineers today rescued 2,000 persons who had been stranded in flooded villages in the Karlsburg district along the Danube.

The marooned peasants were taken safely over pontoons across the river and sheltered in tents provided by the Red Cross. Evacuation of the threatened districts continues.

Army airplanes flying at a low altitude reported that looting was going on and police are taking measures against further attempts at pillage.

CHIANG SEEKS COMPROMISE

By HALLETT ABEND.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PEKING, March 19.—While the Nanking Kuomintang Congress was voting instructions to General Yeh Chi to withdraw from Hunan, General Yen's forces were fighting briskly, easily driving back the forces of General Lu Ti-ping, the deposed Governor. Recruiting by the Hankow faction had brought more than 5,000 new soldiers into its ranks.

The defense commissioners of Hankow have a small army of coolies busy on both banks of the Yangtse, six miles below the city, digging an elaborate defense trench system. The Hankow situation is so tense that forty of the total of ninety American women there have gone aboard Shanghai-bound steamers along with many British women and children.

On the Hunan-Kiangsi front General Yeh Chi's army has utterly routed Lu Ti-ping's men in a battle east of Changteh, capturing more than 500 prisoners, nearly a thousand rifles and several field guns. Yeh's men are now threatening Tzuli and Tayung. The Hanyang arsenal at Hankow is increasing its activities and is producing much ammunition. Nanking soldiers in Kiangsi are massing at Pinghsien, which is the end of the stub railway from Changsha.

General Yu Yu-jen, who has a powerful following, has bolted from the Nanking Congress and sought refuge in Shangshai, saying he will proceed to Canton and will call a new Kuomintang gathering, with properly elected delegates, to found a "legal government."

President Chiang Kai-shek has sent Bai Yuan-poi and Shao Li-tze to Shanghai to attempt to reach a compromise. Yu Yu-jen is now definitely aligned with the Left Wing. The radicals remaining in attendance at the Nanking Congress, numbering thirty-five, are threatening to bolt.

All reports of the Congress sessions are given out as written by the official bureau and the Chinese press has been publicly warned that if one word is changed or additional news of the meetings is printed the papers so offending will be suspended from publication. The Chinese press is forbidden to print the facts or the texts concerning protests against the make-up of the Congress, which protests are now being showered upon Nanking from twelve provinces.

Marshal Feng Yu-hsiang refuses to withdraw his resignation, his excuse being that his functions as Minister of War are useless, since President Chiang Kai-shek has independently ordered Nanking forces toward Hunan.

The situation at Chefoo is unchanged and quiet, with a face-saving break through General Liu Chen-nien's lines arranged as a "surprise" to avoid fighting in or near the city against Marshal Chang Tsung-chang's attacking forces.

In the interior of Eastern Shantung there is a frightful turmoil, with lawless soldiery and bandits looting and burning. These conditions are rapidly cooling the incipient enthusiasm for Chang Tsung-chang as a deliverer.

NANKING PROPOSES $12,500,000,000 WORKS

Kuomintang Receives 50-Year Scheme, Including Building of 20,000 Miles of Railroad.

NANKING, March 19 (AP).—Sun Fo, Minister of Railways, introduced before the Kuomintang Congress today a huge economic reconstruction program planned by the National Government, covering fifty years and involving an expenditure of $12,500,000,000 gold.

The plan calls for the construction of 20,000 miles of railway and 10,000 miles of motor roads. It also calls for a $50,000,000 gold appropriation for the construction of a national capital at Nanking.

Sun Fo proposed that the yearly amount required, that is $250,000,000, should be obtained by a government appropriation of $100,000,000 foreign loans of $100,000,000 and reconstruction bonds of $50,000,000.

The attitude of the congress toward the proposals was not reveled.

PIRATES ATTACK LOST SHIP.

SHANGHAI, March 19 (AP).—A three-cornered contest among wind and waves, Japanese salvagers and hundreds of Chinese pirates for a prize valued at more than $1,000,000 is taking place eighty miles from Shanghai, just within the Yangtze estuary. The North German Lloyd steamer Giessen, the prize, was wrecked on the treacherous Button Rock last week.

The steamer lies astride a rocky ledge, her back broken. Treacherous currents are proving an obstacle to salvage and it is feared roughening weather will cause the ship to slip into deep water.

Hundreds of Chinese pirates aboard scores of junks and fishing boats have been swarming about the stricken steamer, word of the rich prize bringing the sea rovers from their island hayens.

The salvagers have notified the owner's agents in Shanghai that they will be unable to achieve salvage unless the weather moderates and gunboat protection is provided.

A Chinese gunboat from the Nationalist navy headquarters at Shanghai proceeded to the scene but was unable to drive off the buccaneers, who merely withdrew to the opposite side of an island when the boat fired a salvo in the air. It is now reported that the gunboat is planning to return to Shanghai.

SIR G. PAISH WARNS OF FINANCIAL CRASH

Economist Declares American and British Authorities Agree It Will Come This Spring.

HE BLAMES POLITICIANS

Some American Experts, However, Think Free Traders Gloomy Picture Is Overdrawn.

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 19.—Sir George Paish, addressing the National Free Trade Conference at Manchester today, made the gloomy prediction that "we are threatened with the gravest financial crisis the world has ever seen."

Sir George is governor of the London School of Economics and was financial adviser to the Chancellor of the Exchequer early in the war and also a member of the British financial commission sent to the United States in 1914.

His most recent book is entitled "The Road to Prosperity," in which he urged a protective tariff.

He bases his prediction on departure from free trade principles.

"The present policy of protection or safeguarding," he said, "means the suicide of the world. Nothing can be done now to prevent a financial crash. We cannot change the course of events in a day. The question we have to face is how to get out of the crisis when it comes. We need business men to adjust the situation, not politicians, who got us into the mess."

"Drinking and Making Merry."

MANCHESTER, March 19 (AP).—"We are drinking and making merry, for tomorrow we die," cried Sir George Paish in predicting a financial crash.

"I say with the highest authority, and I challenge any one to deny it, that we are threatened with the greatest financial crisis the world has ever seen because the governments of the world have followed a policy of trade restriction, preventing debtors from paying their debts.

"We are face to face with this crisis. The greatest authorities in this country and in the United States expect it to come this Spring, and unless this policy of safeguarding or protection is checked it means disaster to the world.

"We are not trying to see a way out. We are just dancing. I am not exaggerating. I wish I were."

Puts Idle Here at 3,000,000.

Sir George said that Germany had more unemployment than Great Britain and that the United States, "supposed to be so prosperous," counted 3,000,000 unemployed. This unemployment was only part of the greater problem of trade depression. Those who had lent money could not recover it. Hence the world was suffering.

British bankers, who were supposed in England to be withholding credit, had never given so much, Sir George asserted, but debtors could not pay because the wheels of trade were not revolving.

"I don't know how many hundreds of millions of pounds are locked up in this country," he said, "but the total must be appalling."

Think Picture Overdrawn.

Economists here last night failed to descry any such immediate and crucial world financial calamity as Sir George Paish predicted yesterday. It was recalled that nearly two years ago Sir George on visits to the United States and in articles published here since had made somewhat similar prophecies.

There was agreement, however, with the British economist's assertion that international trade restriction are preventing the payment of international debts.

"I am myself in sympathy with the idea that high tariffs are injurious and that European nations are suffering from the barriers that have risen up between them since the war," said Professor Irving Fisher of Yale.

"As far as Europe is concerned, I believe the adjustment to the economic situation has already come, and the nations are learning how to struggle under their load.

"What Sir George is quoted as saying about tariff interference with debt payments is true. Our own tariff is preventing the payment to us of European debts. The French tariff is preventing the payment to her of reparations.

"Any creditor country which puts up barriers against other nations is really preventing the payment of the debts which they wish to have paid.

"When we talk in terms of money we demand that debtors shall pay. When we talk in terms of goods we demand that they shall not pay. It is a contradiction which reduces itself to an absurdity when we refuse to cancel debts and at the same time refuse to allow them to be paid. Ultimately the debts must be paid in commodities. We would not want them to be paid in gold—we have too much gold already.

"However, if Sir George has been correctly quoted it seems as if he has been betrayed into exaggerating the suddenness of any injury that is going to be felt. I cannot imagine any sharp cracking in the way of a panic or world crisis, and I cannot believe that the United States would be seriously affected."

Dr. Henry R. Seager, Professor of Political Economy at Columbia University, said that without having a copy of Sir George's speech at hand he could not comment on it except to say that it was probably "grossly exaggerated."

Professor Walter E. Spahr of New York University declared that the principle that a high tariff hinders debt adjustment is almost universally recognized by economists. He saw no signs, he added, of a crisis in world business such as Sir George was quoted as predicting.

TOKIO BACKS PHRASE IN THE KELLOGG PACT

Cabinet Denies That "in the Name of the People" Violates Emperor's Prerogatives.

REBUFFS COMPLAINING FOES

Lower House Has No Say in Treaties and Acceptance Is Predicted After March 25.

By HUGH BYAS.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TOKIO, March 19.—The government circulated today a written denial of the interpellation in the Diet on Feb. 25 of Deputy Yukio Ozaki, leader of the Constitutional party, that the words, "in the name of their respective peoples," in the Kellogg antiwar pact are opposed to the spirit and letter of the Imperial Constitution. The Government declines to publish the terms of the communications exchanged with Washington on the matter, informing M. Ozaki that the proper Japanese version of the English phrase will be issued after ratification. M. Ozaki is dissatisfied and threatens to move a resolution if he can find support, but it is doubtful whether the few days remaining of the Diet session will furnish an opportunity.

While the opposition took up the matter eagerly in the hope of convicting the Government of carelessness in respect to the Imperial prerogative, the response both among the public and politicians was slight. As members of the lower house have no responsibility for treaties, the Privy Council being, beside the Government, the sole constitutional authority for advising the Emperor, their attack on the Government on a matter outside their own sphere is palpably only the outcome of political tactics which could not impress the Privy Council.

Premier Tanaka's long delay in replying is interpreted as a reminder to the elected House that treaties are not any of its affairs. Among the peers and responsible statesmen opinions are divided, some holding the government negligent in not having the embarrassing phraseology altered in the early stages of negotiation, others taking the view that Japan will make herself ridiculous by objecting to a purely rhetorical phrase.

The treaty will be referred to the Privy Council for ratification after the House session ends on March 25. The government will then be able to give the Council full information regarding the communications made with Washington to clarify Japan's position. It is not seriously expected in any quarter that the Council will raise dificulties, though doubtless questions will be asked.

FRENCH TO HONOR HOOVER.

Intellectuals and Diplomats Will Attend Paris Banquet Saturday.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 19.—A tribute will be paid to President Hoover when the leaders of French intellectual, political and diplomatic life will attend a banquet in his honor, next Saturday night. The banquet will be held under the auspices of the France-America Committee—a body devoted to maintaining close bonds of friendship between the two countries. Ambassador Myron Herrick will be one of the guests of honor and will speak; the principal address will be delivered by M. Gabriel Hanotaux, president of the committee.

André Tardieu, Minister of the Interior, will represent the government, and the former French envoy to Washington, Jules Jusserand, will also be present at this function, the purpose of which is to express the French appreciation for the new President.

COUNT EBERHARD SLAIN, ELDEST SON ARRESTED

JANNOWITZ, Silesia, March 19 (AP).—Count Christian Friedrich Stolberg-Wernigerode, 27-year-old scion of a wealthy family with ramifications in many European courts, was arrested today on suspicion of murdering his father, Count Eberhard.

The body of the older man was found late last night seated on a sofa with the head shot by a bullet fired apparently from behind with a rifle. The son had been alone with his father after the women of the house had retired.

He told police that he had been knocked unconscious in the corridor by unknown persons, of whom the police were unable to find any trace. His evidence became so conflicting that he was arrested, although no motive has been discovered.

The victim was 56 years old and the father of nine children, of whom the youngest is only eight. The affair has caused a sensation in the countryside because of the prominence of the family and the personal local popularity of the dead count.

The Stolberg-Wernigerode family for nearly a thousand years has been one of the wealthiest land owners in a territory which at one time included parts of Austria, Prussia, Bohemia and Poland. The World War with the subsequent partition of Silesia between Germany and Poland considerably reduced its holdings.

The family was established as a reigning house when Count Henry Ernest von Stolberg became Lord of the County of Wernigerode, an hereditary title, in the sixteenth century. The Jannowith branch, the head of which has been slain, was established two centuries later.

Count Constantin Eberhard, who was born in Rohiach, Jan. 21, 1873, married Countess von Solms-Sonnenwald, seven years his junior, in 1900. His son under arrest is the eldest child.

ALLIES SEEK ACCORD ON REICH DEBT TOTAL

ITALY PRESSES DEMANDS

Americans Anxious Not to Have to Act as Arbitrators—Bank Plan Now in Shape.

By P. J. PHILIP.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 19.—Getting down to figures on how much the German annuities should be is not proving easy for the experts, and especially for the Americans, who are anxious at all costs to avoid having to assume the rôle of arbitrators between the rival claimants.

The difference for the present is not between the Allies on the one side and the Germans on the other, but more really among the Allies themselves. As experts, they foresee that however it is fixed the unconditional part of Germany's payments will not be sufficient to satisfy the demands of their governments. They therefore have for the moment had to emerge from their rôle of experts and speak parts allotted to them by their countries.

Italy Demands Her 10 Per Cent.

Signor Pirelli has had to formulate Mussolini's claim that the 10 per cent share of reparations allotted to Italy under the Spa agreement should come out of unconditional payments, even though the total he expects is not enough to pay Italy's debts. Provision for debt payment is, however, still remote and conditional. It will depend on operation of the international bank and on many future factors. So the Italian Dictator would prefer to have at least a slice out of the first payments—that part which it is proposed to commercialize.

Belgium takes somewhat the same attitude. She wants to make sure that repayment of the German marks which were left in the country at the end of the war will be made out of the first section.

England is anxious about the £100,000,000 which she has already paid for debt settlements and will not recover if Germany's future annuities are scaled according to future allied debt payments.

France realizes that she will have to make sacrifices, but is anxious that these sacrifices should not descend too low. She also has expended money on Germany's account, and it is that money she is anxious to recover. The lowest figure to which she will consent to go is 50,000,000,000 francs, and that will represent a diminution of her claims by more than 30,000,000,000, however they are calculated.

Germany Biding Her Time.

When all these claims are added together they represent a total far in excess of anything which the rival claimants as experts expect can be obtained. Germany, meanwhile, is profiting somewhat from the discussion and sits waiting for everybody to come down to figures which she will consider.

It is deemed here far better that the allied experts should appear to be quarreling among themselves than that they should be quarreling with Germany. Quarreling is, however, too serious a word to use in connection with the discussions which are going on. The experts are content to state their position, though in the case of Italy the statement of position must carry with it something of the power of diction of the Italian Dictator, and in the case of France it must take account fully of the presence of M. Poincaré just behind the scenes.

Lord Revelstoke's committee today practically completed its plans for the international bank. Everything is settled in outline except, it is stated, the place where the bank is to be located. It is common knowledge that Brussels has the greatest preference, but for reasons of tactics it is felt that it would be far better that the definite choice of location should be the last thing to be mentioned. It might prejudice against the bank scheme some of those who are hoping still to have it on their own territory.

Among many private interviews and conferences today was one between Owen D. Young and Dr. Hjalmar Schacht which lasted well over an hour. Although these first-day difficulties in getting down to figures appeared important, there is no discouragement among the experts. They believe they will arrive before Easter at a sufficiently definite agreement to allow drafting the final text of the plan by Mr. Young and his associates during Easter week-end, thus permitting a conclusion of the conference the first week of April.

POINCARE BACKS MISSIONS.

Premier Replies to Socialist in Fight on Orders Law.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 19.—Though there was no test vote today to give certainty, the government majority for the new laws affecting the religious missions appeared intact at the close of the first afternoon of bitter discussions, in which were renewed all France's past conflicts upon the question.

Replying to Socialist Deputy Frossard, Premier Poincaré insisted today that the government took the position that it was purely a question of foreign affairs that could not be confused with France's internal religious controversy. He placed the responsibility entirely upon Foreign Minister Briand, adding, however, that M. Briand had the full backing of the government.

Pressed to the admission of his personal attitude in past religious struggles, the Premier recalled having voted for the lay laws of 1901 and 1904, stating that "if I had to do it over again I would vote the same."

Deputy Frossard, in defining the Socialists' opposition, admitted that the measures, as framed, were much more acceptable in form than when originally proposed. At that time, he said, they were a vague formula in the finance bill. The Deputy declared there was no great opposition to nine of the orders involved in the present laws, but that the Socialists would oppose the movement until they had obtained assurance that after these had been voted they would not be asked to pass other laws which would gradually annul the effect of the lay laws voted in 1901.

Discussion will continue tomorrow afternoon.

LOUVRE USHERS IN NEW ERA IN ART

Three Rooms Opened of French Nineteenth Century Works, Including Impressionists.

LUXEMBOURG GROUP USED

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 19.—Another definite era in the world of art was marked today with the formal consecration of the Louvre of three new rooms devoted to the "Nineteenth Century French School" under the auspices of François Poncet, undersecretary of Fine Arts.

The collections in the new rooms thus opened to the public result from the regrouping of all the pictures acquired during the past fifty years, and included a great number of paintings recently transferred from the Luxembourg Museum. The last of the three rooms will house the famous Caillebotte collection of works by masters that have become famous as the "Impressionistic School."

By this ceremony the Louvre puts its stamp of recognition upon that extraordinary movement in French painting led by Monet, Manet, Degas, Sisley and Renoir—so hotly combated and disputed at the moment of its beginning, and up to the present moment relegated in nearly every nation where art is collected to separate museums confined to "modern paintings," and excluded from a place beside the products of previous ages.

A large number of the paintings of earlier artists of the nineteenth century, such as Corot, Millet, Delacroix and Meissonier have been taken from their former places in various parts of the Louvre and hung in the same wing of the building.

In the first of the new rooms, works by such masters as Fromentin, Coriut, Bastien, Le Page and Chasseriau, and in the second, Bazille, Puvis de Chavannes and Dégas form the choicest works.

The final room is devoted exclusively to the Impressionistic School and contains such celebrated works as Manet's "Olympia," Monet's painting of the Gare Saint Lazare, and even includes such radical departures as two works by Paul Gauguin, "La Belle Angeles," and "Women of Tahiti."

It is still impossible to state how great a use will be made of the Louvre and Luxembourg collections as the work of reorganizing is still incomplete and other new rooms will be opened later.

OSLO ROARS WELCOME TO PRINCESS MARTHA

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

OSLO, March 19.—Thousands of carnations and tulips fluttered from Oslo's buildings as a greeting to the future Crown Princess of Norway, Princess Martha of Sweden, when she arrived here today. Dense crowds along Carl Johan Street cheered her and Prince Olaf with such enthusiasm that police lines were broken and the smiling royal couple were nearly mobbed on their drive to the palace.

Oslo never has known such a day. Just before noon the Princess stepped from the King of Sweden's blue railroad car at the Oslo station and set foot in the capital over which she may some day rule as Queen. She was wearing a mantle of green, a velvet cape trimmed with white fox fur and a little green hat with a diamond clasp.

King Haakon, a tall, soldierly figure in a gray-blue uniform, strode forward to greet his future daughter-in-law, then took her by the hand and led her to Queen Maud, who kissed her affectionately.

After Crown Prince Olaf greeted his fiancée with a gallant kiss on her hand, the whole party moved off to the triumphal welcome awaiting them. A roar of cheers arose from the thousands in the streets, in windows and perched on house tops. Crowds had been standing for hours in the bitter cold and the enthusiasm broke all bounds. Just outside the Royal Palace, where enormous pillars of ice had been erected, the crowd broke the police cordon and hundreds tried to grasp the Princess by the hand as she drove by with the Crown Prince in a four-horse carriage.

Prices are soaring in Oslo in anticipation of the wedding on Thursday, which is officially declared a national festival, and fantastic prices are being charged for rooms along the route of the royal procession. People are planning to spend the whole night along the route to be sure of good vantage points.

To escape the almost hysterical enthusiasm of the Oslo crowds, the royal couple are planning to leave on Thursday night for their Riviera honeymoon.

OUR TRADE ENVOYS SEE GOOD PROSPECTS

PROTECTION WAR INDICATED

Increase in American Duties Will Lead to Reprisals by Europe, Austrian Press Declares.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, March 19.—The forty American trade commissioners and commercial attachés in Europe who will conclude tomorrow their six-day annual conference here have reached the general conclusion that the immediate future of the United States' trade with the Old World hangs largely on two issues. These issues are whether the reparations question will be finally settled by the Paris conference and whether the Hoover Administration will carry out its reported intention to add a few more bricks to the tariff wall.

The United States last year exported just under $5,000,000,000 worth of goods, or about $200,000,000 more than in 1927, but in the opinion of the United States' trade representatives in Europe that total can be largely increased if the reparations experts are successful.

If the American tariff is again increased and if the European countries which are now protesting against it carry out their threat to retaliate United States exports may suffer, it is declared.

The Viennese evening paper Die Stunde today declared:

"Industry all over Europe watches with ever increasing anxiety reports about the plans for American tariff reform. French industry, we notice, proposes a union of the European industrial combinations against the United States tariff policy. The Czechoslovak glass industry is requesting the intervention of the Czechoslovak Government. Austrian industry will also be heavily damaged if America's plans are realized.

"American exports to Europe in 1928 were more than $1,000,000,000, yet protectionism as the United States tariff policy is always increasing. If the United States protectionism succeeds in increasing the United States tariffs protectionism in Europe will be strengthened too."

Protectionism has already reached a high point in Austria. Against American motor cars, for instance, it takes the form of an absolute quota and is so stringent that American automobile firms refused to exhibit at last week's Vienna fair. In other lines, however, the United States export trade to Austria is booming, and the same could be generally said of all Europe. To Soviet Russia, America is now exporting more than before the war.

This year's conference was held under the chairmanship of Dr. Julius Klein, who will return to Washington in April to take up his new post of Assistant Secretary of Commerce.

PARIS TO HONOR FRANKLIN.

Play Will Mark 150th Anniversary of His Ambassadorship.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 19.—The 150th anniversary of the presentation by Benjamin Franklin of his credentials to Louis XVI as the first American Ambassador to France will be commemorated on Friday evening at the Théâtre Odéon, when a group of distinguished French actors will give a play entitled "Le Bonhomme Richard." The play has been written by Louis Evan Shipman, American playwright, and the French translation is by Mlle. Genevieve Pommeret.

The piece has to do with incidents in the life of Franklin during his sojourn in Paris and it covers the period from December, 1776, when the great American landed at Nantes, to December, 1777, when news came across seas of the surrender of General Burgoyne.

The cleverness with which the wise but simple American conquered the most sophisticated society of the eighteenth century, leading finally to his successfully inducing the keen and polished French Minister of Foreign Affairs, the Comte de Vergennes, to make an alliance with the struggling young republic, is all brought out in the play.

An amusing touch is given by Franklin's successful efforts to smooth out an unhappy love affair of one of the most beautiful young actresses of that day.

Ambassador Herrick, Aristide Briand, Minister of Foreign Affairs, and other persons prominent in French life will attend. The proceeds will be given to charity.

ECUADOR AIR DEAL THREATENS OUR LINES

Envoy Reports Quito Monopoly Being Sought, a Possible Bar to Pan-American Mail Planes.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—A threat to projects for United States controlled air lines in South America, particularly the proposed air mail route from the Panama Canal Zone to Chile, was seen here today in a report from Gerhard A. Bading, Minister at Quito, that the Ecuadorian War Department is considering a request for an air line concession which would bar other services from that country for five years. The proposal was submitted to the Ecuadorian Government by Rafael Adriano Dillon of Quito, an Ecuadorian graduate of the National School of Aviation.

Dillon has proposed the organization of an Ecuadorian company, with either national or foreign capital, and the establishment of an air line between Guayaquil and Panama and Guayaquil and Quito, using seaplanes for the Panama service and land planes for the Quito service, with five-year monopoly rights in Ecuador, Minister Bading reported.

According to Brower A. Yorke of the Department of Commerce, the proposed Pan-American Airways mail line between Cristobal, Canal Zone, and Santiago de Chile would be barred from Ecuador should this concession be granted.

Ernest R. White, superintendent of international mails for the Post-office Department, said that the Pan-American company had informed the department it already had a permit for operation through Ecuador. The Pan-American company is preparing to start operations on the Cristobal-Mollendo, Peru, leg of the Santiago route April 1, and to start flying on the remainder of the route through Chile to Santiago, probably on May 1, after negotiations with the Chilean Government are concluded.

On the information from Mr. Bading, however, officials here are watching closely the progress of the negotiations in Ecuador because of the effect of the conclusion of the Dillon concession on the extension of American air lines in South America.

TRY TO TRACE $4,500 BANKED BY HELFAND

NEW WITNESS ANNOUNCED

Tuttle Gets Adjournment Till Tomorrow to Call Person With 'Very Important Testimony.'

The investigation of Marcus Helfand's fitness to practice at the Federal bar in this district was resumed yesterday before Federal Judge John C. Knox with an attempt by United States Attorney Tuttle to trace $4,500 deposited to Helfand's personal account in the Chemical National Bank on May 20, 1926. Just a day or so before that, according to the testimony of Meyer Kaplan, an ex-convict, he had paid Helfand $5,000 as one-half of the sum demanded by Helfand to have him placed on probation by order of Federal Judge Francis A. Winslow, who is now under investigation by a Congressional committee.

Harry J. B. Hughes, an investigator for the Department of Justice, testified that, at Mr. Tuttle's request, he had examined Helfand's account and had found that on May 20, 1926, Helfand's personal account showed no withdrawal, but that a withdrawal of $4,500 had been made on that date from the bankruptcy account of the Equitable Radio Corporation, for which Helfand was receiver.

George J. Mintzer, Assistant United States Attorney, testified the files of the Equitable Radio Corporation's bankruptcy contained no order authorizing Helfand to pay himself $4,500 as receiver. He found, however, he said, an order for the payment of $2,000 to Helfand on Jan. 12, 1928, a year and one-half later.

Mr. Tuttle demanded of David P. Siegel, counsel for Helfand, the latter's check books for April, May and June, 1926. Mr. Siegel replied that Mr. Tuttle knew he and his client did not have the check books. He produced, however, Helfand's cash book, which had been asked for by Judge Knox at a previous hearing.

The name of Representative Loring Black of Brooklyn was injected into the hearing yesterday by Mrs. Lottie Kaplan, wife of Meyer Kaplan, who said on the stand that she understood Mr. Black knew all about the alleged $5,000 transaction between Kaplan and Helfand. She admitted she could not recall whether she had told Mr. Black of it when she called to see him in behalf of her husband, who was then in the Tombs.

Mr. Black said later, out of court, that he had never heard of Helfand until the present investigation. He said Mrs. Kaplan had called on him and had asked him to go to see her husband and do something for him. He did not see Kaplan, he declared, and took no action in his behalf, although Kaplan had written to him later from Atlanta penitentiary.

Mrs. Kaplan also testified that she had been told by her husband in a letter from Atlanta to go to see Helfand, and he would give her $200. He gave her $200, she testified, although she said she did not know why, and her husband had not explained. She said she gave $100 of the amount to K. Henry Rosenberg, an attorney, to try to get a parole for Kaplan.

George V. McCloskey, a law partner of former Assistant United States Attorney Victor House, testified that Helfand had come to his office in the Spring of 1927 and had asked if he had any cases before Judge Winslow. He said he replied that he had had one once and lost it. Mr. House previously had testified that Helfand on the same visit had said to him he could "fix it" if he had a case before Judge Winslow. Mr. McCloskey said he had not heard that conversation.

Edward C. Platto, a bookkeeper at the Vanderbilt Hotel, testified that Helfand's account there had included a bill of $16.90 for "restaurant and waiter's fee" on May 10, 1926, and a bill for $11.50 on May 18, 1926, when Helfand took Judge Winslow to dinner.

At the close of the hearing yesterday Mr. Tuttle told Judge Knox he had just been informed of some new and "very important" testimony which would be given by a witness who would reach New York last night. He obtained an adjournment until 9:30 A. M. tomorrow. It was agreed by both sides that they would finish the case tomorrow.

BOYS' DETENTION HOUSE IS URGED BY M'ADOO

A special detention house for wayward boys between the ages of 16 and 21, where boys held in all city magistrates' courts could be sent for mental and physical examination and be free from association with adult criminals, was urged yesterday by Chief City Magistrate William McAdoo.

Declaring that the "keynote of success in probation work is individualization," the Chief Magistrate said in a statement that the detention house staff, which would include a physician and psychiatrist, could make a "thorough field examination of each boy's environment, his character, his antecedents and his success or failure at school."

In the statement, which he called "an appeal to public opinion on behalf of the wayward boy," Magistrate McAdoo said that the detention house planned by him might also "help us to solve the problem of the school teacher with the backward pupil," and he said that it would also give psychiatry a "fair field in which to work," and "rob the menacing and dangerous army of young outlaws of fresh recruits."

He pointed out that under the present detention system boys in their middle teens can only be held in jails and prisons in association with adult criminals. "The city is about to spend about a million and a half dollars for an elaborate detention house for women following organized effort and the mandatory provisions of the law of 1910, but we have no place for the wayward boy."

Questioned at his home last night concerning the recommendation made this week by the directors of the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities for a special court for boys between the ages of 16 and 18, Magistrate McAdoo refused to make any statement other than that he felt it more important to have a special building for the detention of boys rather than a special court to try their cases. The Brooklyn plan also calls for special detention facilities.

British Revenue Shows Surplus.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 19.—The Chancellor of the Exchequer, Winston Churchill, will turn his financial corner with a surplus of more than £2,000,000. The revenue return issued tonight shows the revenue to date has totaled £703,979,564. The expenditure, including the Sinking Fund, has reached £701,748,248, leaving a surplus of £2,233,316. The Chancellor can count on a big increase in revenue in the next few weeks before presenting his figures in the House of Commons on April 15.

The administration hopes that such a fact-finding commission, in its recommendations, will arouse the people to such a sense of the situation as to cause them to assist the government in its correction.

The first practical step toward unifying and making enforcement stronger is now being considered by Attorney General Mitchell, who, acting under the President's instructions, is studying the question of the transfer of the prohibition unit to the Department of Justice. No decision has been reached as to what parts of prohibition enforcement machinery can be taken over by the Department of Justice. It is believed, however, that the customs and Coast Guard sections will be retained under the Treasury, with liaison officers operating under the Department of Justice.

Present indications are that President Hoover will ask for this transfer in the coming special session.

Mitchell Studying Question.

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP).—Attorney General Mitchell from his study of the question thus far is inclined to the opinion that an act of Congress will be essential for the transfer of prohibition enforcement to the Department of Justice.

The Attorney General said he was going into the whole prohibition question, including the handling of industrial alcohol permits and whether in the proposed transfer of authority the prohibition agents should be placed under the Justice Department's Bureau of Investigation.

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney General, now has charge of prohibition enforcement work done in the Department of Justice and the expectation is that when the transfer of activities is made the scope of her work will be enlarged considerably.

Mrs. Willebrandt as an enforcement official has the support of the dry leaders of the country, as has Attorney General Mitchell. The policy of the administration appears to be to have enforcement in the hands of those in sympathy with prohibition.

As a result of the study now being made of the industrial alcohol permits by Justice Department officers, a new effort to cut off diversion of such alcohol into illegal channels soon is to be made. This is the recognized chief avenue through which alcohol reaches bootleggers and is looked upon as the fundamental problem in enforcement.

In the proposal to transfer activities from the Treasury to the Justice Department, one element for serious consideration is whether there will be a retention of a prohibition commissioner or whether the whole administration would be turned over to an Assistant Attorney General. Secretary Mellon recently stated that Dr. James M. Doran, the commissioner, would be retained after the transfer of prohibition enforcement to the Department of Justice.

This does not include seized food and forage, damage to public and private properties or the wrecking of railroad trackage and equipment. The rail damage alone, it is thought, may exceed $5,000,000.

To save this money to the nation and at the same time deal out justice to the alleged looters, is the determination of President Portes Gil and every member of his administration.

The President this morning declared that there was no doubt in his mind that the revolt as such was now practically crushed, it having developed into what he described as "wholesale banditry and robbery" at the direction of its leaders.

"The objective of the rebel leaders," said the President, "is now mainly one of escape to the United States, taking the loot from Monterey, Saltillo, Durango, Torreon and other cities and towns which they occupied in the first days of the revolt and from which they have always fled at the first approach of Federals. I am of the opinion that the rebels will not make any real stand anywhere now, but if they do it probably will be in Chihuahua or Sonora, or both.

"However, if they do, the result can be declared in advance and, militarily, it would be unimportant. The problem is now one of pursuit, disbanding the rebel forces, rebuilding the railroads, recovering stolen money and other properties and, in event of capture, the just punishment of those responsible."

All of this he expects will be accomplished within a maximum of thirty days.

"In so far as military operations are concerned," he added, "the revolution can now be said to have ceased."

For the first time on any weekday since the outbreak no afternoon bulletin was issued at Chapultepec Palace today. It was explained that the government felt that the situation made it unnecessary.

In the meantime the pursuit of General J. M. Aguirre, the Vera Cruz leader, is continuing and his capture is expected at any time. If taken, it was officially announced, he will be court-martialed without delay, and his sentence—almost certainly death—promptly executed. The government policy toward junior officers and enlisted men continues to be one of mercy.

Federal Army Now United.

MEXICO CITY, March 19 (AP).—The entry of General Calles into the former rebel stronghold of Torreon came just twenty-four hours after the first of his columns had occupied it. The generalissimo is now for the first time at the direct head of all of the great army, said to number 30,000, dedicated to the pursuit and extermination of the rebellion.

The government was informed tonight that General Escobar had looted the Torreon banks of 1,023,000 pesos. General Calles also reported that the insurgents had carried off large quantities of merchandise.

The Universal Grafico announced this evening that "because of the rapidity with which the military revolution was dissolving" the political parties were planning speedy resumption of the Presidential campaigns which the revolt halted. The newspaper said that the parties would get their candidates back into the field by April 1.

Dispatches to the Excelsior from Guadalajara today said that Federal soldiers had fought a three-hour battle yesterday with religious insurgents at Zapoteanejo. Forty-two were killed, of whom thirty-eight were rebels.

The insurgents succeeded in carrying off an undetermined number of wounded after the Federals, who had eighteen wounded, had succeeded in taking the town. The battle began at 5 A. M., the Federals finding the rebels entrenched at the town, which is about twenty miles east of Guadalajara.

REBELS AGAIN RETREAT.

REBELS CONTINUE FLIGHT.

Move Headquarters From Escalon North to Jimenez.

Plane Bombs Rebels in Escalon.

HEADQUARTERS GENERAL ESCOBAR'S ARMY, ESCALON, Chihuahua, March 19 (AP).—The white airplane which bombed Torreon on Sunday appeared over the revolutionist army trains here today and dropped more bombs. The trains escaped damage, but one man in Escalon, the town's baker, was killed.

A small band of guerillas, active in burning bridges on orders of General Neyra, was encountered today by rebel soldiers and three were brought here. They were treated as prisoners but not harmed.

Preparations were made late today to move the army of General Escobar to Jimenez, where it was expected the troops would remain for several days. Several troop trains have left for the north ahead of General Escobar's train.

Earlier in the day the rebel command had announced that its forces would begin operations against General Calles's advancing columns, with Escalon as a base.

A band of regional troops which has reported to General Escobar numbers at least 5,000 men, well equipped, it is reported.

The retreat of the insurgents was declared by General Escobar to have been "operations preliminary to a general plan which we have adopted and which now we are beginning to execute."

Belittling the advances of the Callista army from the south, General Escobar, in a statement, asserted he could "see no significance to the fact that the enemy occupies a town [Torreon] which we intentionally evacuated tactically." Confidence that the revolutionists would carry their warfare to ultimate victory was expressed.

Rebel headquarters reported new victories today in Sinaloa and Nayarit, on the west coast, declaring the army of General Ramon F. Iturbe had taken the cities of Rosario and Acaponete.

Government methods of carrying on the war were assailed by General Escobar in a message he addressed to The Associated Press at Juarez. Torreon was evacuated only to save the population from the menace of air attacks, he declared.

Battles should not be fought in the cities, said General Escobar a telegram, which expressed indignation over the sortie which cost four civilian lives when bombs were dropped from the air on Torreon by Federal aviators.

Fifteen Federals Reported Killed.

JUAREZ, Chihuahua, March 19 (AP).—Fifteen Federals, said to have been a guerilla band recruited in El Paso, were killed in a brief battle today when they were surprised by rebel troops at Ojinaga, it was reported here tonight.

The fifteen men were said to have constituted the entire band.

Reports of a proposal for peace negotiations by the revolutionary army were emphatically denied by General Marcelo Caraveo, Governor of Chihuahua, in a message today to General Marcelino M. Murrieta, commander of the insurgent forces at Juarez.

The statement was occasioned by an announcement by Enrique Liekens, Mexican Consul General in El Paso, that President Portes Gil had informed him by telephone that General Caraveo had sought to start negotiations through the American consul in Chihuahua City.

In his message to General Murrieta the Governor said:

"I have not entered and will not enter negotiations with the Calles government."

[In Mexico City it was said that Consul Liekens had transmitted the peace overture to President Portes Gil, who had rejected it.]

Border Sector Quiet.

NOGALES, Sonora, March 19 (AP).—Words rather than deeds continued to chart developments in the Northwest today, with the border sector quiet. Governor Fausto Topete, revolutionary leader here, minced no words in denying reports that peace overtures were under way.

He said that if Governor Abelardo Rodrigues, Federal commander-in-chief of the Northwest and Governor of Lower California, who is reported to be conducting peace overtures at Nogales, Ariz., across the line from here, were to come into Sonora, he would be put to death.

From Naco, some sixty miles east, came reports that Agua Prieta, thirty miles east of Naco, had been evacuated by the rebel Indian forces of 500 Yaqui and Mayo troops under General Ramon Yucupicio.

Federal forces at Naco, well-entrenched, were prepared to resist attack which was momentarily expected, it was announced there by General Augustino Olaches, Federal commander.

General Enrique Estrada, with rebel cavalry forces, was reported still encamped at Cananea, Sonora, about thirty miles south of Naco, awaiting orders to attack the border town.

Governor Topete scoffed at reports from Federal sources that General Caraveo, rebel Governor of Chihuahua, had sued for peace.

Washington Will Grant Rebels Sanctuary; Plans Deportation Later, but Not to Mexico

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Mexican rebels who flee into American territory will receive sanctuary in accordance with the time-honored custom of the United States in giving protection to political refugees, according to plans formulated by the administration.

This constitutes the general program to be followed along the border. Under it rebels will not be turned back into Mexico. Their extradition, if requested, will be refused as contrary to the extradition treaty between the United States and Mexico, which is not applicable to political refugees.

It is understood, however, that revolutionists who flee here will be deported to some other country, after a reasonable time, on the theory that they are enemies of a friendly government who were encouraged to revolt partly by realization they could easily flee to the United States and safety. To harbor them indefinitely, it is felt, would only encourage further revolution and might be construed as an unfriendly act by the Mexican Government.

A complete program has been worked out by the government, but it is being held in confidence. It will be carried out for the most part by the State and Labor Departments through their diplomatic and immigration organizations.

The Department of Justice also will probably take an active interest in the situation. The army will give assistance, but only if revolutionists cross the border in such numbers that the cooperation of troops is needed. The rebels will be disarmed and probably interned until they can be disposed of through proper legal steps.

Officials believe now that there will be little or no fighting between the rebels and Federals and that the revolt will be suppressed before long.

One report from Mexico City today that the American Consul in Chihuahua was to arrange a peace settlement was denied by the State Department.

Ambassador Morrow notified the department today there was apparently no fighting at Torreon when the rebels evacuated, except for unimportant skirmishing. Earlier reports from him said previous dispatches that the rebels in Sinaloa had retired to the north from Culiacan were in error and that there were between 1,000 and 1,500 revolutionists somewhere south of Culiacan, on the line to Mazatlan.

REBELS ARE UNDISMAYED.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 19.—There will be no peace in Mexico as long as former President Plutarco Elias Calles remains in the country, it was declared here today by Gerzain Ugarte, representative of the revolutionary provisional government in the United States.

Señor Ugarte received many Mexicans at his headquarters here today and declared he had been busy discussing matters pertaining to his mission, which is to invite Americans to trade in the rebel territory and to assure citizens of the United States that their lives and property would be safe wherever the rebels were in power.

Rebels at their headquarters here were not at all discouraged by reports of the loss of Torreon. All smiled and looked mysterious.

AMERICAN KIDNAPPED BY MEXICAN BANDITS

T. L. Carnahan, Brother of New York Rubber Manufacturer, Is Believed Held for Ransom.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, March 19.—The American Embassy was informed today that T. L. Carnahan, an American mining engineer, brother of George Carnahan of the Continental Rubber Company of New York, was kidnapped last night by bandits at La Noria, a mining village in the State of Zacatecas. It is believed here that he will be held for ransom. He was in La Noria on a business trip. His business office is at El Paso. La Noria is a short distance from San Benito.

By telephone to Mexico City the superintendent of the mine said the bandits also captured a Mexican doctor named Olivera, in the employ of the mining company. The superintendent said 1,000 miners were out of work as a result of closing the mine because of bandit activities.

MEXICO CITY, March 19 (AP).—The seizure of T. L. Carnahan by Mexican bandits at La Noria mine makes two Americans prisoners of outlaw bands. On March 1 Henry Hanson, American resident manager of the San Nicholas Mining and Milling Company at Vocas, Durango, and C. W. Reid, a British subject employe, were captured and have not yet been released. The United States made representations to the Mexican Government in the case.

Only the week before this outrage two American mining men, J. M. Underwood and C. C. Alesthorpp, were slain by their captors in Guanajuato while Federal forces were attempting to force their release.

George H. Carnahan is president of several large rubber corporations and is prominent as a banker. His home is at 20 East Seventy-sixth Street, but at present he is in Europe. Efforts to obtain information about T. L. Carnahan last night at his brother's home were unavailing.

The Continental Rubber Company, one of the concerns of which George H. Carnahan is an officer, has a rubber factory in Torreon, Mexico, and extensive acres of guayule, rubber-producing plant, at Zacatecas, Mexico. Like his kidnapped brother, he was a mining engineer and spent considerable time in Mexico in the past twenty-five years.

In the case of Hanson and Reid, the bandits, classified at the time as rebels, demanded 24,000 pesos (about $12,000), 200 overalls, fifty blankets and three kegs of horseshoe nails.

Twenty-three of the hundred bandits who kidnapped Hanson and Reid have been killed and seven captured.

On March 13 the State Department was notified by the American Consulate at Durango, Mexico, that the two mining men were well at Huejuquilla and that their release was expected shortly.

ATTACK BILL TO END DAYLIGHT SAVING

Wynne and Trade Bodies Ask Cuvillier Measure Be Killed to Protect Health.

OPPOSE RURAL 'DICTATION'

They Point Out That Farmers Need Not Observe Time Change, Made Optional by Law.

Definite and unqualified opposition to the Cuvillier bill advocating the abolishing of daylight saving time during the Summer, which is now before the Legislature, was voiced yesterday by Health Commissioner Wynne, Senator Copeland and by representatives of the Fifth Avenue Association, the Retail Dry Goods Association and the Jewelers' Association of New York. The three associations, through their member firms, represent more than 1,000,000 New York workers.

Commissioner Wynne's protest was in the form of a letter to the Mayor made public yesterday afternoon, and which read as follows:

"It has just been brought to the attention of the Health Department by the Merchants Association of New York that there is real danger that the Legislature may before it adjourns on March 27 repeal the law which permits this city to adopt a daylight saving ordinance such as has been effective for several years during the Summer months.

"The daylight saving law has been proven a piece of true health legislation and has contributed enormously to the health and well being of the people of this city. It has made it possible for the city dweller to enjoy an extra hour of sunlight and fresh air, the two greatest known health-giving factors.

"I believe, therefore, that the official representative of the city cannot afford to overlook the pending situation at Albany. Would it not be appropriate to instruct the legislative representative of the city to oppose vigorously the Cuvillier bill repealing daylight saving? The bill should be killed in the Assembly if possible. If this cannot be done no effort should be spared to insure its defeat in the Senate."

Senator Copeland, through the Merchants Association, made public the following statement:

"For nearly ten years the cities of New York State have had the option of giving their citizens the benefit of daylight saving in the Summer time. One hundred and eighty-four cities and villages have availed themselves of this privilege, thereby contributing to the health and the happiness of their citizens. They have been in line with the forward looking thought throughout the United States. Daylight saving has been effective in a large part of New Jersey, in the entire State of Massachusetts, in Rhode Island, in several cities in Indiana, in Chicago and to all practical purposes in Ohio.

"For new York to wipe it out at this time would be a distinctly backward step and would be in violation of every consideration of health. I can understand how the men on the farms might object to daylight saving if they were compelled by law to follow it, but since they are not affected by it, they have no reason to interfere with a measure so important to the life of the cities."

Other protests against the bill were expressed yesterday by Brig. Gen. Palmer E. Pierce, counsel of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and president of the National Intercollegiate Athletic Association; the First District Dental Society, the New York Junior Board of Trade and Transportation, and the Long Island Tennis League, composed of 2,000 business men.

Fight Near on Cuvillier Bill.

ALBANY, March 19.—Assemblyman Cuvillier's bill abolishing daylight saving time will come up in the house tomorrow for final action. Various organizations are strongly opposed to the bill, but there is considerable sentiment among up-State Republicans for the measure. It is believed the measure will be defeated or passed by a narrow margin.

ENGINEERING STUDENTS MAKE RECORD AT N.Y.U.

Eighty-two students of the College of Engineering of New York University succeeded in gaining places on the honor roll last semester, it was announced yesterday by Dean Charles H. Snow. This is a new record and an increase of twenty-seven over the nearest previous mark which was made last year. Thirty-nine of those honored are from New York City.

The list is divided into groups, Class A representing an average above 90 per cent, while Class B consists of students who averaged 85 to 90 per cent. The present senior class leads all others with sixteen members in Class A and thirteen in the other group. Seven graduate students attending the Guggenheim School of Aeronautics of the College of Engineering, who will receive a degree in this work next June, were included in the list.

George A. Taylor, 36 Hart Avenue, Yonkers, a senior, led the entire group with an average of 94.76 per cent, which he has accumulated during his three and a half years as a student at the college. David Picket, 227 Haven Avenue, New York, a classmate of Taylor, is once more in second place with 94.1 per cent.

ACCEPT COMMUNITY CENTRE

Columbia Trustees Approve Affiliation of Greenwich House.

Announcement was made yesterday of the approval by the trustees of Columbia University of a proposal of the board of managers of Greenwich House to be affiliated with the university's social, educational and research work. The agreement, it was said, leaves the community centre independent financially and in mangament and is the final step in a long informal association between the two.

The plan involves appointment by the university of four representatives to the Greenwich House board of managers and provides for the acquisition of the property and funds of the Cooperative Social Settlement Society of the City of New York—the legal name of Greenwich House—if the centre should outlive its usefulness in its present form.

SCHURZ EULOGIZED AT CENTENARY HERE

Plea Also Made to Settle Reparations on a "Friendlier Meeting Ground."

Marked by an attack on the national origins basis for immigration quotas and a plea for the settlement of reparations and other problems arising from the World War on "a friendlier meeting ground of mutual understanding," a celebration in honor of the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Carl Schurz, editor, diplomat and soldier, was held last night at the Horace Mann Auditorium, Broadway and 120th Street. Carl Schurz was likened to Abraham Lincoln and was hailed as an "immortal" at the celebration, which was under the auspices of the Institute of Arts and Sciences of Columbia University.

Dean Frederick J. E. Woodbridge, acting president of Columbia University, presided, and eulogized Carl Schurz in introducing the main speakers, Charles A. Nagel, Secretary of Commerce and Labor under President Taft, and George McAneny, representing the Carl Schurz centennial committee. The love of tolerance, the futility of war and the potential greatness of the immigrant were the most important lessons taught by the famous liberal, they said.

Mr. Nagel, following a glowing tribute to the humanity and greatness of Carl Schurz, whom he knew personally, took up the question of immigration and reparations, and said neither of these questions is receiving the sort of settlement which Carl Schurz would believe was the right one.

"The attempt to perpetuate one race at the expense of another is another form of slavery, which both Abraham Lincoln and Carl Schurz hated," he declared. "No law can establish racial supremacy and no law should attempt to do so. The national origins basis for admitting immigrants is grossly unfair and the 1890 rules which have worked so well in the past should remain in force."

Mr. Nagel said the peace of the World is placed in jeopardy by the attitude that a settlement of reparations must be made in accordance with the capacity to pay.

George McAneny said:

"Carl Schurz was a great leader because he managed to enter into the spirit of this country and its people and was able to turn that spirit into a creative force of great power," he said. "His power, ability of expression and his moral character have made indelible marks on our history. Love of freedom and hatred of oppression of any kind were two of his outstanding characteristics. But above all else, he was animated by a profound loyalty to the ideals and institutions of this country which is the force that must always bind our people together."

to how the party organization could be strengthened for the coming elections. The State leaders, it is declared, readily agreed to the necessity of a harmonious and undivided machine, and some of them asserted that, with the party united, an opportunity presented itself for carrying New York City in the coming Mayoralty contest.

All the conferees readily agreed to work together and to hold informal conferences in reference to patronage and legislation of interest to New York in Congress. The real question at stake, it was declared, was settled with the agreement of union between the State chiefs and the members of the Congressional delegation.

The conference then naturally turned upon the questions immediately before the party. President Hoover believes in preparedness and keeping the machinery always strong. He feels that the organization should be perfected at once, that the city machine should be strengthened wherever possible and its first test should come in the mayoralty election. The possibility of a split in Tammany Hall was pictured as offering the Republican Party an opportunity to carry New York, and with such a victory as a prestige the election of a Governor next year was declared easily possible.

So the conferees discoursed on practical politics, agreed to work harmoniously and returned to New York, declaring that President Hoover has all the elements of a great political leader.

The conference lasted three hours and not only dealt with the situation in the Republican party in the State, but considered at some length how patronage was to be distributed to strengthen the machine. The immediate patronage under discussion was the five Federal judges to be selected in New York. President Hoover was decided in his views that practical politics should not operate in these judicial appointments to the detriment of high-class appointees.

The list of candidates in New York was gone over and their qualifications discussed by the conferees. There was no indication just how far President Hoover would go in renominating the men named by Coolidge but whose appointments were not confirmed.

The impression gained by the conferees was that two at least of the four selected by Mr. Coolidge would be renamed. This leaves one in the southern and two in the eastern district to be agreed upon. President Hoover did not ask for any recommendations, but indicated that he would not act for some time and would give the party leaders an opportunity to make recommendations.

HOLMES, BACK, EXTOLS 'HEROISM' IN PALESTINE

Pastor Who Made Trip as Straus Representative Says He Will Ask Funds for Zionists.

The Rev. John Haynes Holmes, pastor of the Community Church at Park Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street, returned on the Aquitania yesterday after a tour of Palestine as the representative of Nathan Straus, philanthropist and a leader in the Zionist movement. He said he was enthusiastic about the work being accomplished in the Jewish homeland and that he was "deeply impressed by the heroism and hard work and the progress there."

He declared there were great difficulties to overcome in rebuilding the country. It is a barren place, not rich in available resources, he said, and another obstacle is the hostility of the Arabs, who outnumber Jews about eight to one. These, he declared, regard Palestine as their own country and fear being ousted by the Jews.

In several lectures to be announced, Mr. Holmes said, he will make appeals for funds to continue the work in Palestine. He is also writing a book on the problems to be met there.

Mr. Holmes was to have dedicated the Nathan and Lina Straus Health Centre in Jerusalem, which Mr. Straus built for Hadassah, the women's Zionist organization, but the dedication was postponed because the building has not been completed.

Others on the ship were Princess White Deer, an actress; Mrs. Otto Kahn, Sir Reginald Brade, former Secretary of the British War Office, and the Right Hon. Raoul Dandurand, Canadian representative to the League of Nations.

HEMPEL SUIT DISMISSED.

Court Finds Insufficient Facts in Professor Adler's Complaint.

Supreme Court Justice Cotillo dismissed yesterday the complaint in the $50,000 suit brought by Prof. Johannes Adler, formerly a Berlin vocal teacher, against Mme. Frieda Hempel, concert singer, for alleged breach of an agreement and false representations. The plaintiff alleged that Mme. Hempel was suffering from certain "defects" in her voice and that he "treated" and "corrected" them in Berlin and that as a result she agreed to recommend him as a "master of his profession" and as "the individual responsible for her continuing success." He alleged that he came over here expecting to obtain a number of pupils but that Mme. Hempel declined to recommend him.

The case went before Justice Cotillo on the application of William M. Sullivan, attorney for Mme. Hempel, who asked dismissal of it on the ground that sufficient facts were not stated for a cause of action. In granting the plea the court permitted the plaintiff to file a new complaint if he desires to do so.

TRANSCONTINENT LINE DUE TO OPEN IN JULY

Air-Rail Passenger Service Will Follow Two Weeks' Training of Pilots Over Route.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—According to present indications, the Transcontinental Air Transport will begin carrying passengers on its air-rail system between New York, Los Angeles and San Francisco in July, Colonel Paul Henderson, vice president, announced today.

Colonel Henderson said that regular passenger-carrying service will follow a two weeks' operation of the line on schedule, but without passengers, during which period the pilots and the remainder of the company's personnel will go through an intensive course of training. He said this practice operation would get under way in June.

The organization of the company's operating personnel is being completed following a recent tour of the country by Major Thomas G. Lamphier, operations manager.

The lighting of the Middle West section of the route, which, however, is not at the beginning to be flown at night, is well under way and should be completed soon, it was said at the Department of Commerce.

This includes the stages between Wichita and Weynoka, Kan., the latter being the point where plane passengers from Columbus, Ohio, will transfer to Santa Fe trains, and from Wichita to Clovis, N. M., where passengers will again transfer to planes for the flight to Los Angeles.

CONSTANCE BENNETT SUIT.

Divorce Pending Between Actress and Husband, Philip M. Plant.

PARIS, March 19 (AP).—The divorce of Constance Bennett, American actress and daughter of the actor, Richard Bennett, from Philip M. Plant, prominent New Yorker, is "pending" in four Nice courts, one of the principals informed the correspondent.

Mr. Plant sails for New York tomorrow. Constance Bennett is now out of danger in a hospital, where she is recovering from a severe attack of appendicitis.

Plant, who inherited about $15,000,000 from his stepfather, Commodore Morton F. Plant, remained in close attendance at his wife's bedside during her illness. Now that her condition is much better he has made arrangements to sail for America.

Plant and Miss Bennett were married in 1925 at Greenwich, Conn., where they aroused a marriage clerk at 2:30 A. M., to expedite the ceremony. Miss Bennett previously had been married "on a dare" to a college student in 1921. The wedding was annuled.

CRAIG LOSES IN PLEA FOR GARAGE PERMIT

WALSH RESENTS 'INNUENDO'

Chairman Says During Argument There Were Intimations of "a Fix" —McCooey's Son Also Fails.

The Board of Standards and Appeals, with its chairman, William E. Walsh, presiding, voted unanimously yesterday to deny an application by the Farlow Associates for permission to build a large commercial garage at the southeast corner of Undercliff Avenue and West 175th Street, a site which is located in a residential zone.

The decision followed a public hearing in the Municipal Building, where Charles L. Craig, former Controller, appeared for the applicants. The hearing was marked by acrimonious exchanges between Chairman Walsh and representatives of property owners who opposed successfully the attempt of the Farlow Associates to have an exception made to the zoning restrictions.

Chairman Resents "Innuendo."

The chairman's displeasure seemed directed chiefly at Frank B. Lammers, president of the Undercliff Avenue Association, and Harry T. Zucker, an attorney of 61 Broadway, who represented an individual property owner. Mr. Walsh, looking at Lammers, remarked twice that "there has been too much letter writing to the Mayor and others," and said:

"I have explicit faith in this board, in their integrity and in their good judgment. And yet we have been challenged in everything we have done thus far. The only explanation I can think of is that the letter writers depend upon that activity for their continuance in office. There has been innuendo all through that this was 'a fix,' in the parlance of the day, and that certain irregularities were being winked at by this board. I'm tired of it and I'll tolerate no more."

There were other sharp exchanges. One came when Zucker demanded to be heard and permission was denied him. When he arose to a "point of order," the chairman ordered him to subside and directed attendants to eject him. The order was not carried out, but Chairman Walsh warned the attorney that "I'll throw you out myself the next time you inject yourself into this proceedings."

At the opening of the hearing Alderman Edward J. Walsh appeared in opposition to the Farlow Associates' application, explaining that property owners whom he represented had "asked me to do what I could."

"What do you mean by that?" demanded the chairman. "Do you mean they asked you to bring influence to bear? Are you from the Mayor's office or just what brings you here?"

"I am here merely to object to this proposed garage on the ground that it would be detrimental to a residential district," said the Alderman. "My interest is in representing the people of my district."

Calls Land Unsuited for Homes.

Mr. Craig was not the original lawyer in the case. The application was made June 1, 1928, by William P. Thomas. The former Controller was brought into the case last January. His argument yesterday was brief. He said he had the consent of 80 per cent of the owners of property adjacent to the proposed garage, that the plot in question was unsuitable for apartment construction because a cliff in the rear would shut off light and air from four stories. The owners had been unable to obtain mortgage loans for the construction of any sort of dwellings, he said.

Thomas F. Mullaney, an attorney, and Raphael J. Smyth of the Bronx County Chapter of Professional Engineers and Land Surveyors, attempted to answer these arguments and introduced new ones in opposition to the motion. After all had finished Henry L. Connell, a structural engineer on the board, pointed out that granting the application would establish "a precedent." The adverse vote followed, the chairman voting last.

The former Controller was not the only well-known figure to suffer a reverse at the hands of the board yesterday. John H. McCooey Jr., son of the Democratic leader of Brooklyn, lost an application to permit the erection of a gasoline service station at 377-381 Empire Boulevard, Brooklyn. He appeared for the Nostrand Holding Corporation, owner of the premises.

He paid.

In all, $1,785 was collected in fines during the day. About twenty persons were sentenced to short jail terms.

The total foreign debt is put at 3,100,783,309 pesos (about $372,093,997), divided among the United States, England, Germany and Switzerland. INSISTS LOCKE MINE WOULD MAKE PROFIT

EXPLAINS GEOLOGICAL DATA

John Carter Anderson, engineer of the Canario Copper Company, who with John T. and Herbert C. Locke, George F. Shurtleff and Harry C. Carragher is on trial in Federal court for using the mails to defraud, took the stand in his own defense yesterday before Judge Knox and a jury. Anderson's testimony was along the same lines as others in the last three days, first by the government mining expert, John Wellington, Finch, then Charles Dunning and Dr. John H. Banks, defense experts, all of whom have told of their findings and conclusions, based on inspection of the mine properties.

Mr. Anderson, questioned by his counsel, John E. Walker, told of his early schooling at Sioux City, Iowa, his beginnings as a mining man in Mexico when 19 years old, of his self education as a mining engineer by reading and study, a correspondence school course and one semester at the California University School of Mines.

Then he told of his first position with Cameron, Michel & Co. in 1920, when he surveyed the Canario properties as consulting engineer and later as engineer in charge of the development.

He detailed his geological examination of the Polaris mine, a successful mine near the Canario properties which has frequently been used as a basis of comparison by other witnesses. His opinion of its type was at variance with that of the government expert. He then described the Canario properties, illustrating his points from maps prepared by him in 1921 "to form the basis for all future surveys and for the development work."

He described the shape of the ore body, illustrating its proportions by measuring off with his hands for the benefit of the jury and turning to the court stenographer to spell out technical terms. Anderson will complete his testimony today.

Dr. John H. Banks, a consulting engineer, preceded Mr. Anderson on the stand. He supported the testimony given the day before by Charles Dunning for the defense by expressing an opinion that the Batamote and Lillie mines could be operated profitably with 1½ per cent copper ore.

Dr. Banks did not present figures of operating costs and probable tonnage, under cross-examination by Assistant United States Attorney Lowell Wadmond, but he refused to admit there was any doubt of the mine being able to operate with the low grade ore which all witnesses have agreed exists at the properties.

There are 9 "BAUMANNS" selling Furniture in the Metropolitan District

But — there is only ONE

LUDWIG BAUMANN

WE BELIEVE no other merchant has as difficult a problem as we, in establishing his identity with those who wish to be his customers. ¶ A brief inspection of the telephone directory disclosed no less than nine different concerns named Baumann, all selling furniture, all within the Metropolitan limits. All of these merchants deserve their "place in the Sun" and we are sure none of them wish to be confused with us. ¶ Yet, we hardly see the day that customers do not relate their experiences in other "Baumann Stores" which they subsequently found were NOT Ludwig Baumann Stores. ¶ For their future protection we repeat —

There is only ONE Ludwig Baumann

This is LUDWIG BAUMANN without any other combination of initials, corporation signs or anything.

This is LUDWIG BAUMANN, 71 years old and still the fastest growing furniture house in the Metropolitan district.

RELIEF PLANE IN RIVER

ATLANTA, Ga., March 19 (AP).—A modern Paul Revere sped through the Apalachicola Valley in Florida today with warnings of the flood, approaching from Georgia and Alabama, which has inundated towns and rich farming sections, made highways impassable and caused the death of more than a score of persons.

Edward H. Calvin, a Red Cross worker, drove an automobile from Bainbridge southward to beat the crest of the flood and urge inhabitants along the Apalachicola to seek safety on higher ground.

At River Junction, at the confluence of the Chattahoochee and Flint rivers, the business section and part of the homes were under water and the river was still rising.

Fort Gaines, Ga., on the Chattahoochee, had the highest waters in its history. The city pumping station was under water, as was the ice and cold storage plant and the Southern Cotton Oil Company. School children were transported to and from their classes in boats and mail was brought into the town by boat.

Begin Rehabilitation Work.

Curfew law was evoked for the adult inhabitants of Elba and Geneva, Ala., who started rehabilitation after being driven from their homes by the inundation of last week. Under military control, residents with permits carrying provisions and water for twenty-four hours were permitted to enter for salvage and repair work. They must have been inoculated against typhoid fever and all were required to leave the town before sundown. Children were kept in the refugee camps.

Food and other supplies were being delivered by aviators on a regular schedule to the South Alabama towns and the northwest Florida towns which were flood-swept. The planes were from the naval air station at Pensacola, where navy pilots arrived and departed as fast as their planes could be refueled and reloaded.

Under the direction of the Red Cross succor and relief went forward systematically throughout the inundated territory. While food and clothing were forwarded to the affected regions, Red Cross chapters in Florida, Alabama and Georgia put on drives for contributions which met with quick responses.

May Ask Congress For Funds.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 19 (AP).—Assured by Weather Bureau officials that all rivers were subsiding in the flood zones, Governor Graves and the Red Cross set about the task of giving relief agencies permanent organization in the flood-swept areas of Alabama.

The Governor declined to call a special session of the Legislature on the ground that ninety days would be required to pass a bond issue for the 15,000 refugees, but announced he had called the State's Congress delegation for a conference tomorrow with a view to obtaining an appropriation from Congress.

Relief Plane Forced Into River.

A relief airplane from Langley Field, Va., piloted by Lieutenant Warren Higgins, with Corporal Woodward as observer, was forced down in the Conecuh River at 1 o'clock this afternoon, twelve miles north of Brewton, while carrying provisions. Lieutenant Hall, also of Langley Field, reported the accident to Maxwell Field here. Lieutenant Hall said Lieutenant Higgins and Corporal Woodward swam through the tidewater to a wooded spot, where they were picked up.

JAILED FOR $129,000 THEFT.

A sentence of two and a half to five years in Sing Sing was imposed by Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions yesterday on William H. Pilkington, 29 years old, who while employed as manager of the American branch of Joshua Hoyle & Son, Ltd., English cotton converters at 86 Worth Street, in the last three years stole $129,000 of the firm's funds.

Pilkington, who was sent from the headquarters in Manchester, England, to manage the American branch, fled with his wife and two small children last June to a chicken farm he had purchased at Vancouver, B. C., when accountants began to go over his books. He was arrested and was released on $25,000 bail after pleading guilty to second-degree grand larceny on his promise to make restitution.

Walter Pilling, president of the company, came here from England recently and told Judge Rosalsky that the firm discovered several years ago that Pilkington had stolen some of its funds, but that he was permitted to remain at his post at the time on the promise of his father, who was an official in the Manchester plant, that the son would make restitution.

Judge Rosalsky denied the plea of Pilkington's lawyer for clemency, saying that mercy had been shown him by permitting him to plead guilty to the lesser charge. Pilkington will be deported when he serves the Sing Sing term.

M'Cunn Hearing Postponed a Month

The hearing of James M. McCunn on charges of operating a large bootleg business, scheduled for yesterday before United States Commissioner O'Neill, was postponed for one month on motion of Assistant United States Attorney M. Schwartz. Mr. Schwartz told the commission that the Grand Jury was investigating the McCunn case. McCunn was accused following raids on Feb. 14 at the Monroe Lamp and Equipment Company, 314 West Fourteenth Street, Manhattan, and the International Postal Supply Company, 632 Prospect Place, Brooklyn.

PILOT IN FATAL CRASH THINKS HE HIT WIRES

SAYS ONE MOTOR CUT OUT

LINE DEFENDS LOADING

—Gasoline Is Found Pure.

The failure of a motor, either the left or right wing engine on the Colonial Airways Ford monoplane, was responsible for the crash at Newark last Sunday that resulted in the death of fourteen persons, Pilot Lou Foote revealed yesterday from his bed in St. James Hospital as he told his story of the accident.

Foote, who has a fractured skull and other injuries, varied his story in telling it. To Newark detectives he said his left motor had failed while he told Lieutenant Edwin Weatherdon that it was the right motor that had gone dead. In other details the two reports coincided.

According to the detectives the pilot is still unaware that any lives were lost. Warned that the slightest shock might seriously affect Foote, the policemen did not enlighten him. Beyond admitting in answer to Foote's questions that his friend, Delmont Parsons, who had occupied the cockpit with him had been "slightly injured," they told him nothing. Parsons was one of the fourteen victims.

Line Carries Insurance.

There were few other developments in the fivefold investigation of the crash. The United States Aviation Underwriters, Inc. of 80 John Street who looked after the insurance have apparently finished their investigation. David Beebe, head of that organization, made public a statement last night which said that Colonial Airways Inc. in compliance with the regulations of the airport carried liability insurance.

"However, from the facts thus far developed," Mr. Beebe said, "there appears to be no legal liability."

Asked concerning this last statement, the underwriter explained that since it appeared that the laws for load and care of the plane, competence of the pilot and other details had been complied with it would seem that there had been no negligence.

It is understood that the liability insurance protected the airways company to the extent of $10,000 for each seat in the plane.

Officials of the Cononial Airways disagreed yesterday with the construction placed on the regulation govering the legal load for the plane by Edward P. Howard, Chief of the Air Regulations Division of the Department of Commerce. Mr. Howard had stated that the load was limited to twelve passengers.

Dudley Rowland, chief of operations for the air transport company, defended the action of the company in carrying thirteen passengers besides the pilot and one other in the plane, by quoting the poundage figures on loading which he had presented at the Mayor's conference in Newark on Monday. Asked about the regulation forbidding carrying a passenger in the pilot's cockpit where Parsons rode, Mr. Rowland said it had not been definitely established that Parsons was occupying the other seat in the dual control cabin.

Major James A. Welsh, assistant secretary and assistant treasurer of Colonial, said that Parsons had been working for the company as a patronage solicitor and that he rode on the fatal flight in the capacity of an employe.

Had Difficulty With Plane.

Foote's story disclosed that he had found the plane difficult to manoeuvre after one motor cut out. To gain more altitude, the detectives reported, Foote speeded the centre and right wing motors but found that "the left torque" was so great that it tended to pull the plane around to the left.

Foote, apparently, was unable to control the heavily loaded plane under the conditions and so, to reduce this twisting motion, he cut the speed of the other motors and prepared for a landing. He saw an open field, the police reported, across the railroad tracks and headed for it steadily losing altitude. Then coming from the west, he noted the wires along the east side of the railroad tracks.

The pilot, according to the police, was fearful of striking the wires and made one last desperate attempt to lift the plane over them. Foote, they said, seemed to be under the impression that he had struck the wires and had been knocked unconscious when the plane came down. He made no mention of the sand on which the plane struck so hard that it was sliced in two and apparently he never saw it.

Chemists retained by the City of Newark tested oil and gasoline taken from the wrecked plane and found both of excellent quality yesterday.

A report received by the Newark police from Turlock, Cal., that was said to have been sent by a Mrs. Foote contained a request for information as to the pilot's condition and an offer of aid if the flier was in need.

Mrs. Regine Foote, wife of the pilot, who came from Detroit with him, said that her husband had been married previously and that his former wife and seven-year-old daughter lived in California.

BOARD TO MEET AT CAPITAL.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—An accident board of the Aeronautics Branch of the Department of Commerce will convene either on Friday or early next week to investigate the crash of the Colonial Airways Ford transport plane at Newark last Sunday, which resulted in the death of fourteen persons, Edward P. Howard, chief of the Air Regulations Division of the department, announced today.

Mr. Howard said the official reports on the crash from the department's New York inspectors, Robert Copsey and Marshall Boggs, were expected to be received here Thursday. Gilbert C. Budwig, chief inspector, who flew to Newark yesterday to investigate the causes of the accident, returned to Washington today.

Reports that regulations for the carrying of passengers would be tightened as a result of the accident were discounted here, department officials declaring that the rules are sufficiently severe, if observed, to guard against all accidents, except those which cannot be foreseen. Department officials appeared convinced that they had discovered the cause for the crash, but refused to discuss it in any way, pending the sitting of the accident board.

PLANE VICTIM WAS ON BAIL.

Hoboken Man Was to Have Been Tried Yesterday in Liquor Plot.

TRENTON, N. J., March 19.—Anton Doele of Hoboken, who was among those killed in the Newark airplane crash on Sunday, was to have been tried in Federal court here today on a charge of conspiracy to smuggle liquor into this country. He was the only one of nine men arrested in an alleged plot who was able to furnish bail. The others were held in jail until today.

Eight seamen of the steamship Sacandaga, plying between Antwerp and Philadelphia and New York, were arrested last July 1 after 674 bottles of liquor had been confiscated by customs officers. Later Doele was implicated and arrested on a charge of receiving the liquor.

When the seamen faced the court they had served ninety-three days and the judge deemed that sufficient penalty.

OFFERS AIR BILL AT ALBANY.

Cantor Proposes Drastic Rules for Licensing of Planes and Pilots.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 19.—The airplane accident near Newark, N. J., on Sunday, which cost fourteen lives, prompted Assemblyman Maurice F. Cantor, New York Democrat, to introduce a bill today proposing drastic regulations for the licensing and registration of airplanes and operators. The proposed statute would be enforced by the Bureau of Motor Vehicles and every plane would have to be carefully inspected before each flight.

Under the bill the registration fee for passenger planes would be $1 per horsepower with a minimum of $100. Applications for registration would have to be accompanied by a liability insurance policy covering each passenger against death or injury to the extent of $2,500.

GRAND JURY ENDS COKELEY INQUIRY

DEAD MAN CITED AS SOURCE

Witness, Admitting He Failed to Name Lawyer He Accused, Asks That Minutes Be Made Public.

William A. Cokeley, Bronx real estate appraiser, who last week told the Bronx Chamber of Commerce that he had heard that a lawyer was ready to pay $50,000 for an appointment to the Supreme Court bench, said yesterday that he would try to have the minutes of a Bronx grand jury meeting at which he testified concerning his charge made public. The grand jury met in the morning and handed up a presentment to Justice Mitchell in the Supreme Court.

After the hearing Mr. Cokeley said he had not named the lawyer to whom his charge referred.

Mr. Cokeley was subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury by Mr. McGeehan, after failing last Saturday in an attempt to hold an open investigation of Mr. Cokeley's charge in the Magistrate's Court.

The grand jury presentment said:

"Despite our most earnest desire to satisfy ourselves whether or not there was any basis in the facts for the making of so serious a charge, we found ourselves blocked in our inquiry by the statement of the witthe Bronx Chamber of Commerce meeting were predicated upon what he was told by a resident of this ness, Cokeley, that his utterances at county, whose lips were sealed last week by death.

"We, the members of the grand jury, regret that we are unable to pursue this inquiry further. Whether or not the dead man made such a statement to Mr. Cokeley, we, of course, are unable to say, but it is significant that the man whom the witness Cokeley says gave him the information relative to the attempt to purchase a place on the Supreme Court, departed this earth several days before Mr. Cokeley made his statement at the Bronx Chamber of Commerce meeting."

Mr. Cokeley pointed out, concerning the presentment, that it made no reference whatever to whether or not he was asked to "name the lawyer," and said he had not been asked all the questions he "would have liked to have been asked." He said he would therefore request his attorney, Charles V. Halley Jr., to ask Mr. McGeehan to obtain the permission of a Supreme Court Justice to have the grand jury minutes made public.

When Mr. Halleys statement was called to the attention of the District Attorney, he replied that in so far as he was concerned the matter was closed with the grand jury presentment. "Mr. Cokeley had ample opportunity to testify openly in Magistrate's court," he said, adding: "I do not intend to take my law from Mr. Halley."

Mr. Halley countered with the statement that there "must be something about the grand jury minutes which Mr. McGeehan does not wish to have made public."

A Personal Liberty League is being formed in the Bronx, Mr. Cokeley said, "to stop such treatment as I received at the hands of the District Attorney. I was subpoenaed into Magistrate's Court, given an adjournment of only twenty-four hours instead of forty-eight, and in the end the entire matter came to nought and had to be taken to the grand jury, as should have been done in the first place, because the Magistrate's Court method of investigation which Mr. McGeehan tried to force upon me is not legal."

The grand jury presentment commended Mr. McGeehan for his promptness in starting an investigation into the charge made by Mr. Cokeley.

It is said that the stars of Movieland do their best work when inspired by the strains of appropriate music. But who ever heard of a sale closed to music? Or a conference conducted to the strains of Mendelssohn's Spring Song?

All noise is disturbing in business. And of all distracting office noises, the commonest and costliest is typewriter din . . . that incessant clatter that drowns out the telephone caller, plagues the thinker, disturbs discussion, slows up the typist, and raises the whole pitch of the office to a hub-bub.

There are two classes of business men who tolerate typewriter din. Those who, for some strange reason, endure it; and those who do not know the REMINGTON NOISELESS TYPEWRITER.

To the latter this advertisement is addressed.

We want him to know that besides doing its job with utter noiselessness, the REMINGTON NOISELESS is a better typewriter, built on a new principle . . . a pressure-stroke instead of a hammer-blow; doing better work faster and with less effort from the typist.

NEW BANK CONTROL IS URGED IN JERSEY

Inquiry Committee Proposes 32 Changes in Its Report to the Legislature.

ASKS LOAN INTEREST CUT

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., March 19.—Recommending extensive changes in the issuance of bank charters and a reduction from 3 to 1½ per cent a month in the interest rate charged for small loans, the Davis commission submitted today to the Legislature its report of the investigation into the State Department of Banking and Insurance. There were thirty-two recommendations in the report, and twelve bills to carry out the commission's suggestions were introduced.

One suggestion was that a committee be created to investigate automobile, furniture and first and second mortgage financing companies.

The commission reported that no evidence was found connecting former Banking Commissioner Edward Maxson, who was in charge of the department during the investigation, with alleged bribes to obtain bank charters, but the report held that there had been a conflict between his duties as commissioner and his services as receiver for certain organizations; that the enforcement of the small loan act has been "singularly inept and inert," and that an examination of building and loan charters approved during the last six years showed "the same political and friendly influence" as in bank charters. Maxson's "inertia and utter lack of initiative" was blamed for the "deplorable situation" in his department.

Insurance Investigation Urged.

At the suggestion of Senator Simpson, it was pointed out that the proposed committee to investigate automobile, furniture and first and second mortgage financing companies could investigate the insurance side of the department activities. He asserted that there was a hint during an investigation a few years ago that a fire insurance trust existed in New Jersey.

The bank charter issuance changes would compel the commissioner to pass upon all applications within three months after presentation and file a memorandum of the reasons for his decision. The decision would be reviewable by the Supreme Court on writs of certiorari or mandamus. No charter would be approved that contemplates or provides promotion fees, and all banks and trust companies within two miles of the proposed new institution would be notified of the application.

Small loan companies would be barred from engaging in any other business in the same office or in association or connection with the lending of money under the regulation of such concerns. The 3 per cent a month interest charge for small loan companies was allowed in 1914. It was designed to attract legitimate capital to meet the needs of the small borrower and to drive out the loan sharks.

Senator Richards and Senator Simpson clashed during discussion of the report in the upper house when Senator Simpson called it a "whitewash." Mr. Richards insisted that by no strength of the imagination could it be so termed.

"If the report is a 'whitewash,'" said Senator Richards, "there was never an indictment of a man in public office that was not a 'whitewash.' Such dereliction has been shown as would permit the Senate to impeach such a man were he still in office.

"It was found by the committee that political influence was allowed to sway, that lawyers were permitted to collect big fees and that charters were approved after adverse reports, all of which was in the face of warning to the commissioner as early as 1924 that money was being paid for charters.

"The only portion of the report with which I might not be ready to agree is the statement that the commissioner did not share in the fee. It was proved conclusively that Commissionr Maxson was utterly unfit and failed properly to administer the office, if he did not administer it corruptly. If he were tried before a jury by circumstantial evidence one could go much further. Men have been hanged for less.

Points to Lack of Charges.

Senator Simpson, who was a member of the committee, insisted that the report was a whitewash, pointing out that it failed to name Mayor Hague of Jersey City, former Prosecutor John Milton of Hudson and J. J. Fallon Jr. of Hoboken, son of Vice Chancellor Fallon, all of whom were mentioned during the inquiry.

Mr. Simpson offered a resolution which he said took the place of a minority report. It called for the creation of a committee of four members to investigate the fire insurance business in New Jersey.

Regarding the Liberty Surety Bond Insurance Company of Trenton, the report said there was no evidence of violation of the law, but criticized the ethics of a company listing State officials and others of political prominence among its officers, directors and stockholders doing business with the State. Former Controller Newton A. K. Bugbee is president of the company.

"We find no violation of law," the report declared. "We do find, however, a natural tendency for contractors and bidders on State work to surmise and believe that by placing their bonds in such a company favor will be shown them."

The committee held that new investment trust laws were not needed as much as the rigid enforcement of existing regulations. A list of forty-two irregularities in the conduct of these companies was set forth, but the majority, if not all, it was pointed out, could be remedied by the present legal machinery.

It was suggested that the securities division of the Attorney General's Department show more initiative in dealing with fraudulent stock selling and not to rely on "dilatory and perfunctory questionnaires." Legislation was asked to restrict the use of the words "trust," "bank," "bankers" or "banking" as a part of the name of any company to banking institutions.

No Political Withdrawals Found.

Charges that State deposits in banks had been totally or in part withdrawn for political reasons were declared unfounded.

The staff of bank examiners was commended. The only fault found was that the examinations did not extend to individual ledgers and verification of the accounts or pass books of the depositors.

Violation of a high obligation of good faith was charged against the department in permitting the filing of official and confidential reports covering insurance companies, the official reports going to other States as a basis for the admission of New Jersey companies to do business there.

McAndrew-Thompson Suit Dismissed

CHICAGO, March 19.—The $250,000 libel suit of William McAndrew, ousted Superintendent of Chicago public schools, against Mayor Thompson was dismissed for want of prosecution today by Judge Harry A. Lewis because counsel for Mr. McAndrew failed to appear. Although the suit was dropped today, it will be reinstated next week.

punishment so cruel that it violated Dougall's rights under the Eighth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

Judge Warns of Severer Penalty.

"Before going any further," said Judge Coleman as soon as he had heard Dougall's plea of guilty, "I want to make sure there is no misunderstanding as to what the results of such a plea may be, and I give you leave to withdraw your plea after you understand what I am going to do. I have, in the past, been extremely lenient toward offenders of this class because I believe it was the proper thing to do and in line with the moral sense of the community. However, Congress has now passed a law, the President has signed it and indicated thereby the intent of the government to impose more drastic penalties than in the past.

"If you tendered your plea expecting the same leniency that was shown before the new law was passed, you made a mistake. It is my intention, under a plea of guilty to selling or manufacturing to impose a sentence ordinarily of six months and to deal with much greater severity with those arraigned, after conviction, who have violated the law for commercial purposes.

"I do not intend to deal more drastically than in the past with those who violate the law for their own, other than commercial, purposes; for those who secure or manufacture for their own use only."

Leniency Urged for War Veteran.

"Your honor," said Mr. McCormack, "this is a case which justifies extreme leniency. I advised my client to plead guilty, and he decided to do so rather than take the stand and perjure himself or ask an attorney to suborn perjury. I would like an hour in which to talk with him before deciding whether to let the plea stand. In this connection may I call the court's attention to the fact that the minimum penalty has not been changed by law.

Judge Coleman granted the requested delay but reiterated his belief that the Jones law called for more severe penalties, and pointed out that violations of that law were felonies.

"I would remind your honor," said McCormack, "of the Eighth Amendment, not the Eighteenth, which prohibits cruel punishment. This man has been in prison fourteen days without bail for selling a drink of liquor. If that is not a cruel and inhuman punishment for such an offense, I would like to know what cruel and inhuman punishment is. The offense has, indeed, been made a felony. That strips a man of his citizenship, for selling one glass of liquor."

Within less than an hour Dougall was before Judge Coleman again. Mr. McCormack announced that, despite the sentence Judge Coleman had said he would give violators of the Jones law, Dougall would stand on his plea of guilty. He declared again that the loss of his citizenship and his fourteen days in jail already represented a violation of the Eighth Amendment and asked for a suspended sentence. Asked by his attorney just how much he had received for all the liquor he had sold, Dougall replied, "$2.40."

Gets Credit for Time in Jail.

"I shall give him credit for the fourteen days he has spent in jail," said Judge Coleman, "and I shall sentence him to three months only in view of the fact that he may not have realized that, under this law, the court is practically bound to treat violations of it with severity. I fix this penalty only because I believe he was not fully conscious of this necessary severity."

"The Jones law," declared Mr. McCormack, "might well be applied to this man's employer for not bailing him out of jail. He should be given the limit."

"If an owner of a liquor-selling resort should plead guilty," declared Judge Coleman, "I would give him much more than six months, but, untunately, few of them do. For an employe, I think six months about right. I know no other way of complying with the intention of Congress, although it may be contrary to my own personal views or feelings. That, perhaps, makes me the more determined to live up to my conception of my duty."

The Jones law expressly states that a great deal is to be left to the discretion of the judge dealing with each particular case that comes under its provisions. For this reason the new law has been criticized by some on the theory that a judge, so inclined, could, by the leniency of his penalties, make it little worse, if any, than other prohibition enforcement statutes.

Doom of Liquor Resorts Predicted.

An official from the office of Prohibition Administrator Maurice Campbell, who was in court to witness the outcome of the first Jones law plea, said:

"This means the death of a large number of liquor-selling resorts."

Michael Feldodorff, indicted with Arthur Daniel for selling a glass of whisky at 313 West Fifty-fifth Street, pleaded not guilty to a charge of violation of the Jones law. He, too, has been in jail since his arrest on March 10. Judge Coleman set their trial for tomorrow.

When Feldodorff announced he was unable to employ counsel, Judge Coleman assigned as his counsel Frederic R. Coudert Jr., head of the committee of lawyers organized recently to defend persons charged with violations of the Jones law. Mr. Coudert said later he appreciated Judge Coleman's courtesy in assigning him to Feldodorff's case.

Retires From Presidency of Brooklyn Chamber in Two Months.

George V. McLaughlin, president of the Brooklyn Trust Company and former Police Commissioner, will retire from the presidency of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce when his term expires in about two months, it was learned yesterday. Mr. McLaughlin, it was said, felt that he could not give the additional time from his work as bank president to the duties of president of the chamber.

He will retain his interest in the organization, and will continue as a director of the chamber. In connection with the disclosure concerning his impending retirement from that office, it was also learned that Mr. McLaughlin was firm in his decision, announced at the chamber dinner, not to seek political office of any kind.

Why ATTILIO of Rome

advises all of his patrician clients to use Palmolive Soap twice daily

"The finest cleansing agents for the skin are, by general consent, olive and palm oils. For that reason, I always ask my clients to help me in the task of improving their complexions by cleansing the skin twice a day with Palmolive Soap, which embodies these two soothing oils in their purest form."

Attilio Colla

PIAZZA DI SPAGNA 68, ROMA

The typically Roman marble facade of Attilio's salon on the Piazza di Spagna, . . . where the patrician ladies of Italian artistic and social life consult the most distinguished of all Roman beauty specialists . . . The lovely fountain in front of St. Peter's—symbol of "The City of Fountains," at the left.

IN Rome, at the foot of the historic "Spanish Stairs," the Piazza di Spagna is encircled with shops that attract the most brilliant society. Here, some years ago, a Ferrara youth came to establish a beauty shop which, today, is the finest place of its kind throughout beautiful Italy. His name is Attilio Colla . . . better known to his patrons as "Attilio."

For years Attilio worked and studied the art of beauty culture in Paris. He then went to Budapest . . . then to Vienna, to London, once more to Vienna . . . always adding to the invaluable store of information which today sets him apart in his chosen field.

In his shop, at 68 Piazza di Spagna, he receives visits from no less a personage than her Majesty, The Queen of Italy. Roman patricians naturally seek his advice on care of the skin. So do women of the moving picture and stage artistocracy.

"I am perfectly certain," says Attilio, "that there are countless complexions which are less lovely than they ought to be, merely because one of the simplest and most natural of all beauty treatments is neglected. I refer to the cleansing of the skin.

"Soap cleanses the skin—cleanses the pores—as nothing else can, and it is the basic essential of successful beauty treatment. Much of the work of the beauty expert is nullified by neglect to follow this simple rule of complexion care. It is, of course, important to use the right kind of soap, because many kinds are not only unsuitable but positively harmful to the complexion. I always ask my clients to use Palmolive Soap, which embodies the finest cleansing agents for the skin."

Attilio's distinguished colleagues, in every great capital of Europe, in every smart resort . . . repeat this same advice. Madame Valentin Le Brun, Lina Cavalieri, of Paris; Pessl, of Vienna and Budapest, advisor to crowned heads of Europe . . . these and dozens of other experts tell their discriminating clients this easily-performed, twice-a-day treatment: massage a smooth lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water into the skin. Allow it to penetrate the pores. Rinse, after two minutes, first with warm water, now with cold. Then—and only then—are you ready for make-up!

If you do not already keep your skin fresh and lovely in this way, take the advice of the world's experts: begin to use Palmolive today!

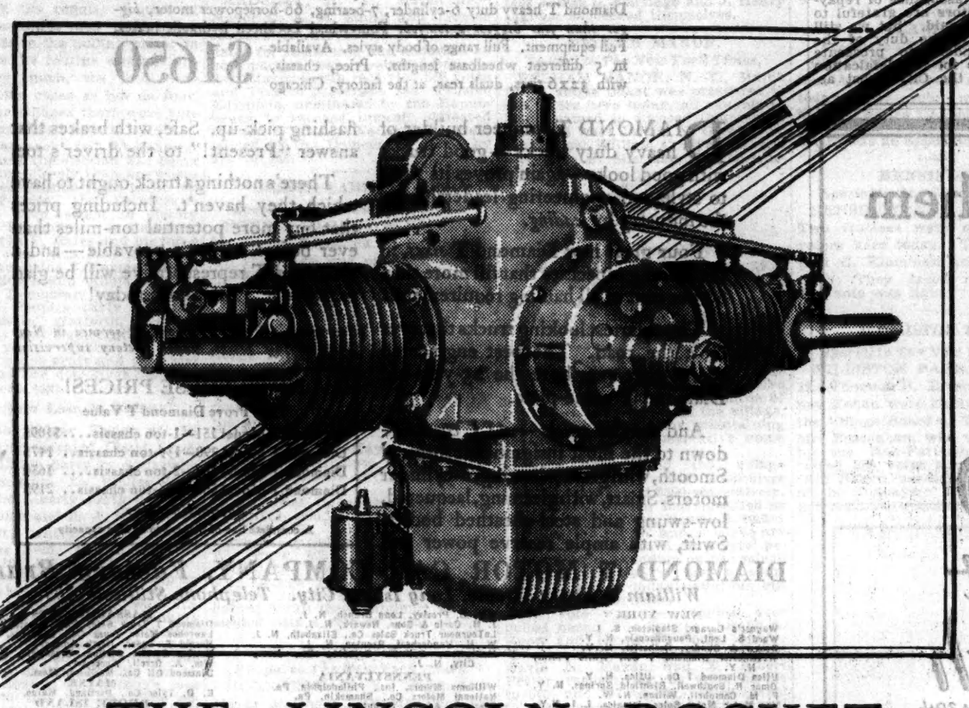
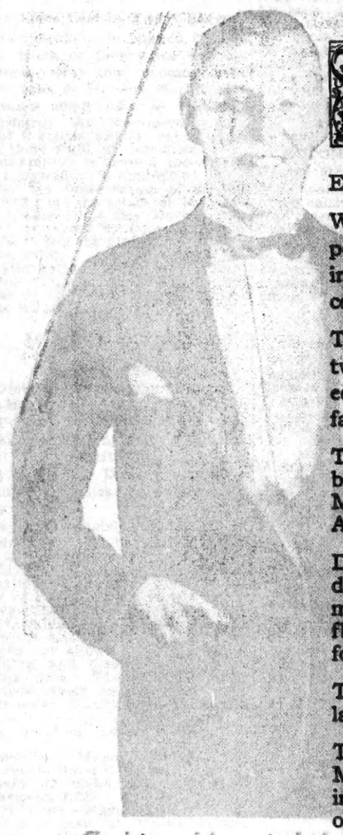
LINCOLN, NEBRASKA

Announces Two New Leaders



THE LINCOLN ROCKET

Formerly Known as The WRIGHT-MOREHOUSE Engine
29 H. P. Weight 89 lbs. 32 Miles on One Gallon of Gasoline



THE Lincoln Aircraft Company, Inc., of Lincoln, Nebraska, for ten years leaders in Aviation design and manufacturing, has purchased outright from the Wright Aeronautical Corp. of Paterson, N. J., the exclusive manufacturing and sales rights in the United States and Canada for the Wright-Morehouse Aircooled Airplane Engine. This engine will be known in the future as the Lincoln Rocket.

Wright Airplane Products are known all over the civilized world and their performances are unequalled in Aviation's history. We are extremely fortunate in securing these rights and feel that aviation enthusiasts throughout the country will be appreciative of our efforts.

The Lincoln Rocket Engine (formerly the Wright-Morehouse) is a light two cylinder opposed type, designed particularly for light airplanes. Practical, economical, easily installed and fool proof, it will prove to be an important factor in the development of the light airplane industry.

This engine has received extensive tests both in laboratory and flight. Calibration tests were made by the United States Army Engineering Division at McCook Field, Dayton, Ohio, the proving ground of the United States Army Air Corps.

Designed to fill a long felt want in the flying industry, a light weight and durable engine for light airplanes, the Lincoln Rocket Engine will satisfy the most exacting. Manufacturers of light airplanes, private owners, students of flying and amateur builders will all find the Lincoln Rocket an ideal engine for their use.

This engine in a light two-seater Airplane has shown a top speed of 80 M.P.H., landing speed of 30 M.P.H. and cruised 32 miles on one gallon of gasoline.

The potential market for this Lincoln Rocket Engine (formerly the Wright-Morehouse) is enormous. In 1928 over 12,000 students learned to fly and in 1929 it is conservatively estimated that over 25,000 will avail themselves of the opportunity.

With such an engine—the Lincoln Rocket—the flying student will be able to accumulate his flying hours—200 of which are required by the Department of Commerce for Transport Pilot's License, at one-tenth the present cost.

A Tandem Combination Training and Sport Plane of Merit

1. The Lincoln PT was designed and built to furnish Training Schools and Students with a low priced, sturdy and safe ship for training purposes. It embodies the utmost in safety. Its sturdy construction withstands rough usage—it is economical in first cost and maintenance upkeep.

2. The Lincoln PT will permit the practical use of many used 0X5 engines which still have hundreds of hours of flying left in them. They can be purchased at low cost and for a slight expenditure be available for use in this newly designed and most efficient airplane. The detachable motor mount permits the installing of any engine of 80 to 110 H.P.

3. Built for safety—a prime requisite for a training plane. They stand the rough usage in the hands of a novice, to which all training planes are subjected, whether on the ground in taxiing, take-offs and landings, or in the air in rough weather.

4. The Fuselage of the Lincoln PT is of chrome molybdenum steel—built by skilled workmen—of streamline design. The Landing Gear is of the split axle type, with axles of nickel steel and fastened to the fuselage with ½ inch nickel steel bolts and reinforced fittings, and will withstand the abuse of rough landings.

5. Lincoln PT Wings are built of the highest quality spruce spars and spruce and basswood ribs covered with high grade linen. They are designed for both lift and speed and are in excess of the Department of Commerce requirements.

6. The Bloxham Saftee Control Stick is used in the students cockpit as it can be instantly detached by the instructor to eliminate all danger from a student freezing to the stick. All controls are simple, free, accessible, adjustable and measure up to the required strength. Stabilizer is adjustable from the cockpit. Has right and left throttle controls, radiator shutter controls, switches, shutoffs and all instruments in both cockpits.

7. The Lincoln PT performance assures safety. A quick take-off, under full load, with an 0X5 engine turning but 1200 R.P.M., a 100 M.P.H. speed in the air and a landing speed under 30 M.P.H. create confidence in the mind of the beginner.

8. Excellent visibility for both student and instructor from a fuselage of but 24 inch width, which gives ample room in both cockpits. Nothing has been sacrificed to obtain full vision in all directions for the student as well as instructor.

9. The Lincoln PT is sleek, trim and sporty in appearance. The cowling is extremely well finished and the appointments throughout are of the best. Planes are finished in two attractive colors and tastefully striped.

FIRM REFUSES TO YIELD

"The strike against Logan and Bryan was declared not because the operators resent the installation of printing type tickers but because printer operators were being taken in to operate the machines from the outside at a lower wage scale," declared Frank B. Powers, president of the Commercial Telegraph Operators Union, yesterday.

"The situation headed up into an out and out wage cutting proposition and nothing else," he continued. "We telegraph operators wanted to be allowed to operate the printers. We are willing to change with progress in the telegraph field, but we want to be paid the same wages for operating the printing machines that we got as telegraph operators, not $30 a week less."

E. Vail Stebbins, of Logan and Bryan, said that it was his firm's policy to have the printer machines operated by the best qualified men, and it reserved the right to make the final decision as to which men were best qualified. He said that he had never taken the position that Morse operators could not be taken on for printer work. The firm reserved the right to take men on for printer work at lower salaries than those paid the Morse men, he said, and an endeavor would be made to place the old Morse operators, earning about $80 a week, in other positions in the firm at their old salaries.

Mr. Stebbins showed a reporter the wire room in which nine Morse operators were working next to eleven printer machines and asserted that the service yesterday was 100 per cent efficient. Of about 225 Morse operators, he declared between sixty and sixty-five answered the strike call. In thirty-two branch offices all the operators reported for duty, he added.

Mr. Powers, who disputed Mr. Stebbins's figures, said that the eleven printer machines meant merely five circuits working. "It bears out our information that the office is badly crippled," he declared. "We know that they have some old and some inexperienced Morse men on the job and the work on the printers is being done by young men inexperienced in brokerage work. We contend that our men are better on the printers because of their training, accuracy and quickness. Our men can be switched over to Morse if the machine fails.

"In the beginning of our negotiations, Logan and Bryan said that they were not interested in saving a little money on operators, but only in saving on cost of leased wires. They would use our men on the printers. Then they changed their policy and said that efficiency being equal between our men and the new men on the printers, the new men would get the preference at the lower scale. They said they would 'endeavor' to place our men in other departments, but such a vague promise was nothing we could bank on. The promise was insincere because in only one other department are the men paid higher than Morse men. In a few weeks after the change our men would have found themselves out of jobs."

There were no indications of unrest in the wire rooms of other brokerage offices. Union officials denied emphatically rumors that they would order out all men in brokerage offices.

J. H. ABEEL WILL PROBATED.

By the will of John Howard Abeel, retired iron merchant, which was filed for probate yesterday, his former ward, Benjamin S. Van Wyck of Boston, is made chief legatee. Mr. Van Wyck receives the testator's residence and its site, at 148 West Seventy-third Street, together with household effects and half the residuary estate.

Alfred H. Abeel, a nephew, of 311 West Ninety-fifth Street, gets a life income from the other half of the residue, and after his death it goes to his wife, Sarah. When Mrs. Sarah Abeel dies the principal reverts to Mr. Van Wyck. The same eventual disposition is made of a $25,000 trust fund created for the nephew.

Cash bequests include $10,000 to Marjorie C. Lyon, a cousin, of 162 East Seventy-eighth Street; $5,000 to Mary Martindale, $4,000 to Sinclair Culpepper and $2,500 to Mrs. Alice Culpepper. Miss Martindale and Mr. Culpepper were employes of the testator.

Mr. Abeel, who died March 13 in his eighty-third year, had been a member of Abeel Brothers, iron merchants at 190 South Street. He belonged to the Sons of the Revolution and other fraternal orders.

WARDER WON'T QUIT BANKING POST NOW

State Bank Superintendent Sees Politics in Report He Will Not Be Renamed.

TO PRESS CITY TRUST DEAL

"I Shall Keep Right at It Till Every Depositor Has Been Satisfied," He Says.

Frank H. Warder, State Superintendent, showed little interest yesterday in a newspaper report from Albany to the effect that he would not be renominated on account of criticism of his handling of the City Trust Company bankruptcy and because of his resentment of criticism. Mr. Warder, after suggesting that the report was "politically" inspired, also said that he had no intention of resigning before entirely concluding the organization of the Mutual Trust Company, the new banking organization that will take over the affairs of the City Trust Company.

"I shall keep right at it until every depositor of the City Trust Company has been satisfied," said Mr. Warder. "Until then I cannot enter into any controversies about my office."

Former Supreme Court Justice Jeremiah T. Mahoney, counsel to the State Banking Department, who has been at the right hand of the State Superintendent of Banks in the reorganization of the City Trust Company, said there would be no thought of Mr. Warder's resigning before the Mutual Trust Company was under way.

Mr. Warder said that a news organization had erroneously attributed to him a statement to the effect that he was now through with the City Trust Company matter and had no intention of presenting evidence to the Attorney General.

"In the organization of the Mutual Trust Company I shall continue to give the fullest cooperation to the members of that group," said Mr. Warder, "and all along I have been cooperating with the District Attorney of Kings County. I have not turned over any evidence to District Attorney Banton."

Mr. Warder was reluctant to discuss the probability of a criminal action, and it is understood that he feels that he is acting for the best interest of the depositors.

Leon Leighton, an attorney for ten City Trust Company depositors, who has written to Governor Roosevelt criticizing Mr. Warder for not having made public the conditions he found in the City Trust Company, said yesterday that, in view of the bank's reorganization, he would take no immediate step to seek a Moreland investigation of the State Banking Department.

While expressing satisfaction at the reorganization plan, Vito Marcantonio, a law associate of Representative LaGuardia, announced yesterday that when the transfer of the City Trust Company deposits to the new Mutual Trust Company is sought before a Supreme Court Justice he would endeavor to be present to ask that the court require a guarantee of 100 per cent payments to depositors.

"Since there is assurance of repayment, the depositors are grateful to Mr. Warder," he said, "but we still insist that it is the duty of the State Superintendent to prosecute those responsible for the defalcation of $4,000,000 of the City Trust assets."

VILLAGE ELECTIONS BRING SOME UPSETS

TWO SUFFOLK MAYORS FAIL

SOUTHAMPTON MILL LOSES

Voters Refuse to Appropriate for Repair of Structure—Four Votes Cast in Two Places.

Suburban New York went to the polls yesterday to choose town and village officials and in the counties of Westchester, Rockland, Nassau and Suffolk the regular routine of small communities was interrupted for the visits to the polling place. In some places the routine was not disturbed very much, the total vote being in some cases as low as four. But in other villages there were contests that produced several upsets.

In Mamaroneck in Westchester County, where the election was being watched more closely than anywhere else, a bitter election fight involving charges of vice, the Democratic candidates were swept to victory over the Republican incumbents. Mayor George V. Bates and his three candidates for trustees were defeated by Augustus V. Haines, Democratic candidate and others on that slate. The Democrats had the backing of the Peoples party and ran on a "clean-up" platform.

It was the first Democratic victory in many years. There had been charges of police graft and the chief of police and two detectives resigned several weeks ago.

Two Mayors Lose in Suffolk.

In Suffolk, Edgar Foster of the Citizens party defeated Claud Lapsley of the Union party in Amityville by a wide margin. Dr. Walter Wellbrock of the Liberty party defeated George Irmish and E. J. McGraw in Lindenhurst, where three tickets were in the field. Irmish was the incumbent in Lindenhurst.

Mineola in Nassau County experienced another spirited contest but there the administration was victorious, Mayor Harry Asher winning re-election over Edward Schmidt, Non-Partisan candidate. The name of John Paino, Queens sewer contractor, indicted during the day for alleged operations in that borough, was brought into this contest. The opponents of Mayor Asher charged that Paino had received a sewer contract although he did not offer the best bid.

At Floral Park, also in Nassau County, there was a contest also, but here John McNeill, Citizens Party candidate, won a surprise victory over the incumbent, Clifford H. Oldaker, candidate for re-election as Mayor.

Four Votes Cast in Two Villages.

In two elections in Nassau County a low mark of four votes was established. Only four persons went to the polls in Hewlett Harbor and the same small number voted at Woodsburg. At Matinecock, only five of the sixty eligible voters exercised their right of franchise.

Southampton witnessed the defeat of a proposition to appropriate $10,000 for the preservation of an old windmill near the estate of Mrs. Arthur Claflin while Sag Harbor preserved its record by once more voting $50 to pay the salary of the town clock-winder.

At Haverstraw, in Rockland County, the Democrats elected Robert Stalter as Mayor and gained control of the village board.

WESTCHESTER.

MAMARONECK.

MAMARONECK, N. Y., March 19.—Former Tax Collector Augustus V. Haines, heading the Democratic ticket, led his party to victory here today in the first Democratic victory in this Republican stronghold in many years.

One of the contributing causes to the defeat of the Republican party was the charge that under the Republican Administration the Police Department has been graft-ridden. Chief of Police Jerome How and Detectives Charles Patterson and Murray Hawkins resigned several weeks ago when accused of having accepted gifts for allowing a combination gambling and disorderly house to operate here. The two detectives withdrew their resignations. The Westchester County grand jury will start an investigation tomorrow.

Mayor Tilley and the village trustees recently voted themselves salaries of $600 and $300 respectively. The village recently had qualified as a third-class village, in which, under the law, the Mayor and trustees are entitled to salaries. The windmill was erected in 1713. Another proposition to extend the corporate limits of the village to take in beach west of the community with an assessed valuation of $3,000,000 was carried 154 to 17. Mayor J. Edwin Elijah Redfield, unopposed, was re-elected trustee by 84 votes.

PATCHOGUE.

BROOKLYN STATIONS RENEW RADIO FIGHT

ASK 1,000 WATTS AT NIGHT

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Representatives of three Brooklyn and one Coney Island broadcasting stations appeared before the Federal Radio Commission today in an effort to reopen consideration of the existing radio situation in Brooklyn.

At present, Stations WLTH, WBBC, WSGH-WSDA of Brooklyn and WCGU of Coney Island, all share time on a frequency of 1,400 kilocycles. The avowed purpose of the hearing today was the sharing of time on this same frequency by WLTH and WBBC, which would leave WSGH-WSDA and WCGU without an assignment. WLTH and WBBC also asked that, in addition to their present power of 500 watts in the daytime, they be allowed to use 1,000 watts at night.

The commission was told that Brooklyn has one-fourth of the population of New York State and has only one 500-watt channel to serve their local needs.

S. J. Gellard, manager and owner of WLTH, and one of the principal witnesses, said he had expended about $40,000 on his station. He is installing a crystal control, and while admitting that his station had been off frequency, said that when new apparatus is finally installed its frequency will not vary

E. J. Téston of WBBC explained the apparatus used at his station and said that he is now planning to put in a crystal control to keep the station on its wave. He told the commission that at present fourteen hours of the time on the air are being paid for and eight not being paid for.

Hugo Siselberger, who said he represented many civic organizations of Brooklyn, told the commission of the radio situation there and stated that these organizations had not been able to get their views before the local public because of the curtailed time of the Brooklyn stations.

Hhe commission took the cases under advisement.

ALICE PATON'S RECITAL.

Soprano Has a Voice of Notable Purity and Timbre.

Alice Paton, soprano, gave a recital last night in the Town Hall before an audience of good size which listened with evident pleasure to the smooth and fluent delivery of a program of Italian airs, German lieder and French and English songs, classic and modern. Miss Paton has a light voice of notable purity and appealing timbre, well placed and produced with ease. Her upper tones, though at times slightly veiled, are mellow and true to the pitch, her phrasing is artistic, and her interpretations are intelligent if not emotionally profound. Her performance of the "Bel raggio" aria from Rossini's "Semiramide" was accurate in intonation and facile in the delivery of the elaborate floratura, though the finale lacked the requisite brilliancy.

Other items on the list included an aria from Handel's "Judas Maccabaeus," Italian airs of Donaudy, Cimara and Paradies, Liszt's "Oh, quand je dors," Debussy's "Pantoches," Strauss's "Morgen," Mueller's "Ablösung im Sommer," Reger's "Einsamkeit," and songs in English by Moir, Piggott, Andrews and Phillips. Walter Golde was the accompanist.

ZIEGFELD HIT TO END TOUR.

Cast of "Three Musketeers" Said to Need a Rest.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, March 19.—The "need of a rest" for all members of the cast of "The Three Musketeers" was given by Ziegfeld representatives here tonight as the sole reason for the decision to end the company's tour in Philadelphia this week, instead of continuing to Chicago and other cities.

Reports that friction among members of the cast might have contributed to the earlier closing were denied with the statement that there "never was a happier family." Specific denial was also given to rumors of a disagreement between Dennis King and Vivienne Segal. They were described as "having been and still are the very best of friends."

"The end of the tour does not mean the end of the production," it was declared. "The company will be back fresh, ready for another season, but it deserves a rest now."

It was also said that Mr. King's wife was to undergo an operation soon and that he wanted to be near by at the time.

She added German Lieder, a French group and songs in English, including two manuscripts dedicated to her by Lena Stelle Schneider and Vera Ward. Her hearers found delight in a fresh voice of much power, used with musical taste and animation in Brahams's "Meine Liebe Ist Gruen," and with expressive tenderness in the "Ave Maria" from "Das Feuerkreuz," by Max Bruch.

Americans and Rangers Play 0-0 Tie; Boston and Toronto Win

Second-Place Play-Off Series Opens With Hard-Fought 0-0 Game at Garden.

BOTH TEAMS ATTACK OFTEN

JOHNSON IN THE LIMELIGHT

Worters Has 42 Saves to Roach's 29 —Two Sextets Meet in Final Contest of Series Tomorrow.

By GROVER THEIS.

Sixty minutes of hockey at Madison Square Garden last night saw the New York Rangers and the New York Americans battle to a 0—0 tie and establish nothing in the way of settling the outcome of the second-place play-off. Under the rules that have been issued by President Frank Calder last night's game here was decided in the regular three periods. The customary overtime period of ten minutes was not played. Tomorrow night these two teams meet in their second and final game.

With total goals as the basis of reckoning the two-game series between the New York clubs, the opening encounter, which was witnessed by some 14,000 persons, was inconclusive. The Rangers and Americans are battling for the right to meet the winner of the third-place play-off between Toronto and Detroit in a best two out of three-game series.

Defensive Work Strong.

As a game of hockey the clash last night left nothing to be desired. Both teams did their utmost throughout, but were stopped by great defensive playing. No matter what combinations were tried there was always an adamant back line waiting.

Les Patrick matched his wits against those of Tommy Gorman, and though there were moments when one seemed to have the best of the other the final result was in neither's favor. For such time as Patrick threw in Ching Johnson, the veteran ranger defense man acquitted himself splendidly. He played a characteristic game, getting three of the total penalties.

Too much credit cannot be given the two goalies. Whenever the dashing attacking forces got the defense men they found the net tenders set for the shot. Roach was credited with 29 saves, while Worters had 42.

The opening face-off was the signal for a great roar from the vast throng, massed from the rink-side almost to the rafters. The action started at a sizzling pace and the Rangers, with their regular front line of the Cook brothers and Boucher in action and with Abel and Johnson manning the defense posts, soon exhibited their power on the attack.

The vociferousness of the onlookers increased to deafening proportions as the Cooks unloosed a dazzling attack that almost connected. The alert Worters, however, was ready for their thrust and warded off Bill Cook's swift shot.

The Americans went on the attack, and a pretty combination play by Connor, Burch and Broadbent sent the disk swiftly down the ice. Connor slammed a blazing drive which Roach found it difficult to turn aside.

The Americans continued to outplay the Rangers during the rest of the opening period, but Roach and his hard-pressed team-mates managed to withstand the assaults of their Manhattan rivals and the period ended in no scoring for either team.

Defense Men Adamant.

The second period started at a slower clip than the hurricane pace at which the first session had been fought. The defense men of the two sextets repulsed all attempts to get within scoring range, and Worters and Roach were not severely tested in the opening minutes.

Ching Johnson was sent off the ice for elbowing, and the Americans unleashed all the power they could muster in a desperate endeavor to break through the Rangers' defense while the burly defense man was in the penalty box. Roach, however, stood in the way of every scoring sally, and the Americans' repeated thrusts came to naught.

Whatever drives the Rangers were able to direct at him found the goalie on his toes. Reise made a daring thrust, but his shot went wide. The two teams skated against each other ardently, but could not do any scoring.

The Americans went on the attack as the third period got under way and sent two hot shots at Roach, both of them being on sudden onslaughts while the Rangers were waiting behind their blue line.

Bill Cook almost succeeded in placing the Rangers ahead when he switched his way all through the American defense and had what appeared a clear shot only to find that Worters was in the net waiting for him. He pierced Conacher and then fooled Reise with a shot that one would have supposed would settle the issue. The goalie, however, was alert and completed the save.

As the action approached the ten-minute period Patrick had Bill Cook, Bourgault and Frankie Boucher standing in front of Roach. They took everything that the Americans could offer and were ready for more. Conacher of the star-spangled troupe was sent off for holding, and his departure was the signal for a Ranger rush that had the crowd in an uproad. The period ended, however, without any scoring.

The line-up:

Worters	Goal	Roach
Reise	Defense	Abel
Conacher	Defense	Johnson
Burch	Centre	Boucher
Broadbent	Wing	Bill Cook
Connor	Wing	Bun Cook
Himes	Spare	Vail

Shepard	Spare	Oatman
White	Spare	Carson
	Spare	Bourgault

DETROIT, March 19 (AP).—Toronto's Maple Leafs played excellent hockey here tonight to lead the Detroit Cougars, 3 to 1, in their first half of the third-place National Hockey League play-off. The Leafs led the Cougars throughout the three periods. A dash by George Hay, star Cougar wing man, accounted for Detroit's goal in 16:35 of the final period. A capacity crowd of 14,000 attended.

Andy Blair, tall centre for the Leafs, slipped through the Cougar defense to score two goals, the first in 1 minute and 34 seconds of the opening session. Ace Bailey gave Blair an assist on the first goal, but the second came on a solo dash from behind the Detroit net in the third period. Art Smith scored the other Toronto goal in the first period on a pass from Danny Cox.

The Leafs took the offensive at the start whistle and slipped through two goals by eluding Noble and Brydge, Cougar defense men. Toronto then went on the defensive for a period and a half, coming out to score after Hay tallied in the final minutes.

The game was rough throughout, with the checking hard and the skating fast. Fifteen penalties were called, one or the other team being short a player most of the game.

Detroit's forward trio of Hay, Cooper and Connors worked hard to beat Charot, but they were checked time and time again before they got into Leaf territory. The Leafs used a hard checking, driving style of play to get them past the Cougar line, but they found trouble in Dolson, Cougar goalie, who turned back shots from all angles.

LONE TALLY IN FIRST PERIOD

A Pass From Hitchman Paves Way for the Score—15,000 See Contest in Boston.

BOSTON, March 19 (AP).—The Boston Bruins, champions of the American division of the National Hockey League, obtained the advantage over Les Canadiens, the International section's titleholders, by scoring a 1—0 victory before 15,000 persons here tonight in the first game of the first-place play-off. The series is best three games out of five. The second game will be played here Thursday night.

Though both teams appeared equally matched and displayed almost the same aggressiveness, the Bruins were able to take advantage of the only break of the game, which came in the opening period.

Soon after Carson and Lepine faced off, the rivals indicated they planned to play a close-checking, defensive game. Galbraith was the first to penetrate inside of either team's blue line, but he was checked by Mantha. Shore met Lepine when the latter broke through the Bruin forwards. Joliat tried to slide down the side wall, but Hitchman and Galbraith stopped him on the boards. Gagne drew the first penalty for a high stick on Hitchman.

Morenz relieved Joliat at the five-minute mark. Weiland came in for Carson. He and Hitchman rushed and broke through the Canadiens' defensemen. Hitchman passed to Weiland, who sprinted down the side wall, cut sharply over and fired the disk into the net for the first tally after almost eight minutes of rugged play.

The Bruins pressed their attack viciously and forced the Canadiens to employ five men on the defense. Morenz broke free once, but Carson followed him down and checked him out of his shot. Shore contributed an amazing display of stick-checking at Gagne's expense. In centre ice, Weiland hooked the rubber, broke through and fell face down, losing a chance for a straight shot at Hainsworth.

Thompson had nine stops and Hainsworth ten.

The opposing forwards staged a thrilling duel for the disk in centre when the second session got under way. The Canadiens started attacking and Gagne, Lepine and Joliat started rushing. Both forward lines were changed at the five-minute mark.

Morenz rushed and five Bruins checked him at the blue line. Gainer met the same fate on his try. Morenz fired from centre but was checked when he tried to get in close.

Shore fought his way through and his shot struck one of the posts of the visitors' net. Joliat drew his third penalty of the game at the 18-minute mark. The Bruins tried a three-man rush, which ended when Burke caught Oliver on the boards.

Thompson had twelve saves and Hainsworth eight.

Doc Carson won the disk on the face off to start the third period and took a long shot, which Hainsworth just barely kicked out of his net. Mantha brought it back and dribbled about until Shore checked him. Shore and Carson rushed but Eddie lost the disk. Galbraith and Oliver went down and the latter fought through and had a straight shot at Hainsworth but the latter saved.

The line-up:

Hitchman	Defense	Burke
Shore	Defense	Mantha

ABAD OUTPOINTS BASS.

Makes Strong Finish to Win the Decision in St. Louis Bout.

ST. LOUIS, March 20 (AP).—Davey Abad, the Panama kid, outpointed Benny Bass of Philadelphia in a ten-round fight here tonight. Bass had Abad down for the count of two in the fourth. Abad forced most of the fighting and made a strong finish, winning three of the last four rounds, the one being even.

Johnny (Pee Wee) Kaiser, 127, of St. Louis, stopped Mike Esposito, 121, of New York City, in the sixth. Jim Bean, 171, Enid, Okla., won the decision from Tom Pivaca, 178, St. Louis, in ten rounds.

The pick of the amateur boxers of Pittsburgh, Boston and New York will compete tonight in a ten-man team tourney in Madison Square Garden in the national championship trials being conducted by the Amateur Athletic Union. The program also includes three four-man team matches and a special bout between Ted Martin of the Trinity Club and Johnny Murphy, unattached lightweight.

The bouts are expected to develop candidates for the national title events in Boston next month.

TORONTO, March 19 (Canadian Press).—The ticket line-up of hockey fans for the return game of the "preliminary world's series" Thursday night between the Detroit Cougars and the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, held its premier today.

Five o'clock on a cold, grey morning revealed two huddled figures in a sheltered doorway of the arena gardens. Half an hour later when they still held their vantage spot unopposed, the two hardy enthusiasts called time and went into a near-by restaurant.

Fortified with hot coffee for their long vigil, the two returned only to find that a scraggly line-up of four had replaced them at the doorway. The line continued to grow and before 10 o'clock, when the ticket windows opened, the number had increased to 400. In the line-up that stretched a solid block along Mutual Street were young men, older men of staid business appearance and fashionably attired girls and women.

A solitary policeman paraded up and down at the entrance to the arena keeping the ever-present ticket scalpers worried as they tried every subterfuge to leap the barrier of a two-ticket limit. Every seat and every inch of available standing room will be filled at the arena Thursday when the Leafs and Cougars meet.

CAREY IS ELECTED GARDEN PRESIDENT

GIMBEL IS NEW DIRECTOR

Bush Named for Vacancy on the Executive Committee—Carey to Move Offices to Arena.

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

William F. Carey, railroad builder and contractor, who has been vice president and treasurer of the Madison Square Garden Corporation since the erection of the present arena, now is president of the corporation and directing genius of the organization.

The succession of Carey to the position vacated when death overtook Tex Rickard was formally effected yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the corporation's board of directors, held in the offices of Hayden, Stone & Co., 25 Broad Street. Attending the meetings were ten of the corporation's directors, one of the best attended meetings of record. The election was unanimous.

At the meeting Bernard F. Gimbel, a stockholder in the corporation since it was organized, was elected to the directorate to fill another vacancy caused by the death of Rickard. James I. Bush, vice president of the Equitable Trust Company and a leading figure in Garden affairs, was elected to a vacancy on the executive committee caused by the death of Rickard.

Statement Is Issued.

Announcement of the developments of the board of directors' meeting was contained in the following typewritten statement, issued by Secretary Timothy Murphy after the meeting:

"At a meeting of the board of directors of Madison Square Garden Corporation held today Mr. William F. Carey was elected president. Colonel John S. Hammond continues as vice president.

"Mr. Bernard F. Gimbel was elected a director to fill the place made vacant by the death of Mr. Rickard.

"Mr. James I. Bush was elected a member of the executive committee to fill the place made vacant by the death of Mr. Rickard.

"A quarterly dividend of 37½ cents per share was declared payable April 15, 1929, to holders of record April 5, 1929."

Chairman Hoyt Presides.

Chairman Richard F. Hoyt, largest individual shareholder in the Garden, whose forecast of Carey's election at a dinner on Monday night came as the first official announcement of the identity of Rickard's successor, presided over the meeting. Other directors there were: Bush, Carey, Matthew C. Brush, Walter Camp, D. W. Dilworth, John R. Kilpatrick, Sidney R. Kent, John Ringling and J. Ernest Richards. Absentee members of the board were Kermit Roosevelt and Walter P. Chrysler. The election of Gimbel to the board brings the directorate up to its accustomed numerical strength of thirteen members.

Colonel Hammond is expected to continue in direct control of the Garden's hockey activities and share to an extent with Carey in the work of directing Garden affairs generally. The office of general manager, conferred with the presidency on Rickard, is to be abandoned, according to information from a confidential source yesterday. Tom McArdle also is expected to continue as boxing matchmaker.

Although no announcement was made on the subject, it is understood Carey will immediately move his office quarters from their present location at 44 Wall Street to the Garden.

MOVE TO GIVE TITLE TO PLADNER FAILS

Failure attended an attempt yesterday to have Emil (Spider) Pladner, French boxing sensation, recognized here as the world's flyweight champion. The request for this recognition came by letter from the International Boxing Union, governing body for the ring sport in Europe. The commission took no action, in accordance with its custom of refusing to designate ring champions.

The request was based on victories the French lad scored in Paris bouts over Corporal Izzy Schwartz, whose victory in a commission elimination tournament brought him recognition here as champion, and Frankie Genaro, another local lad, recognized as titleholder by the National Boxing Association. At present, however, the board recognizes no flyweight champion. On the strength of his triumphs over Schwartz and Genaro, it is expected that Pladner soon will visit this country to demonstrate his ability.

Jack Dempsey and Promoter Humbert Fugazy were marking time yesterday in the negotiations to bring the pair together in the fight promotion business. Neither would confirm or deny reports that an agreement already had been signed.

From a confidential source it was learned yesterday that Dempsey has engaged Gene Tunney's old training quarters at Speculator, N. Y., for a training campaign, ostensibly for a ring come-back. Dempsey denied the report.

HOFFMAN IS VICTOR IN LENOX FEATURE

George Hoffman, young Yorkville heavyweight who formerly held the national amateur title, won the decision from Jackie Saunders of Long Island City last night in the feature six-round bout at the Uptown Lenox S. C. Hoffman won by a margin which left no room for doubt as to his superiority. He won five of the six rounds, the fifth being even. Hoffman weighed 190 pounds and Saunders 195.

Despite his victory, Hoffman failed to impress the small crowd of fans who witnessed the bout. The Yorkville lad twice floored Saunders and should have finished the Long Islander but for his wildness in firing when the opportunity for a knockout presented itself.

Johnny Filucci, Italian lightweight of Harlem, knocked out José Nieves, Porto Rican, in the third round of the scheduled six-round semi-final. Nieves was counted out after being floored with a right to the jaw when the third round had gone exactly 2 minutes and 26 seconds.

Tommy Lown, former amateur champion, made a successful professional debut when he knocked out Jimmy Watts of Atlanta in the second round of their six-round bout. After Watts had been floored twice for a count of nine in the second round Referee Marto stopped the bout. The second round had gone 1 minute and 44 seconds when the finish came. At the end of the bout Lown introduced a novelty when he stood in the centre of the ring and sang the chorus of "Mother Machree." Lown weighed 144½ and Watts 141½.

Marty Goldman, east side featherweight protégé of Abe Attell, knocked out Pete Couvaris, another east sider, in the fourth round of their scheduled six-round bout. Referee Marto stopped this bout after fifty-six seconds of the round when Couvaris was hopelessly outclassed.

P. M. C. CHECKS PRINCETON

By ROBERT F. KELLEY.

Play opened last night at the Squadron A Armory in the national indoor polo championships with the New York Athletic Club winning in the open championships, Pennsylvania Military College in the intercollegiate and Squadron A in Class C. The feature of the evening was the appearance of Harvard in the senior championship, but the Harvard team with a substitute playing at No. 1, suffered its first defeat of the season and took a very sound one in the bargain. The New York riders walked away from the Crimson to win at 10 to 1½.

The college game was about the fastest and most interesting of the evening, with P. M. C. starting defense of its title with an impressive victory over Princeton, 11½ to 5.

In Class C the victory of Squadron A was very closely won over Yale's junior varsity which represented New England 7 to 6½. Harvard came to the tournament under the handicap of having its regular team broken up due to the absence of its regular No. 1, George Clark. The team missed him badly tonight, though Thomas Glynn filled in well at No. 1 and the Crimson held the New Yorkers even for the first two periods. The last two saw the New Yorkers making a runaway of the game.

Albright Is Injured.

Big Tim Clark at back and Elbridge Gerry at No. 2 both played well and through the first two periods they fought the New York trio on even terms. In the middle of the second period Beadles Albright of New York was injured and play was held up for ten minutes. He returned to action, and with Dave Nelson and Cyril Harrison going splendidly with him the New York trio took command halfway through the third period and in the last ran away from the Crimson.

It was a great disappointment for Harvard, which had counted a great deal on this team which was broken up after an undefeated preliminary season, but the New York Athletic Club trio played very fine polo, particularly Harrison, who was shooting goals from all angles and riding through the best game he has had this year.

Facing the Princeton team, led by the tall Arthur Borden, Pennsylvania Military College displayed the same fierce, wild riding offensive that brought them through to their surprising victory last year and defeated Princeton.

The Military College lined up last night with two of the men who rode to the title last year and a member of last year's junior varsity. Chick Bower was at No. 2 again last night and Dan Jones at back. At No. 1 was Bill Nichols.

Borden Opens Scoring.

The Tigers lined up with William Duryea, Borden and Jim Doubleday in that order, and Borden opened the scoring on a pretty pass from Duryea. Pennsylvania Military College started right back, however, and Dan Jones tied it up and then Nichols sent his side ahead to stay there. Nichols and Bower scored again for the winners in the first period, but two goals by Borden kept that team in the running.

In that second period, played at a terrific pace from first to last, Bower and Jones both scored for the winners, more than offsetting the foul called on Nichols. The Princeton team failed to score at all in this period, with Jones playing steadily at back and feeding his forward brilliantly.

The third period found the same story, with the exception that Duryea managed to score for Princeton at the close. Entering the last period and trailing on the end of an 8 to 4 score, Princeton never had a chance to come back in the final minutes of play and Pennsylvania added steadily to its total.

The P. M. C. team now enters the final round of the tournament, where it will meet the winner of the Yale-Harvard game of Thursday night, with Harvard favored to come through there. There was no outstanding player on the winning team, the three filling in beautifully together and each one rising to the chances as they arose.

Yale Jayvees Lose.

The tournament opened with a game in Class C between the Yale junior varsity representing the New England circuit and Squadron A for New York, with the New Yorkers squeezing out a victory by the slim margin of a half point at 7 to 6½ after four periods of polo that contained good and indifferent play and an unusual number of fouls as the players fought it out through the closing periods.

Squadron A took this game with a rush in the first two periods when it scored ten goals to Yale's two. The second half of play saw the Yale team fighting hard to catch up with fouls by the squadron players helping them out. Yale was coming fast at the close, but it did not have time left to catch its rivals. Yale's riders were playing on borrowed ponies, their own being in quarantine with illness at New Haven.

BOTH THOMASES ARE WILD

Fay and Myles Issue Nine Bases on Balls to Boston—Are Strong in Pinches.

By WILLIAM E. BRANDT.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 19.—The Yankees and the Braves again overstepped the conventional nine innings today in their zeal for the Sunshine City's baseball crown. The civic strife was resumed after a three-day armistice and for the second time in the four games so far played it took ten innings to yield a decision.

Lazzeri's liner to left landed the Yanks a 6 to 5 victory, their third of the series. Tony's soulful thump splashed safe near the foul line, scoring Koenig. A pass and Ruth's infield out had established Koenig on second base with one out and a lot of husky hitters lined up to drive him home.

This gripping situation staged the opening of Gehrig's international pass season. The honor of Lou's first 1929 courtesy ticket to the bases was by Cantwell, former Giant pitching recruit, acting upon advice of counsel—namely, Judge Fuchs.

Meusel popped up a foul, making two out, and while the judge was still receiving congratulations Lazzeri's bat rang out and the game ended.

Make Their Hits Count.

The afternoon's entertainment furnished an object lesson on the proper application of base hits. The Yanks mustered only six hits, but five of them figured in the run making. The Braves had ten hits, one of them a home-run drive over the left field barrier by Lester Bell, with the bases empty in the fifth, and this lusty four-base knock was the only Boston hit that drove home a run.

The Thomas boys, Fay and Myles, twirling for the Yanks, were masterful in pinches, and that is where they were most of the time. They made their own pinches; in fact, issuing nine bases on balls between them, and filling all over the Boston batts like footballers falling on fumbles.

Three of the Boston runs, including the tally which tied the score at 5 to 5 in the eighth inning, walked home when one of the Thomases issued a pass with the bases full. Fay Thomas did it in the first inning and to show it was not a fluke repeated the trick in the second. Myles Thomas was guilty only once, but his pass to Maguire in the eighth forced home to the tying run.

Braves Fill the Bases.

Myles walked Bell starting the ninth, then made poor plays on bunts by Farrell and Mueller. After thus filling the bases with none out, Myles escaped by retiring the next three batters on a fly, a grounder and a strike-out, without allowing a run.

The Yanks were the home team, and the Braves filled the bases as soon as the game started, on a pass, a single and a bunt, which Fay Thomas nearly stepped on.

A base on balls forced home one run. Then Maguire scored when Lary captured Farrell's long foul. The Yanks tied it up in their half on two passes and a handsome double by Gehrig.

A bunt, fumbled by Fay Thomas, a single, and another safe bunt filled the bases with none out in the second. Thomas walked Jack Smith, forcing home Boston's third run, then retired the side without more ado.

Combs Scores Two.

Combs knocked home two for the Yanks in the second with a single, after Lary's single, Sisler's bad throw on Dickey's roller, and Thomas's sacrifice. Bell's homer off Myles Thomas tied the score in the fifth. A pass, a sacrifice and Koenig's single put the Yanks ahead again in the seventh, only to lose their lead in the eighth.

The committee summoned Schmeling to attend a meeting here on Thursday and cabled Bulow to name his proxy.

TRIPLE PLAY COMPLETED

Bressler Wanders Off Third After Double Play and Provides Third Out—Play Phils Today.

By ROSCOE McGOWEN.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 19.—Uncle Wilbert Robinson this afternoon admonished his athletes to get down to serious business as they gathered for the final practice game before the exhibition season begins tomorrow.

"Baseball is a serious business," said Robbie, with a frown of concentration. So two of his regular pitchers, Win Ballou and Buzz McWeeny, responded by pitching airtight ball, the former giving only one hit in four innings and the latter another lone hit in three innings.

But the Yannigans tied the score, nevertheless, and the game ended in a deadlock at 2-all. Despite their paucity of hits, the Yannigans played the more creditable baseball.

The first hit off McWeeny, who was pitching his first practice game, came in the eighth, when Johnny Gooch popped a single to centre field. Arlie Moss forced Gooch and Max Rosenfeld drew a walk after two were out. Butch Henline, in his anxiety to make it a shut-out, tried to catch Rosy off first and threw the ball to right field, where Babe Herman played tag with it while both Moss and Rosenfeld scored a pair of palpably unearned tallies.

Herman Hits Double.

On Hendrick's single and Herman's double in the fourth the Regulars had scored one honest run while young Jimmy Pattison was pitching.

In the fifth an opportunity to give them a total of three runs was kicked all over the field and wound up in a weird triple play, Bissonette walked, Bressler singled through the box and Jake Flowers singled Bissonette home. Then Henline bounced to Moss, and a double play, Moss to Richards to Lopez, on which Bressler should have scored, resulted. But Rube only strolled off the bag, and Señor Lopez, ever alert, threw to Rhiel, turning the thing into a triple play.

McWeeny was impressive in his first start and was willing to go another inning, although he said his arm was a bit tired. Robbie took no chances with his second most expensive pitcher's arm and called the game, but continued with some snappy infield practice for another half hour.

Gilbert Out for a Week.

Wally Gilbert, who hurt his right ankle badly yesterday, will be out of the game for at least a week. Gilbert otherwise would have started at third base against the visitors.

Tomorrow the Phillies invade Clearwater, and Robbie's decision to start William Watson Clark remains unchanged. Ray Moss probably will start the sixth inning, with Lou Koupal a possibility.

PILOT LIKES ROOKIES' WORK

By JOHN DREBINGER.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 19.—The rejoining of the main and auxiliary divisions of the Giants here today was attended by a number of interesting incidents, the least of which was the fact that the returning main squad was greeted by a drizzling rain that limited the day's workout to a light morning drill.

This did not displease John McGraw, as he felt the boys probably could use a rest after their rather strenuous labors over the week-end. Also, McGraw had a number of other important matters to occupy his attention.

For one thing, he had to act as host to Commissioner K. M. Landis, who arrived here while the main squad was away on its three-day excursion to Houston and Beaumont. The almost military precision with which McGraw runs his training camp seems to have struck the fancy of the commissioner, who was quite open in expressing his pleasure at looking upon a group of ball players so superbly trained at this time of the year. Tonight the commissioner was McGraw's guest at a dinner.

Then McGraw held a long conference with his first lieutenant, Ray Schalk, who had been in charge of the Houston-Beaumont expedition while McGraw remained behind to give his attention to the youngsters who had played the San Antonio Bears here Saturday and Sunday.

McGraw Comments on Players.

However, of most interest were McGraw's comments on what had transpirted here over the week-end.

Carl Mays, it seems, made a profound impression on McGraw in his first start of the season last Saturday, when he worked six innings and allowed only three scratchy hits and no runs.

"Of course," said McGraw, "it is too early to predict that Mays will come back this year as good as ever, but his showing certainly indicated his arm is all right, and he should come along nicely. I will continue to let him do his own conditioning."

The work of all the pitchers in the two San Antonio games was quite satisfactory, McGraw said, for though the second team won only one game, the other going twelve innings to a tie, the Giant pilot pointed out that in the twenty-one innings of play the New York hurlers were scored on in only two innings.

Marshall's Work Impressive.

Eddie Marshall palyed a bang-up game here Saturday and Sunday, according to McGraw, as did Crawford and Jordan. The latter's heavy hitting has impressed McGraw.

Eddie Roush's condition appears to be satisfactory, but he will be permitted to go slowly in rounding into shape. Catcher Jack Cummings is regarded to be making excellent headway and is down to weight. Willie Walker, the southpaw, also is showing fine progress.

W. AND M. NINE WINS.

All the runs came in the third inning. Kidd, hurler for the marines, knocked out a home run, but the Indians put the game on ice in their half when Scammon tripled after Vaughan had walked. O'Farrell had gone to first on Sadler's error and Bloxsom had singled.

Nurmi Will Seek 2-Mile and 3-Mile Records In 2 Days in Penn Relays; to Stay Here a Year

PHILADELPHIA, March 19.—Paavo Nurmi has consented to compete in the University of Pennsylvania relay carnival on Franklin Field, Friday and Saturday, April 26 and 27, Coach Lawson Robertson said today on his return from Hartford, where he had a conference with the famous Finn.

Nurmi has agreed to try for the American and world two-mile record in the Friday program and the next day will try to shatter his own world's three-mile mark. He will run against several countrymen and also a few Philadelphia distance stars. Nurmi will come here directly from the Texas relays and says he will fly from Chicago to Los Angeles this week-end.

"Nurmi has decided to stay in this country for at least another year," said Robertson. "At the close of a Spring and Summer track campaign he intends to take a position with an automobile company.

"Nurmi is only 31 years old, but realizes his chances of shattering the one mile or short distance records is fast fading. He still believes he can turn in new records in the two, three and even more miles and hopes to establish a new world one-hour record before returning to his country."

Browns Triumph Over Phillies, 10-5—Pirates Crush San Francisco, 17-1—White Sox Lose.

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 19.—The Newark Internationals evened the series with the Athletics by clouting the offerings of Lefty Grove for an early lead here today and finally winning, 9 to 3. Grove was on duty for five innings and was found for seven hits and five runs. He also issued five passes. Four errors by the Mackmen aided Newark's scoring materially.

The Bears were credited with eleven safeties, two more than the major leaguers, Tris Speaker, with the consent of the Mackmen, chose to ignore baseball laws and used hitters out of turn.

KWARIANI PINS STANGEL.

Joe Stangel lasted eighteen minutes forty-one seconds in his scheduled finish wrestling match against Kola Kwariani at the Ridgewood Grove Sporting Club in Brooklyn last night. A crotch and body hold proved too much for Stangel and he succumbed after having put up a hard but futile fight.

In the semi-final Renato Gardini and Joe (Toots) Mondt wrestled to a draw after thirty minutes of intense struggling. Wladek Zbyszko was defeated by Matros Mirilensko, falling to throw his rival in thirty minutes. The first fall recorded was credited to Cyclone Ress, who tossed Abe Kaplan to the mat with a body hold in 20:47. The other fall was scored by Carlos Henriquez, who took 8:26 to put Cyclone Gale's shoulders to the canvas.

Sonnenberg Throws Shannon.

HUNGARY'S ELEVEN IS BEATEN, 2 TO 1

ALL GOALS IN FIRST HALF

Playing the final game of their American visit before sailing for home today on board the United States Liner Leviathan, the Sabaria soccer team from Hungary lost to a combined eleven of New York Giants and Hakoah players at Starlight Park yesterday by 2 to 1 before 3,000 persons.

All the goals were scored in the first half, Davie Brown and O'Brien tallying for the New Yorkers and Holzbauer for the Hungarians.

Hungary Starts With Rush.

The Sabarians started with a big rush and had the New Yorkers defending desperately. Stofian and Powolny both broke through and a score looked certain, but Jock Brown brought off

MARSHAL NEY WINS AT JEFFERSON PARK

HALBERT SCORES DOUBLE

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, March 19.—Carrying top weight of the field and the favorite in the betting, F. P. Kriss's Marshal Ney was the winner of the Elysian Fields purse, feature at Jefferson Park here today. The big gelded son of Chicle raced on top practically from start to finish, staved off two challenges during the running of the six furlongs, and was in a hard drive at the end to win by a length from Harry Payne Whitney's Agitator. Half a length further back was Charmarten, while Gold Bet and Hot Time completed the field.

It was the second consecutive victory of the meeting for Marshal Ney, and in four starts here he has never been worse than second. The track was fast and Marshal Ney carried his 112 pounds over the route in 1:13 4-5, to pay $3.30 for a $2 mutuel ticket.

Gold Bet Leads at Start.

The start out of the stall gate was one of the best of the meeting and Gold Bet was first to show in front. Jockey Deprema tried to rate Marshal Ney behind the pace, but the big fellow was full of run and he went up to take the lead before the quarter pole was reached. Gold Bet tried to run with Marshal Ney and maintained his place in the second notch until the turn into the stretch. He had enough of this fast pace at this point and began to fling.

But there was another formidable bid to come. This developed when Agitator passed Gold Bet after being straightened out and set sail for the leader. The Whitney color bearer had been reserved off the early pace and had plenty of speed, which he proceeded to burn up in an effort to overtake Marshal Ney. But Marshal Ney had strength in reserve and Deprema called for his best efforts and brought him under the wire a winner by a length.

Halbert Rides Two Winners.

Jockey Floyd Halbert scored the first of two victories when he brought Clyde C home in front in the curtain-raiser, a six-furlong dash for older horses. Halbert's other winner was George De Mar in the fifth race.

Clyde C paid $12.10 for a mutuel ticket and defeated the heavily-played favorite by half a length. This was Eager Play, ridden by Lightning Jones. It was the first victory of Clyde C at New Orleans, and he was always a contender.

UNITED HUNTS MEETING SET FOR BOWMAN PARK

One-Day Session to Be Held April 20—Three-Day Fall Program to Be Offered at Belmont.

The United Hunts Racing Association has decided to hold a one-day meeting on Saturday, April 20, at Bowman Park. The meetings are ordinarily held at either Belmont Park or Aqueduct, the only other metropolitan tracks equipped for steeplechasing, but neither of these plants are available due to improvements and alterations now in progress.

This was announced yesterday by Secretary H. A. Buck, following a meeting of the directors and the Race Committee of the association. At this meeting Robert C. Winmill was elected a director and James W. Gerard a member of the Race Committee.

In the Fall a three-day meeting will be staged at Belmont Park, through the courtesy of Joseph E. Widener, president of the Westchester Racing Association. At this meeting, which will include Election Day, Nov. 5, the Temple Gwathmey Memorial Steeplechase will have another renewal.

Bowman Park, an attractive plant at Rye, is being put into the best possible condition for the Spring meeting, the program for which will consist of three steeplechases, one hurdle event and two flat races. The flat races are stakes which have already closed—the Initial Handicap for three-year-olds and upward, $2,000 added at six furlongs, for which sixty-four entries were received, and the Sporting Plate, a private sweepstakes for two-year-olds at four and a half furlongs, which closed with twenty-one subscriptions.

BILLY BARTON READY FOR GRAND NATIONAL

57 ARE PROBABLE STARTERS

LIVERPOOL, England, March 19 (AP).—Billy Barton, sturdy steeplechaser from the blue grass country of Kentucky, is just about ready for his second attempt to win the famed Grand National steeplechase at Aintree Friday afternoon.

The cruck jumper of Howard Bruce, Baltimore sportsman, wound up training with a canter at the Wroughton quarters and will arrive here tomorrow for the test of four and a half miles of treacherous hazards and cruel jumps.

Where last year the pride of Maryland came to the races just another horse in a field of forty-eight, this season the big fencer is one of the prime favorites as the result of his heart-stirring showing in the last Aintree duel. Tipperary Tim, a rank outsider at 100 to 1, won the grueling struggle in 1928 after Billy Barton, only other horse to finish, fell while in the lead at the last jump.

Marked Horse in Record Field.

Billy Barton's task this year will be even more difficult, however, than last season. After a warming up canter Friday morning, he will go to the post with a field that promises to number fifty-seven, a marked horse in the most thrilling and dangerous of all racing events.

With this record field, the uncertainty of the event almost reaches the proportion of fear among many sportsmen. Almost anything can happen when threescore jockeys send their mounts away in the frantic scramble for position and place while a half dozen of the thirty jumps loom directly ahead.

More than eighty horses still are possible starters from the original entry of 121. With fifty-seven racing, the field still is fifteen more than last year and nearly double the list of 1927.

The menace of the gigantic field, with the danger of horses falling through no fault of their own, makes luck a greater factor than ever before. A combination of jockey genius and perfect horseflesh will be needed to successfully leap the hedges, clear ditches and avoid the litter of fallen horses and prostrate riders.

Look for 100-to-1 Shot to Win.

Such conditions lend a farcical tinge to the picking of winners by the track experts, and many are willing to wager that another 100-to-1 outsider like the ancient Tipperary Tim will plod home a winner after the mightier have fallen.

Judging by horses alone and discarding the chaotic conditions of the running and jumping, seven American-owned entries are ruling strong favorites, with J. H. Whitney's Easter Hero the first favorite because of his great showing at Cheltenham last week, when he won in a canter. Capable judges proclaimed the Whitney entry the best 'chaser over a park course ever seen in England.

Billy Barton and Great Span are second favorites at 100 to 7. Stephen Sanford's Brights Boy, Gordon Selfridge's Ruddyman and R. B. Strassburger's The Ace II are among the likeliest of the other American entries. Another American entry in Royal Sport, owned by Victor Emanuel, was scratched today, eliminating the last of his three original entries.

With jockeys and weights, the probable starters are as follows:

Met. Squash Racquets Title Won by Harvard Club

HARVARD CLUB WINS IN SQUASH RACQUETS

UNBEATEN IN THE TOURNEY

FINAL STANDING OF TEAMS.

	W.	L.		W.	L.
Harvard	5	0	Montclair	2	3
Rockaway	4	1	University	1	4
Racquet	3	2	Nassau	0	5

The Harvard University Club squash racquets team, which played a large part in the victory of New York in the national team championships in February, stands as the holder of the metropolitan championship.

In defeating the Nassau Country Club on the Nassau courts at Glen Cove, L. I., yesterday by the score 5 to 0, the Crimson representatives finished their schedule in the first formal title tournament held under the auspices of the Metropolitan Squash Racquets Association with a record of five matches won and none lost.

Rockaway Hunt Second.

The Rockaway Hunting Club finished in second place with four victories and one defeat, and is followed in the final standing by the Racquet and Tennis Club, the Montclair A. C., the University Club and Nassau.

J. Lawrence Pool 2d, the naitonal individual titleholder, led the Harvard team to victory over Nassau, defeating Hunt T. Dickinson in three successive games, 15—6, 15—12, 15—10. J. D. Du Bois, Perry R. Pease, John Allen and Robert Grant Jr. were the other members of the winning combination, although George Debevoise and Lathrop Haskins were important factors in Harvard's success throughout the season.

Du Bois Beats Cartmell.

Du Bois triumphed over Van Cartmell in the No. 2 engagement in four games, while Pease had the stiffest struggle of them all in his match with E. L. Maxwell, dropping the opening chapter and being carried to 15—12 in the fifth. Allen won in three closely fought games from Sherman Trowbridge and Grant yielded a game to S. K. Farrington. The summaries:

Harvard 5, Nassau 0.

J. Lawrence Pool 2d, Harvard, defeated Hunt T. Dickinson, 15—6, 15—12, 15—10; J. Du Bois, Harvard, defeated Van Cartmell, 15—11, 9—15, 15—10, 15—10; Perry R. Pease, Harvard, defeated E. L. Sports of the Times

By JOHN KIERAN.

IT will come as a shock to many solid citizens, and perhaps as a surprise to the police, to learn that indoor polo is rapidly gaining ground. Some thirty-nine teams filed entries in the different divisions of the big indoor tournament that started last night at the Squadron A Armory.

There was a time when the outdoor polo player wouldn't deign to speak to his indoor cousin. He wouldn't look in on him; he looked down upon the indoor rider. Devereux Milburn was once inveigled into an indoor polo game. He hit the ball one of his famous wallops, and it soared up into the air like a balloon at a county fair. Boiling with indignation, Mr. Milburn turned in his horse immediately and stalked out of the building.

But times have changed. The outdoor polo players now maintain diplomatic and social relations with the indoor mallet wielders. More than a few good men and true play polo both indoors and outdoors. Winston Guest was a star indoor player before he rose to fame out of doors. W. Averill Harriman and Earl W. Hopping are graduates of the indoor school. Stewart Iglehart, who played so well with the Aiken youngsters last Summer that he was invited to take part in the test matches for the Argentine tourney, is another who plays polo under cover as well as out in the open.

Earl W. Hopping says that the indoor game helps the outdoor player, and that there are certain shots that can be learned and perfected only at the indoor game. He expects Winston Guest to become the greatest polo player in the world and blames it partly on the training he got in the indoor game. Guest is a nine-handicap player on the indoor list and also a nine-handicap player out of doors. No one outranks him on the tanbark. Only Tommy Hitchcock and Lewis Lacey, at 10 goals each, outrank him on the turf.

The Difference.

There are four men on an outdoor polo team and three men on an indoor team. That's to prevent undue crowding in a limited space. The outdoor ball is made of wood, either willow or basswood. The indoor ball is made of leather and is inflated.

A wooden ball wouldn't do at all indoors. With a wooden ball and a fellow like Guest hitting it, even the sturdiest armory would be knocked full of holes in no time at all. Taxpayers would rise in revolt at such a state of affairs.

The goalposts in indoor polo are merely painted lines on the opposite walls of the building. There are no penalty shots in indoor polo. Instead of free shots for fouls, there are deductions of a half point as a penalty for crossing a rider who has the right of way or hooking a mallet from the wrong side. Thus a team might finish with a minus score. This is rather undignified, but it has happened.

The indoor game has four periods; the outdoor game has eight. But as far as fundamentals go, the two games are closely allied, and, with many of the younger stars playing both varieties of polo, will be even more closely allied in the future.

The Indoor Track Season.

Switching to another indoor game, the only notable development of the indoor track season in this area was the increased speed shown by Ray Conger and Leo Lermond at the mile distance. Otherwise the running on the banked turns was rather flat.

A considerable part of the flatness was due to the attitude of some of the temperamental amateur track stars. They would not be "commercialized," as they put it. They wouldn't run on schedule like chartered railroad trains. They were amateurs, and they stuck by their privileges. They wanted the world to know that they could run or not, just as they pleased. This is a free country, and they were not slaves—and so on.

One result of their insistence that they could run or not, just as they pleased, was that the spectators woke up to the fact that they also had their privileges. They could attend the meets or not, just as they pleased. If the runners were amateur, the spectators were doubly amateur. They got nothing out of the game and actually put money into it.

When advertised stars failed to appear at the starting marks, the spectators began to disappear from the seats. One was a natural consequence of the others. The season went sour. Aside from the indoor intercollegiate championships, which have nothing to do with the point under discussion, the most successful meet of the indoor season was the Millrose meet which was run off before the amateurs began exercising their famous "run-or-not" privileges.

Facing the Facts.

There must be a clean-cut decision on this "run-or-not" privilege sooner or later. The game can't go on if the runners fail to recognize that they have obligations as well as privileges.

Why do track fans go to track meets? It's because they want to see Nurmi running against Lermond, Wide running against Conger, Williams against Elder or Edwards running against Martin. They buy tickets and make the journey to the arena because such races have been advertised, and they expect to see the runners start and finish.

These spectators support the game. Their money pays for the rent of the building, the construction of the track and the prizes that are offered. Without the support of the spectators there could be few track meets outside of intercollegiate circles, where football foots the bill for track, as it does for almost all other intercollegiate sports.

In Allied Fields.

College athletes are just as amateur as club track stars—which is putting it mildly—but as yet no Harvard football player, ordered to get into the Yale game, has said to Arnie Horween: "I'm an amateur, and I can play or not, just as I please. I don't think I'll play this afternoon."

Bob Jones is an amateur, but on the September Saturday at Brae Burn he didn't say to Tom Perkins: "There's too big a crowd around today, Tom. We're amateurs. We can play or not, just as we please. Let's play this match on Monday over at Brookline. I won't be commercialized."

YALE HOCKEY TEAM RECEIVES 17 INSIGNIA

Unbeaten Freshman Sextet Also Is Honored—Wilson Picked to Captain Sextet.

Board Also Votes to Develop Ten More Acres for Athletics and to Build Covered Press Stand.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 19.—The Board of Control of the Yale University Athletic Association at its meeting today awarded letters to sixteen players and the manager of the varsity hockey team which closed its season by winning the series with Princeton and Harvard. Those winning a third place in the majority of the meets will be awarded the minor Y and the Y. S. T. insignia will be awarded to those competing in one-third of the meets. Eight men won the major Y last year, but the awards for this year will not be made until after the intercollegiates, which will be held in Princeton on Friday and Saturday of this week.

Hockey Team Honored.

Robert F. Wilson of Cincinnati was elected captain of the Yale hockey team for next year. He played left defense on this year's team and a year ago served as a substitute. He was quarterback on the football team last Fall, substituting the previous season. He is 21 years old, weighs 170 pounds, is 5 feet 11 inches in height and prepared for Yale at St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H.

Sixty at Hockey Dinner.

Sixty were present at the annual dinner of the hockey team tonight at the Hotel Taft. The toastmaster was Thomas C. Farnsworth, manager of the team. Speeches were made by Professor George H. Nettleton, chairman of the Yale Athletic Association; Graduate Manager Harold F. Woodcock, Coach Larry Noble, Captain Cady and G. B. Longstretch, manager of next year's team.

John Dorsey Garrison of Greenwich, Conn., was announced winner of the competition for assistant manager, which carries with it promotion as manager in another year. Francis Warren Pershing, son of General Pershing, was his nearest competitor.

Austin Edward Nanry of West Haven, Conn., was elected captain of the basketball team. He prepared at West Haven High School and has played guard two seasons.

The board voted to improve nearly six acres of the western part of the property recently acquired from the Hopkins Grammar School and another piece of property of nearly four acres near Central Avenue and Derby Avenue.

The work of grading and developing will be started this Summer and the fields will be available for sports a year hence. The new fields will provide needed space for football, baseball, lacrosse and soccer.

Plans were approved at the meeting for a covered press stand at the Yale Bowl. A temporary covering will be erected in time for the Yale-Vermont game, which opens the gridiron season Oct. 5.

TILDEN WILL PLAY IN INDOOR DOUBLES

By ALLISON DANZIG.

William Tilden, ranking tennis player of the country, will return to the courts again this week to pair with Francis T. Hunter in the national indoor doubles championship at the Seventh Regiment Armory, Park Avenue and Sixty-sixth Street.

The entry of the former champion was received yesterday by J. P. Allen, manager of the tournament, after hope had almost been given up of his engaging in the championship.

The return of the six-times national champion to the courts will mark his first tournament play since he lost to Van Ryn in the final of the invitation event of the Heights Casino in February. Whether he will play his first match today or wait until tomorrow could not be learned last night.

Hunter is scheduled to play two singles matches today, when the tournament will be resumed after a hiatus of two days, so in the event that he and Tilden do play a doubles match it will not be before 3 o'clock. They were given a bye in the first round and seeded at the top of the draw. Their first opponents will be S. Howard Voshell and Elmer Griffin, one of the strongest combinations in the field, and it does not seem likely that Hunter would want to go up against them after playing two rounds of singles.

The singles will get under way again at 11 o'clock this morning. At that time the feature match will bring together Julius Seligson, intercollegiate champion, and Lemoine Heuser, one of Jersey's better young players. Gregory Mangin of Georgetown University and Newark will play J. J. Morrison at the same hour.

Borotra is scheduled to meet Merritt Cutler at 4. This should be one of the best matches of the day and the winner will go into the quarter finals.

The draw for the doubles:

Upper Half.

U. S. BODY AWARDS DAVIS CUP MATCHES

Washington and Detroit Clubs Get Tennis Events—Tilden Not to Play Here.

The Chevy Chase Club of Washington, D. C., and the Detroit Tennis Club have received the two Davis Cup ties in the American zone remaining to be allotted, according to the announcement yesterday of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

The winner of the match between Canada and the United States, to be played at Montreal May 16, 17 and 18, will face Japan in the semi-finals at Chevy Chase, May 23 to 25. In the other semi-final Mexico and Cuba will play prior to May 19 at Mexico City or in Havana in the event that the state of Mexico's internal affairs make it desirable to hold the tie in Cuba. The final round will be staged at Detroit May 30 to June 1.

The squad from which the American team will be selected will include George Lott, John Hennessey, John Van Ryn, Wilmer Allison and several others yet to be named. William Tilden and Frank Hunter, Davis Cup veterans, announced in February that they would not be available for play in the American zone as they are sailing for Europe in May. While it is possible that they may change their plans and sail at a later date, it does not seem likely that they will figure in the matches in this zone.

No official trials will be held this year as in 1928. The team selections will be made by Joseph W. Wear, chairman of the Davis Cup Committee, and Fitz-Eugene Dixon, chairman of the Selection Committee, partly on the basis of the results of the play in the Southern tournaments.

OXFORD-CAMBRIDGE FIT FOR RACE ON SATURDAY

LONDON, March 19 (Canadian Press).—Everything is contributing to make the centenary Oxford-Cambridge boat race the greatest ever held. The crews are finer and more closely matched than any which went to the tideway before them in the course of a hundred years of history. Practice has been favored by ideal weather conditions and every one of the sixteen men looks bronzed and fit for the race Saturday.

There is no sign of staleness in the crews. A judicious restraint has been exercised in the training of both crews which has been surrounded with an atmosphere of unusual seriousness. There has been no freak dieting and no stunting.

The experts favor Oxford because, though the lighter eight, it has good form. It is pointed out that Oxford will probably lose ground in the first half of the race. From then on Cambridge will have to fight to retain its lead, and to win. At this stage Oxford's admitted superiority in the stroke may turn the scale, particularly as Graham's great attribute is determination. However, though both crews have finished hard training, the most famous critics are still wavering. Those who do not profess to know the technicalities of rowing favor Cambridge.

Both crews worked out today. Oxford was not impressive in the morning, but in the afternoon made its best start yet. Graham got the oars in nicely at nineteen for the first half minute and thirty-eight for the minute. Cambridge was paced by the Isis eight in a short burst.

PINSKY ELECTED CAPTAIN.

Will Lead N. Y. U. Boxers in 1930 —Alumni-Varsity Nines to Play.

Daniel J. Pinsky of New York City, leader of the 1929 varsity boxing team at New York University, was elected captain for 1930, it was announced yesterday by Albert B. Nixon, graduate manager of athletics. Pinsky was appointed captain of the 1929 fistic team when it was learned that Al Lassman, captain-elect, would not be able to return to the college ring.

Coach William V. McCarthy announced yesterday that the New York University baseball team would meet a strong alumni nine in a practice game this Saturday afternoon at Ohio Field. The following alumni are due to play: John P. Flynn, captain 1922; Barney McLaughlin, captain 1924; Buck Stanley, captain 1925; Kenneth Stewart, captain 1927; Chick Ingrahm, '26; Gus Lentz, '28; Harry Wolters, '24; Helge Carlson, '23, and Moe Krasner, '23.

RUTGERS LISTS FIVE MEETS.

Varsity Track and Freshman Tennis Schedules Are Announced.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., March 19.—The Rutgers varsity track team will compete in three dual meets and in the Penn relays and the Middle Atlantic championships this Spring, according to the schedule announced by Graduate Manager Harry J. Rockafeller today. St. John's College of Brooklyn appears on the list for the first time.

Graduate Manager Rockafeller also announced the schedule for the freshman tennis team.

Varsity Track.

Freshman Tennis.

WALTERS NEW BOW IN COLUMBIA SHELL

The first change of the season was made yesterday in the Columbia varsity crew when Henry Walters replaced Malcolm Bonynge at bow.

Bonynge had been at bow ever since practice started indoors early in February, and when the crew transferred to the Harlem River two weeks ago Bonynge was retained at his post. Coach Richard J. Glendon is uncertain as to whether the change will be permanent, but he believes that by giving Walters a chance to row with the first eight, this boat may be strenghtened considerably.

Walters, who was bow in the freshman crew last year, had been rowing at No. 7 in the junior varsity eight this season. Bonynge takes Walters's former position in the jayvee shell.

It also became definitely known yesterday that Gordon Piercy, a member of the championship 1927 crew, will be unable to row this season, as the heel injury that prevented him from rowing last year has showed up again.

Bob Berman, veteran coxswain, is not expected to handle the ropes of the varsity this season for he has gained considerable weight since last year. However, he will drive the coaching launch in the daily drills on the Harlem.

Charley Metzner, a sophomore, has been assigned to steer the big eight. Metzner was not even a first-string freshman coxswain a year ago and his promotion to varsity coxswain is regarded as remarkable by the members of the training camp at Baker Field.

HORWEEN IN CHARGE OF HARVARD PRACTICE

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 19.—The second day of Harvard's Spring football practice found Arnold Horween, head coach, at the helm. Horween announced that Frank Shaughnessy, former McGill rugby coach, who drilled the Crimson in passing last year, will not be with the team this season.

Horween watched the squad for the first time as it went through setting-up exercises, forward passing drill and a tag football clash. The majority of the practice today was devoted to lateral and forward passing.

Two men from last year's varsity reported this afternoon. They were Ralph Stewart and Foster Davis. Stewart played guard in several games last year, while Davis was a tackle.

LEST BANKERS FORGET.

The diners at the meeting of the Economic Club on Monday listened with patience and respect to men of financial authority who spoke of the strain placed on banking credit by speculation and of the functions and duties of the Federal Reserve Board in trying to prevent too high rates for commercial loans. But their eager applause they reserved for a New Jersey banker who protested against any official interference whatever with the money market. He proudly maintained that the American people know how to manage their own business affairs better that any official body, and that the man attacked as a "speculator" may be one who "knows the worth of what he is buying," and may be displaying only "business foresight." Who are these speculators? The speaker grandiloquently answered that they are "the sovereign American people." The inference was plain that it is something like lèse-majesté for the Federal Reserve Board or Secretary MELLON or anybody else to do anything which may diminish their joyous activities in the stock market.

This sort of thing, we suppose, will pass for 100 per cent Americanism in the banking world. But it is also a 100 per cent failure to remember why the Federal Reserve Bank was created. One of its main objects was to put an end to the old system of violent fluctuations in credit, the jumping up and down of rates for money, the arbitrary power of bankers to use or withhold funds for industrial and agricultural purposes which used to prevail under our old happy-go-lucky methods of banking, and which led occasionally to such needless disturbances and even disasters as the "money panic" of 1907. It is true that many New York bankers opposed the establishment of the Federal Reserve, but nearly all of them have come to approve in high degree its actual operation and effects. The great thing was to make use of commercial paper as a basis for credit and currency, with the implied obligation to utilize and obey the directions of the law creating the Federal Reserve, so as to facilitate the steady carrying on of the legitimate business of the country.

It is not necessary here to discuss any given rate of discount by the Federal Reserve. The present figure may be too low, or just what the situation requires, or too high. The one thing certain is that it is the lawful obligation of the Federal Reserve to be vigilant against abuses of credit and to take all necessary steps to prevent extravagant speculation from eating too deeply into the banking facilities which exist mainly for the accommodation of merchants and manufacturers and farmers.

This is the simple and unimpeachable principle which was laid down by Governor YOUNG of the Federal Reserve Board in his address at Cincinnati last week. He made no threats. His appeal was to the reason of bankers and the investing public. Only as "a last resort" would the power of the Federal Reserve to fix a higher discount rate be invoked. These things are fundamentals—almost commonplaces. Yet they seem to have been entirely forgotten by those members of the Economic Club who were ready to cheer praise of unregulated and chaotic banking.

NEW RUMBLINGS IN CHINA.

With censorship on news from the Nationalist headquarters in China and conflicting reports of dissatisfaction, civil war and famine in the interior of China and in Shantung it would seem that the immediate future of China is again clouded. The Nationalist party is facing serious defections. Most important so far reported are the break with the radical elements in Hankow and the "illness" of the notorious FENG YU-HSIANG, which has caused his withdrawal from active participation in the affairs of the Nationalist party. The reports indicate that his ailment is more political than physical. Since he has never hesitated to change allies when it has seemed to his interest to do so, there is no reason to believe that he will not desert the Nationalists if he thinks that this course is best for him. As he wields great strength and is strategically so situated as to dominate Northern China, his opposition would be a severe blow for the Nationalists.

It is the misfortune of the Chinese people, especially in Shantung and the northern districts, that war, famine and pestilence go hand in hand. The territory which the war lord CHANG TSUNG-CHANG is seeking to dominate again in Shantung adjoins one of the worst famine areas. Reports indicate that suffering has been appalling throughout the Winter and that with the approach of Spring and the new threat of war the condition of the people is almost hopeless. Relief work has progressed slowly, hampered, as usual, by inadequate transportation. When CHANG TSUNG-CHANG was last fighting in this area a year ago, it was commonly reported that his troops interfered with the delivery of relief supplies. In fact, his reputation is among the most unsavory of many former bandits who now dignify themselves with the title of "General."

The meeting of the Nationalist party in Nanking is to determine policies in the face of the new obstacles. For the outside world it is important to distinguish between plans and practices. With the plausibility which characterizes the public utterances of so many Orientals, the Chinese sometimes succeed in giving a picture of their hopes in such form that the Western world mistakes them for accomplished facts. In the present crisis it is more important to know what the Nationalists can do to restore peace and harmony than it is to know what they would like to do. Just as it is unfair to them to be unduly pessimistic about their ability to maintain order, so it is misleading to understate the obstacles which they must overcome. The Nationalists are still only in the early stages of their task.

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING.

More amusing even than usual this year is the annual farce at Albany of pretending to pass a State prohibition enforcement act. The humorous young Onondaga Republican Assemblyman who moistened the Jenks bill has put on a white sheet and mounted the stool of repentance. Why not? Why be too serious, when "everybody" knows from past experience that even if virtue is allowed to win in the Assembly, it will be smashed in the Senate? One of Mr. HOOVER'S remarks on prohibition in his inaugural was used to persuade a wavering Assemblyman. Mr. HOOVER said that part of the "undoubted abuses" which have grown up under the Eighteenth Amendment "are due to "the failure of some States to ac- "cept their share of responsibility "for concurrent enforcement."

Is there any such responsibility? In THE TIMES the other day Mr. FABIAN FRANKLIN pointed out the origin of Section 2 of the amendment. As passed by the Senate the power to enforce the article by appropriate legislation was left to Congress. It was feared by the Judiciary Committee of the House that the right of the several States to create and enforce State prohibition laws might be questioned. The Supreme Court has said:

> The probable purpose of declaring a concurrent power to be in the States was to negative any possible inference that by investing the National Government with the power of country-wide prohibition State power would be excluded.

But the States derive no new power in regard to prohibition laws from the amendment, save that it gave them power which they already had under the Federal statute in regard to liquor in foreign or interstate commerce. Except for the constitutional restrictions, mostly under the commerce clause, the States before the amendment had "power in full measure" to pass and enforce prohibition laws:

> Such laws derive their force, as do all new ones consistent with it, not from this amendment, but from power originally belonging to the States, preserved to them by the Tenth Amendment, and now relieved from the restriction heretofore arising out of the Federal Constitution.

We don't know exactly what "concurrent power" is, but the Supreme Court has said it is not "joint power." The power of Congress "is "in no wise dependent on or af- "fected by the action or inaction of "the several States or any of them." And how about the States that prefer inaction? Professor MCBAIN of Columbia University, in "Prohibition Legal and Illegal," commenting on the decision from which we have quoted, reaches these conclusions:

> If the States derive from the amendment no power to enact prohibition laws, they are of a certainty under no obligation, moral or legal, to enact such laws because of the amendment. If the power which they now possess to adopt and enforce a policy of State prohibition is merely the power "originally belonging" to them, "preserved to them by the Tenth Amendment," clearly a State has today, as it has always had, complete option to adopt or decline to adopt prohibition as a State policy. * * *
> Congress, then, is the only authority that is endowed with power to enforce national prohibition. The States which have failed to enact or have repealed prohibition laws are not nullifiers, as the Drys frequently dub them. To the extent that nullification of the Eighteenth Amendment exists, Congress is exclusively responsible, for Congress has not attempted to provide for adequate enforcement.

EDUCATION'S TRUE PURPOSE.

The Archbishop of York, speaking in Yorkshire at the Conference of Head Teachers, in his definition of the true purpose of education made no mention of increase in the earning power of the student. He did not even name instruction or its counterpart, scholarship per se, as the chief office and end. The "pri- "mary factor in education is mem- "bership in a society." The life of the school is more than the meat of the lessons in class-room. The corporate sense and the spirit of fellowship are essential, and everything which promotes these is "to the good."

As to games, they have their justification and are wholesome unless athleticism is allowed to become stereotyped and "fixed." By this he doubtless means, made a technical competition for personal advantage. But if the term "fixed" is difficult of interpretation, what he says in further comment is not:

> That any one thirty years of age should really care more about what happens in the athletic world than, say, the League of Nations is a public disaster and a private calamity.

The true purpose of education is not to train scholars but "to produce citizens." That is clearly the dominant aim of our public elementary and secondary education. The State exists, EMERSON said, "to make the wise man;" not, however, that he may increase his own economic, social or political advantage, but that the community, the State, society as a whole, may have benefit of what is publicly spent on his training. It is on this theory alone that public support of education rests.

Professor CLARK in his statement a few days ago said that the outstanding thing from all his study was "the necessity of planning our "educational offerings in terms of "the economic needs of society." Yet he went on to admit that many kinds of education should be given for purposes that do not pay economically. Other income than the economic must be taken into consideration. The common moral and spiritual good of the world must be considered. The League of Nations, to use the Archbishop's illustration, should be of greater concern, at any rate to rightly educated grown-ups, than the "leagues" in our national game. The true purpose of education will not be achieved until "membership in a society" has a world significance, as well as national.

THE MAYOR AND THE FARE.

On the evening of April 8, 1924, a conference was held at Albany in which the chief figures were Speaker MACHOLD, LEROY T. HARKNESS, then a member of the Transit Commission, and JOHN H. DELANEY, then, as now, the principal adviser to the City Administration on subway matters. At this conference the bill establishing the Board of Transportation was approved, with a proviso that if the city ever undertook public operation of the new system the rate of fare should be five cents "for an initial period "not to exceed three years from the "date of the beginning of such op- "eration." After that the fare must be sufficient to make the lines self-sustaining. This bill received the formal approval of JAMES J. WALKER, then minority leader of the State Senate. It is still on the statute books. Speaking on Nov. 23, 1926, a year after Mayor WALKER'S election, and with his approval, Mr. DELANEY declared:

> I went to Albany with this legislation with the full approval and knowledge of the whole body of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and agreed to the clause that is binding upon the city to make the new system self-supporting if the city operates. And if the new system should be leased to an operating company, it must be self-supporting from an economic reason. These subways must pay for themselves in the future, no matter how or by whom they are operated.
> Four years after the passage of this act a new bill is under consideration at Albany. Again it has the approval of Messrs. WALKER, HARKNESS and DELANEY. Mr. HARKNESS is now special counsel for the B. M. T., which has been collaborating with the city and the Board of Transportation in an effort to work out some satisfactory unification plan; the bill is designed to enable them to do that. Among other things, however, it explicitly provides for the maintenance of the five-cent fare on all the lines under the management of the proposed Board of Control, save as the city may otherwise decree. Yet when the Republicans at Albany hesitate to reverse themselves, and in a most conciliatory spirit offer as a compromise something in the nature of an extension of the experimental period from three to five years, the Mayor cries out against them:
> It is entirely unsatisfactory. There will be no trial periods. The city and the Board of Control must have a free hand. The city's officials are pledged to keep the five-cent fare, and we will do so.

What has happened in the interval to make the Mayor reject his own commitment and repudiate the chairman of the Board of Transportation? Mr. DELANEY has been vigorously at work digging subways. The Transit Commission has been worrying over unification. The Interborough, in desperation, has taken its case to the courts. But the ultimate need of a broadly self-sustaining fare on the city system has grown steadily more palpable. Repeatedly Controller BERRY has warned the public of the menace of mounting debts. To try to put off the evil day, Mr. DELANEY, not content with his extra allowance of $300,000,000, has been squeezing what sustenance he could out of the tax budget. Mayor WALKER himself has gone up and down the city talking about a $500,000,000 program, and only last week the Board of Estimate made a beginning by authorizing the Triborough Bridge and a Narrows Tunnel. They are to be financed by tolls, thereby imposing on the users of these crossings costs which in the case of the subways the city insists on sharing with the traveling public.

There is irony in the opposition of Mayor WALKER to a safeguard which even HYLAN was willing to accept.

THE TENTH OLYMPIAD.

The retiring Council of the British Olympic Association in making its annual report recently thought that it was "hardly conceivable that any "Olympic contests held outside Eu- "rope could ever approach the inter- "national character of the games "held in Holland." Between the lines has been read a lack of enthusiasm in England for traveling so far in 1932 as Los Angeles, where the next Olympic Games will be held. Will Great Britain give them wholehearted support? Mr. H. M. ABRAHAMS in an article in The Sunday Times of London answers this question in the affirmative:

> Let me say that I believe the various sporting associations in this country will try to send the very best teams they can to the Tenth Olympiad.

Nevertheless, Mr. ABRAHAMS observes that "there is all the differ- "ence in the world between sending "teams 260 miles to Amsterdam and "6,320 miles to Los Angeles." Distance and expense will work against the international success of the Tenth Olympiad. He admits that the "claims of the United States "that they have been seven times "to Europe deserve respect," but why hold the games in the extreme West at Los Angeles? He does not take seriously a suggestion of the American Organizing Committee to transport European athletes direct via the Panama Canal. He argues that only Australia, Japan, Mexico, New Zealand, India and the Philippines will benefit by the West Coast selection. Still he concludes that British governing bodies will do their best for 1932.

To the games in Holland the Japanese athletes traveled 12,000 miles, the Australians 11,000, and the New Zealanders 14,500 miles. The Asiatic athletes will be glad to make a shorter journey in 1932. Mr. ABRAHAMS'S proposal that the American Olympic Committee deprive Los Angeles of its distinction and bestow it upon New York or Philadelphia will not make a profound impression. From a climatic point of view California has superior advantages, except as regards the Winter sports. Nevertheless, California does not want to give the Winter sports up. She has asked the American Olympic Association to protect her rights.

There may be Englishmen who balk at going to Los Angeles, but Lord ROCHDALE, chairman of the British Olympic Association, is not one of them. He has clinched the matter by this statement: "It will "be one way of returning the sup- "port the Americans have given to "all European games in the past. "Of course, we're going to Los An- "geles in 1932." The French are a little troubled about the distance and the cost, but GASTON VIDAL, chairman of the French Olympic Committee, says that France will have a strong team at Los Angeles. Sweden has started a fund to pay her expenses. The desire to see the United States and visit California will influence European athletes, generally. The Tenth Olympiad will certainly not lack international character.

AN UNDESIGNED COINCIDENCE.

The article by Mr. JOHN W. DAVIS in the last number of Foreign Affairs came to a conclusion very like that of an article in The Round Table, an English publication for March. The two were, of course, written entirely independent of each other. Yet they coincide in the belief that it is idle to attempt to establish absolute "parity" between the British Navy and the American, and that an agreement between the two countries how ships of war are to be used and when is of much more importance than any nice balancing of guns and tonnage.

The Round Table represents what may be called the Liberal view of the British Commonwealth. It discusses the question of the rights of neutrals at sea in time of war with great impartiality, contending that neither the British policy nor the American has in the past been entirely consistent or reasonable. But the great point it makes is that modern conditions of warfare, and the approach of the nations toward each other through such agreements as the Locarno undertakings and the Kellogg treaty, make it necessary to revise entirely the old ideas of war, and especially of the functions of a navy in international collisions. According to this view, it is the force of fact, and the pronounced aspirations of the people today, more than the efforts of statesmen that have brought about the new conceptions which now must be realized. The striking inference which The Round Table draws from this is:

> The truth is that the United States and Great Britain are being driven inexorably to realize that all attempts to "regulate" war on the high seas, or neutralize the seas altogether, are foredoomed to failure, and that the question they can no longer refuse to face is how sea power—the ultimate police power of the world which effects its object mainly without bloodshed—is to be used to preserve the peace of the world. Great Britain can no longer retain the right arbitrarily to decide when she can use her naval power to interrupt neutral trade at sea. Her engagements under the Covenant and the Peace Pact and her recognition that the United States is entitled to an equal navy have ended the exceptional position she occupied before the war. The United States can no longer regard the enforcement of her rights as a neutral, irrespective of the merits of the international issue in dispute, as being a noble or a sufficient policy for the most powerful State in the world.

The way out is the one suggested by Mr. DAVIS. This country as well as England must be prepared to face the practical consequences of the ideals which have been accepted in the Kellogg treaty. A real and binding agreement to use naval power as a kind of international police force, and to join in measures necessary to prevent any nation from rashly embroiling the whole world in war, would make the dispute about the comparative size and strength of navies seem secondary and almost negligible.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

They Sell by Smell.

Science may not make the world a better place morally, but it is rapidly improving it esthetically. In trade publications dealing with electrical, chemical or other matters technically treated, one often runs across articles dealing with a practical and beautifying use for some obscure product.

Coumarin and paradichlorbenzene are not much known to buyers of cigarettes, insect sprays and tweed clothes. Pure Bulgarian oil of rose sounds like something for a perfume manufacturer, not a snuff maker, to be interested in. Yet in a trade paper, Chemical Markets, we learn that these three products are important in changing the scent of products which would not smell pleasant without the addition of a deodorant and a perfume. As color has been introduced into the kitchen, sweet smells are being introduced everywhere by chemists who know how buyers will nose out an alluring fragrance.

It was to be expected that France should lead the fight against disagreeable odors. Her chemists can remove the typical smell from rubber sponges, hot-water bottles and raincoats. They can produce shoe polish that breathes of Spring, and glue that whets the appetite. The oilcloth aroma of artificial leather can be blown away and the delicious pungency of real Russian leather attached to the imitation.

Our American chemists are keen in competition. They have been requested to duplicate the peat smoke odor of Scotch and Irish homespuns in our woolens. In a short time our tweeds will be as smoky as the imported makes.

"Believe It or Not."

Traditions and beliefs are falling like wheat before the sickle in The Evening Post. It is holding a symposium of eerie facts, based on the department of its cartoonist, Mr. RIPLEY, who daily astonishes with such facts as "LINDBERGH was the sixty-seventh person to fly across the Atlantic." The debunking age of biographers is inclined to welcome material which makes a fool out of proverbs.

Yet even the sophisticates who are certain that not even Mr. RIPLEY can surprise them must have been slightly astonished at the reports of Miss NEISA MCMEIN and Miss FANNIE HURST. Both dealt with the activities of their cats. Care did not kill them, nor did either look at a Queen. But, says Miss MCMEIN:

> Gooseberry-Sprig McMein, my silver Persian cat, was bitten by a mouse. She was bitten on the leg. I saw it happen. It was four years ago last month.

Further feline testimony comes from Miss HURST:

> The other day my white silk Persian cat actually and hatefully swallowed the canary. * * * His pink upper lip has shrunk, and, receding, now bares his teeth in an undeniable smile.

Miss MCMEIN'S cat thus reverses the tradition which Miss HURST'S cat sustains. But it is a good thing that THEODORE ROOSEVELT is not alive with his doubts about "nature fakers."

A London Green Girdle.

London is to have an encircling zone of green if plans go through. It is proposed to make a beginning in the North Middlesex area of 71,967 acres. Much of it is semi-rural, with ample open spaces.

The "green girdle" would not be a lane through fields and woods, but a belt of considerable width. It would include golf courses, private parks, commons and market gardens. General consent must be gained to prevent the industrialization of neighborhoods.

As planned, the "green girdle" would take in a fringe of Epping Forest, Wrotham Park, Hadley Common, Crew's Hill, the valley of New River and the old mill near Ponders End Lock. Lord DESBOROUGH, Lord ASTOR and other proprietors have already made contributions of attractive land.

For nature-lovers, walkers and equestrians, this leafy and open zone would be a paradise. W. H. HUDSON spent many happy days in St. James and other city parks, which were reflected in his writings. He would have welcomed the "green girdle" with enthusiasm.

Giants, Parades and Caruso.

Mr. WILL ROGERS thinks that nobody is interested in a parade except the fellow who does the marching and his family. But The World holds that there is a fascination about a parade, big or small. A single man, very tall and with a sombrero on his head and a sign on his back advertising pants, draws crowds wherever he goes.

A parade with drums and horses and marching men has the element of romance. So does the very tall man. But he has mystery, too. One wonders whether he came from Patagonia.

One fine Spring day, a decade or two ago, just such a one-man parade took place right under the nose of the editors of The World. A small, robust, dark-complexioned man appeared in City Hall Park with a sign on his back reading "I Am Greater Than the Great CARUSO." He walked slowly about the fountain there. A small crowd gathered. He stopped and surveyed them with level eyes. Then he walked quietly about the fountain again.

By this time scores of park denizens were trooping loyally after him. It was noon, and here was mystery. At the end of the second circuit he stopped and opened his mouth as if about to sing, but evidently decided at the last moment that the time was not yet ripe.

Around he went again, with great dignity. As he circled back to his starting point he could hardly make his way through the multitudes. At last, with great deliberation, he climbed up on the lip of the fountain, removed the sign, took a deep breath, made an imperious gesture to the crowds to be still.

The silence there and then in City Hall Park at noon was such that you could hear the nickels dropping in the subway turnstiles below. But alas, the vast assembly was never to know whether that voice was indeed greater than the great CARUSO'S. For its owner left the bird-like note unsung, the spell unbroken, tucked his sign under his arm and departed as he came, on a Broadway trolley car, taking his secret with him.

DECLINING TO ANSWER.

I shall keep silence,
I shall answer you
No more than any stone or any star
Answers the cricket chirping in the dark;
No more than any rose
Answers the grub that fastens on its heart.
If I do so I shall be even as you
A mendicant and trafficker in words,
A peddler of tinsel-covered toys,
A blower of tin whistles.

I shall not even listen any more.
You take high words upon your feeble lips,
There is no magic in you and no mirth.
You cannot turn the water into wine.
The cup you offer is an empty cup.
You drink its emptiness and never know.

Let it be so. The angels and the saints
Will have compassion on the froward heart,
And on the stupid pride of stupid men.
Each to his kind. The pheasant and the fox
Do you go on your way as I go mine.
You like your scroll of incoherencies,
And I the simple book of fools and children.
Out of their mouths I would perfect my singing.
And keep my soul against your sophistry.
Ask me no more for any word at all.
I shall not answer you.

BACK TO THE TOLL GATE.

Gasoline Tax Is Likened to Old Method of Raising Road Funds.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

An argument often made in support of the gasoline tax is that it accords with the "cost" theory of taxation, because the gasoline consumed is a rough measure of the use made of highways in mileage traveled and weight carried.

A tax on the use of a thing is a tax on industry and tends to retard such use and industry. It is an anomaly to say that it is advisable to increase the number and quality of highways and then retard the use of the highways by taxing such use. Our elders were just as logical when they built a highway and then put toll gates across it, at intervals, to collect a tax on the use of the highway. Physical toll gates have long since been cast into the discard, but the gasoline tax is nothing more or less than a financial toll gate, retarding to that extent the use made of highways.

The gasoline tax is not in accord with the benefit theory of taxation, because what is really benefited by the opening of a highway is the land area served by that highway. This benefit is evidenced in increased land value along the highway and in the centres of population served by the highway.

Property in the cities and centres of population served by through highways, benefit in increased land values far more than do the country districts through which the highways pass.

A recent study of the effect of highways on farm lands made under the direction of Professor G. F. Warren, head of the Department of Agricultural Economics, Cornell University, shows that only a small per cent of the travel on through highways originates in the country and the major portion originates in the cities and towns served by these highways. The country travel, with improved highways, tends in the direction of centres of population, with increased concentration of trade centres, banks, schools and other social activities, resulting in large increases in the value of sites in the cities and towns.

The cost of highway improvement should be spread over the entire community served in proportion to the land values created by the improvements. If industry pays for the highway through imposition of a gasoline tax, or other similar method, the result is that the highway becomes a gift to the land-owning portion of the community and the community as a whole pays for the highway twice, once through its gasoline tax and a second time through increased revenue paid to land owners in increased rents.

A further objection to the gasoline tax is that it is a tax upon a commodity and each dispenser of gasoline becomes a tax collector. Eventually the consumer must pay not only the tax, but a percentage on the tax to cover risk of trade, and profit on money invested.

A Questioned Statuette.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Our attention has been called to an article which appeared in the March 9 edition of your paper referring to a certain statuette found among the assets of the estate of Michael Dreicer, which statuette had been sold to the late Michael Dreicer by the late George J. Demotte.

Because of a claim filed against the estate by Mr. Demotte, the executors of the estate made inquiry as to the authenticity of the statuette. Upon our earnest request, Sir Joseph Duveen inspected the statuette and gave us his unqualified opinion that it was a modern piece. The executors of the Dreicer estate relied on Sir Joseph's judgment and declined to make any payment to Mr. Demotte for the statuette. The only payments which to our knowledge have been made for the object in question were made by the late Michael Dreicer himself. The executors did not take any other steps beyond Sir Joseph's advice and opinion to establish the fact that the statuette was not a modern piece.

In order to correct an erroneous impression which seems to have gone abroad because of the aforementioned publication, will you kindly print this information in your esteemed paper?

Rumania Welcomes Writers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of March 9 under the caption "Anderson Is Expelled on Rumanian Trip" you publish a special cable addressed to you from Budapest, dated March 8, relating that Sherwood Anderson and Beverly Nichols, well-known writers, have been expelled from Rumania.

I am now in receipt of a cablegram from my government denying that these two writers were ever in Rumania. Therefore, the news of their expulsion is without foundation. The present government of Rumania, headed by Mr. Maniu, has never expelled any writers or newspaper men. On the contrary, it is glad to welcome in Rumania the intellectuals of the world, including Sherwood Anderson. They will be afforded every liberty to travel through Rumania as they please. The Rumanian Government is confident that any unbiased foreigner will not only be favorably impressed with the situation of the minorities in Rumania, but will realize that all unfavorable news concerning them is manufactured in such centres as Budapest.

Minister of Rumania.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Chief Justice Taft's misquotation of the oath of office when he administered it to President Hoover was plainly unimportant, as the language he used did not change the meaning of the oath. However, Vice President Curtis made what might be considered a more serious slip when he administered the oath to the first group of Senators to be sworn after he started to perform that function.

In swearing the group Mr. Curtis altered both the words and the meaning of the prescribed form and said: "Do you take this oath freely without any mental obligation or purpose of evasion?" Some one called Vice President Curtis's attention to the mistake apparently, for every radio listener heard his quick response: "Did I leave out something?" in giving the oath to the remaining new Senators he used the prescribed phraseology: "Do you take this obligation freely without any mental reservation of purpose of evasion?" &c. Millions of citizens listened to the proceedings and possibly the talking films have preserved the words just as they were spoken.

PARTY CLUB ALTERS STATUS OF HOOVER

EDGE PREDICTS NEW ERA

Says Chief Executive Will Lead America in Most Prosperous Period in History.

The National Republican Club at its regular monthly meeting last night at 54 West Fortieth Street voted to transfer President Hoover from active to honorary membership. The announcement was made by former United States Senator William M. Calder of Brooklyn, who explained that he and Mr. Hoover had joined the club on the same day in 1908.

Between 1918 and 1920, Senator Calder told the members, Mr. Hoover was out of the club about eighteen months. In 1920, he said, he was attending a luncheon in Washington at which Mr. Hoover and Eugene Meyer Jr., chairman of the War Finance Commission, were present, and invited Mr. Hoover to rejoin. At the same time he invited Mr. Meyer to join. Both accepted and were nominated and elected.

It was this interval of non-membership in the National Republican Club which, when Mr. Hoover became a candidate for the Republican nomination for President, gave rise to the charge that he had withdrawn from the club in 1918 to seek the Democratic nomination for the same office, a charge which was subsequently denied.

Officers Renominated.

In the absence of Richard W. Lawrence, president of the National Republican Club, Thomas C. Desmond, vice president, presided last night. Before the speaking began it was announced that all of the officers of the club had been renominated for the coming year. Nominations for the executive committee were: Republican State leader, H. Edmund Machold, former Attorney General Albert Ottinger, Louis W. Stotesbury, Frank A. Miles and Alfred Behring.

Senator Walter E. Edge of New Jersey was the principal speaker. He asserted that if he analyzed correctly the determination of President Hoover he foresaw Mr. Hoover leading "in the greatest era of progressiveness history has ever recorded."

"In its selection of Executives, the United States has certainly in recent years and in anticipation of the future been mighty fortunate," said Senator Edge. "It would have been impossible to have discovered a man better equipped to meet the policy of retrenchment and economy, absolutely essential following the World War, than Calvin Coolidge.

"Herbert Hoover assumes the Presidency at a time when the country is looking forward to aggressive constructive development, and Herbert Hoover, if I analyze his determination correctly, will lead in the greatest era of progressiveness history has ever recorded.

"Consider the two men, Coolidge the economist, and presiding during a period when economy was absolutely essential. Hoover the engineer, visualizing the possibilities of the country in its world leadership and preparing to perform greater and more wonderful things.

Stresses Foreign Policy.

"More and more it is becoming emphasized that the United States cannot maintain a selfish or isolated international rôle. It has been our traditional policy to concern ourselves mostly with ourselves and yet to be anxious and desirous, through it all, of doing business with the world, and, if possible, not being misunderstood by the world."

Suggesting that most of America's present problems were concerned with foreign markets due to America's vast surplus products, Senator Edge asserted that the solution was not to be found in paternalism and that if the United States was to stimulate employment it must develop foreign markets. He further asserted that if the United States had foreign markets it must purchase foreign goods or their equivalent to maintain a balance of trade. He then said:

"If our prosperity is to continue parallel with increasing population and responsibilities, we must do business with the world and thus justify increased production in our own country."

He referred to the possibility of danger of reprisals from other nations if America made it difficult for them to export their goods to the United States.

Mr. Edge suggested that Latin Americans misinterpreted North America because misunderstandings were fomented in the United States.

HONORED FOR AID TO CITY.

33 Commemorated at Meeting in Town Hall.

A commemorative historical meeting in honor of the thirty-three persons who through their contributions to the life of New York City have, in the last two years, been adjudged worthy of having a chair at Town Hall endowed in their memory was held there yesterday under the auspices of the governing board.

Dr. John H. Finley said that the auditorium, with its chairs on which a name plate is fastened to commemorate the person in whose honor it is endowed, should be regarded not as a hall of fame but as a hall of judgment. He said that those names there inscribed should be of people who "have made the city greater, more beautiful or safer because they have lived in it."

He mentioned especially among those recently honored the late Dr. Robert Abbe, surgeon and radium pioneer of St. Luke's Hospital, whose career alone, he said, "would have justified the existence of the College of the City of New York, which he attended."

William C. Redfield, former Secretary of Commerce, devoted much of his address to the memory of A. Augustus Healy, who died in 1921 and was for twenty-five years the president of the board of trustees of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences.

SYMPHONIC BAND WINS AN OVATION

HAVE BRILLIANT AUDIENCE

Prince de Ligne, Ambassador, Presents Band to Mayor Walker on Arrival Here.

The Symphonic Band of the Royal Belgian Guards, led by Captain Arthur Prevost, made its first appearance in America last night at the Metropolitan Opera House in a concert for the benefit of the Reconstruction Hospital. Much interest had been aroused and high expectations invited by the published announcements concerning the "good-will" tour of this famous musical organization, founded nearly a century ago and long regarded in Europe as of unique excellence in its special field. These expectations were in large measure fulfilled by the performance which the Belgian musicians gave of a program comprising musical offerings generally associated with orchestras rather than bands. This included the Bach prelude and fugue in A minor, César Franck's "Offertory for Midnight Mass," the overture to Smetana's "The Bartered Bride," the "Uetrouchka" suite of Stravinsky and Duka's "The Sorcerer's Apprentice."

The band, which in its representation of the various instruments is not unlike the concert organizations of leading American bandmasters, displayed a virtuosity, flexibility, play of tone-color and range of dynamics which enabled the leader to achieve orchestral effects of rare beauty. There was in general less sonority in the brass sections than American audiences are accustomed to hear, though this is made due to the character of the program, which emphasized the subtler elements of woodwind and strings. These were utilized with telling effect throughout the program, and especially in the Bach transcription and the Smetana overture.

A brilliant audience, which included the Belgian Ambassador, Prince Albert de Ligne, and his staff, and representatives of the American Legion and other veterans' organizations, gave an enthusiastic welcome to Captain Prevost and his musicians, which reached its climax at the final playing of the Belgian national anthem and the Star Spangled Banner. Captain Prevost has transcribed more than 100 orchestral scores, both classic and modern, many of which are to be performed by the band in its coast-to-coast tour, which will continue through the month of May. Forty-two concerts are already scheduled, to be given in the larger cities from Quebec to Texas, and on the Pacific Coast of this country and Canada.

The band arrived yesterday on the steamship Megantic. It consists of sixty-nine soldiers. During the war it was converted into a fighting unit.

After going from the ship to the Forty-fourth Street Hotel, the band was received at City Hall by Mayor Walker, being presented by Prince de Ligne. The Ambassador told the Mayor the history of the organization and the Mayor replied, expressing his belief in the firm good-will between the two countries. He said the part played by Belgium in the war was printed indelibly on the memory of American boys.

The Mayor's remarks were interpreted to the band by the Ambassador and the musicians cheered. They were then photographed on the steps of City Hall with the Mayor. A large crowd filled the plaza while they played a medley of American patriotic songs and stood at attention while "The Star-Spangled Banner" was rendered.

Later, the men were conveyed to Madison Square, where Captain Prevost placed a wreath at the base of the Eternal Light.

GLAD OF FILM INVESTMENT.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 19.—Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, president of the Board of Trade, told the Commons today that he was "delighted" that capital should be invested in the British film industry, whether it was British or foreign.

The question arose from an assertion of John Beckett, Laborite, that American companies were financing inferior British films in order to meet their own quota requirements here.

"Are you aware," asked Mr. Beckett, "that American renters are financing very bad cheap films, that they are block-booking them as a condition of getting long film productions and that next year the British film industry will be excluded?"

"No," replied Sir Philip. "I have never heard a more gross travesty of the workings of the film act. If it is a fact that American producers produce bad British films—I have no reason to suppose that that is the case—there are an ample number of admirable British films to replace them."

Sir Philip said 234 British films, including 118 long productions, had been produced in England.

A Memorial Concert.

ELIZABETH, N. J., March 19.—Music lovers of this city and near-by towns tonight attended a concert at the Elks Auditorium in memory of Baumann Lowe, who was affiliated with many musical organizations in the metropolitan district. Other organizations which participated were the Elizabeth Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Christian Kriens; the Pingry Orchestra and Glee Club and the choir of St. Bartholomew's Church, Brooklyn, with Charles W. Tickells as conductor. Erwyn Mutch of the choir at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York was the soloist. The concert was sponsored by a large committee headed by E. Wilton Lyon to establish a fund to provide for the continuation of the musical education of Mr. Lowe's son.

Hand Foghorns Save Ships From Peril on Goodwin Sands

LONDON, March 19 (Canadian Press).—Half a dozen men in a small open motor boat from Deal, sounding a hand foghorn, saved several big steamers, including a liner, from possible wreck on the dangerous Goodwin Sands yesterday.

They replaced the lightship sunk early yesterday when it was rammed by the liner City of New York, with a loss of the lightship's master, Captain W. Williams.

The volunteer lightship was continually in danger of being run down itself in the dense fog, and its occupants had several narrow escapes.

JOHN L. HEINS DEAD; EX-TRACTION HEAD

John L. Heins, who was president of the Coney Island & Brooklyn Railroad Company before its absorption of the B. R. T. years ago, died last night at his home, 1,803 Beverly Road, Brooklyn, in his eighty-fifth year. He is survived by a son, John L. Jr.; two daughters, Mrs. Marguerite Mansfield and Mrs. Helen Conway, and a widow, Margaret Boschen Heins, his second wife, whom he married in 1907.

At 14 Mr. Heins began his long association with city transportation as a starter for the old Avenue A stage line in Manhattan. Two years later he joined the Red Bird stage line that ran from Thirtieth Street and Tenth Avenue to the Grand Street Ferry. Jacob Sharp, a few years afterward, put him in charge of the new Forty-second Street and Grand Street horse-car railroad and while so engaged Mr. Heins also began the operation of the two other similar roads in Manhattan.

Moving to Brooklyn when still in his twenties Mr. Heins became superintendent of the Franklin Avenue line there, but ill health caused his resignation, and on his recovery he took charge of horses and supplies for the Brooklyn Fire Department. He returned to traction, however, and remained in that field during the remainder of his active career, assuming the presidency and chairmanship of the board of the Coney Island & Brooklyn Railroad on its formation thirty years ago.

His son said last night that the severe injuries he sustained in 1923 when blown down in a wind storm were largely responsible for his death.

MILITARY FUNERAL FOR GEN. APPLETON

THRONG VIEWS THE CORTEGE

Three Generals Among the Honorary Pallbearers—Ten Guardsmen Faint in Armory.

With full military honors funeral services for Major Gen. Daniel Appleton, retired soldier and publisher, were held yesterday afternoon in the Seventh Regiment Armory, 643 Park Avenue. The services, which were attended by the active members and veterans of the old Seventh Regiment, now the 107th National Guard Infantry, of which General Appleton long was commander, were followed by a full military funeral procession on upper Fifth Avenue and East Fifty-seventh Street.

The services in the huge hall were impressive. After the flag-draped coffin had been borne into the hall from the board of officers room, where it had lain in state since Saturday, and had been placed on a dais in the centre, more than 1,200 veterans of the old Seventh Regiment filed in silent review past their old commander.

When the veterans had ranked themselves on either side of the dais the three battalions of the regiment, in full dress uniform, marched into the hall and came to company front facing the coffin. With the early afternoon sun shining through the windows in the roof, and casting rays upon the polished floor, the funeral service was read. Bishop Herbert Shipman, chaplain of the regiment, and the Rev. Harry H. Crossett, chaplain of the veterans, officiated. The Rev. Peter Hoey was also present on the dais. More than a thousand persons were in the galleries.

The services opened with a prayer, after which the regimental band played the hymn, "The Strife is O'er, the Battle Done." After the recital of the Creed and the Lord's Prayer, the band played Taps. Then, to the strain of General Appleton's favorite tune, "Love's Old Sweet Song," eight sergeants of the regiment, all more than six feet tall, bore the coffin from the hall, followed by the members of the family and the honorary pallbearers.

Ten Men Faint.

During the services ten men fainted in the ranks of the regiment, though the regiment was standing at parade rest. The heat in the hall and the tight fit of their head dress was given as the cause of the faintings. The men were carried to the back of the room.

As the coffin was carried out of the armory the Police Band, drawn up in Park Avenue, played "Nearer, My God, to Thee." Thousands in the street stood silent as it was placed upon the artillery caisson, while the sudden rattle of a riveting machine on a near-by building seemed to pierce the air with a staccato machine-gun salute to the dead.

Led by a troop of New York mounted police, the funeral procession moved west on Sixty-seventh Street to Fifth Avenue, thence south to Fifty-seventh Street, where it turned east. Following the police, came the regimental band, playing a dirge, with drums muffled and colors draped. The regiment, marching behind the band, was followed by the caisson bearing the coffin. Beside the caisson walked the honorary pallbearers. The General's horse, boots reversed in stirrups, was led behind the caisson. Then came the veterans of the regiment on foot, followed by automobiles bearing the family. The Police Band brought up the rear.

Veterans' Last Salute.

On Fifty-seventh Street, between Second and Third Avenues, the regiment and veterans were drawn up at company front along either curb, and as the caisson passed between the ranks the men came up to their last salute to their former leader. The coffin was transferred to a hearse, while the band once more played "Love's Old Sweet Song," and the hearse and family cars began the trip to Greenwood Cemetery, where the Episcopal committal services were read at the grave.

The honorary pallbearers present were Generals John F. O'Ryan, Louis W. Stotesbury and DeWitt C. Falls; Colonel Wade H. Hayes, commander of the regiment; Colonels Frank H. Hines, Arthur Little, John J. Byrne, William G. Bates, J. Weston Myers, H. Harlow Brooks and John S. Danielli; Lieut. Cols. Robert McLean, Christopher J. Colles and Nicholas Engel; Majors Francis G. Landon, and Robert Mazet and Captains William F. Wall and C. Otto Toussaint.

ALDERMAN DUNN DIES AT 64.

Alderman Charles W. Dunn of the Bay Ridge section of Brooklyn died yesterday at his home, 102 Seventy-fourth Street, after a lingering illness. Alderman Dunn, who was 64 years old, suffered a fracture of the skull in an automobile accident in the Catskill Mountains about two years ago, and had never fully recovered. The funeral will be held on Friday morning at 9:30 o'clock in Our Lady of Angels Roman Catholic Church, Fourth Avenue and Seventy-fourth Street. Burial will be in St. John's Cemetery.

The Board of Aldermen adopted a resolution of regret when the announcement of Mr. Dunn's death was made by Alderman Frank Cunningham.

Alderman Dunn was born in Brooklyn, the son of the late John W. and Agnes Martin Dunn, and in his youth was well known as an amateur baseball player. After leaving school he entered the law offices of the late Stephen C. Baldwin. Although he never became a lawyer he was an expert in preparing cases for trial. He became active in Democratic affairs in the Ninth Assembly District, and in 1913 was appointed Alderman from the Fortieth Aldermanic District to fill an unexpired term. After a lapse of two years he was elected Alderman from his district in 1916 and had been re-elected continuously ever since.

LOUIS T. HAGGIN, FINANCIER, DEAD

HEAD OF OTHER CONCERNS

Louis Terah Haggin, who had been president of the Cerro de Pasco Copper Corporation since the death of his father, James B. Haggin, in 1914, died yesterday at his residence, 864 Fifth Avenue, after a brief illness of pneumonia. He went to his office as usual until ten days ago. He was 81 years old.

Mr. Haggin is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Robert Tittle McKee of 136 East Seventy-ninth Street; a sister, Mrs. George B. de Long of 14 East Fifty-second Street, and his stepmother, Mrs. Margaret S. Voorhies Haggin of 1 East Sixty-fourth Street. The funeral services will be held privately.

The careers of Mr. Haggin and his father were alike, in that both men started as lawyers and later were chiefly concerned with large mine properties. But while the elder Haggin was a practical mining man, who joined the California gold rush of '49 and, with Senator Hearst and Marcus Daly, developed virgin ore lands in the West, the son's connection was that of an able lawyer who succeeded to the direction of a great corporation, the business of which happened to be mining.

Mr. Haggin was born at Natchez, Miss., where his father had practiced law in his younger days and where his maternal grandfather, Colonel Lewis Sanders, had been a prominent member of the bar. He went to England for his college education, graduating at Cambridge in 1870. His legal training he obtained at Harvard, where he took his LL. B. in 1872. In the next year he married Blanche Butterworth of this city. They settled in California, and there Mr. Haggin gained distinction as a lawyer.

Gradually Mr. Haggin's varied interests drew him to this city and he had resided here for the last thirty years. His New York associations go back much further, however, for he had been a member of the Union Club since 1881. On the death of his father, from whom he inherited nearly $4,000,000 of the estate of approximately $20,000,000, he succeeded to the presidency of the Cerro de Pasco Copper Corporation and to other offices and directorships in companies with which James B. Haggin had been associated.

SEES 'LIVING LIGHT' POSSIBLE IN FUTURE

TELLS OF ITS ECONOMY

Insect Reforms the Compound It Burns for Illumination, Then Reuses It.

In a discussion of luminous animals before the American Institute at Cooper Union last night, Dr. E. Newton Harvey, Princeton professor of physiology, expressed the belief that living light may be reproduced in the future.

"The question as to whether we shall ever be able to reproduce living light becomes the question whether we shall ever be able to synthesize the proteins," he declared. "Personally, I think that will come in the future. We now synthesize fats, sugars and some of the polypeptids, which are simple proteins. It is only a matter of time for synthesis of the more complicated compounds of which luciferin is a member."

Dr. Harvey said that the firefly is highly economical in that it burns an oil and after the oil is re-formed it is ready to be reburned. After explaining this process he discussed its possible practical application.

"It is possible to devise a lamp in which luciferin is burned continuously over and over again. In one region luciferin is oxidized to oxyluciferin with luminescence; in another the oxy-luciferin is reduced to luciferin again. To be sure, the light is weak, and practical difficulties appear in the poisoning of necessary catalysts, but the principle remains. Perhaps we may look to an application of this principle for the future development of new means of illumination."

"Whenever I mention that I am interested in luminescence, I am always asked one question—whether the light is phosphorous or not," said Dr. Harvey. "It is easy to answer in the negative that the light has nothing to do with the element phosphorus, which is too poisonous to be found in living cells. On the other hand, the light has a very great resemblance to the luminescence of phosphorus. In the first place, it is an oxidation, and if we remove the oxygen from any luminous animal the light will disappear completely, and if we readmit oxygen the light will return."

Dr. Harvey said that all luminescence requires water as he found by experiments that a luminescent animal when dried loses its lighting properties. Some animal matter, he found, became luminous again when moistened, after it had been kept dry for ten years.

"Since water and oxygen are necessary it is likely that some material produced by the cells of the animal is oxidized," he said. "This material is called luciferin. Not only one material but two materials are found to be necessary in order to get light, in addition to water and oxygen. Luminous extract of an animal can be separated into two parts, one containing luciferin, which will oxidize with the production of light and the other part containing a catalyst or enzime, which accelerates the oxidation of luciferin. Chemically luciferin is probably to be placed among the simplest members of the proteins, the peptones or protesses."

HONORS HENDRIK HUDSON.

Netherlands Minister Here Attends Commemorative Program.

Dr. J. H. Van Royen, minister from The Netherlands to the United States, and consular officers of The Netherlands in this city attended yesterday a second in a series of programs given at the Wanamaker auditorium to commemorate the 320th anniversary of the discovery of the Hudson River by Hendrik Hudson.

The celebration was known as Dutch East Indian Day and the program consisted of musical and other features picturing the native life and customs of the Dutch East Indian archipelago. Miss Stella Block danced in native Javanese costume and Miss Bella Hopman played several musical compositions, including one of her own compositions, "Indian Nights." Dr. Neil Van Aken, secretary of The Netherlands Chamber of Commerce in New York, gave an illustrated lecture on Java, which was followed by a motion picture showing life in the Dutch East Indian possessions of Sumatra, Borneo, New Guinea and the Moluccas.

CHARITY MOTIVES LISTED.

100 at Church Conference Told Why Endowments Are Made.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 19.—Endowment funds for hospitals, educational institutions, community projects and charitable enterprises, together with the motives which prompt men to set up such funds, occupied the attention of more than 100 members of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America at a conference in the Hotel Chalfonte today.

At the same time conferences were held by other members on religious publicity and promotional work among the churches.

At the meeting of the committee on financial fiduciary matters in the Gold Room, over which Frank H. Mann, president of the Union Guarantee and Mortgage Company of New York and secretary of the Federal Council, presided, Dr. Alfred Williams Anthony, chairman of the committee, declared the assemblage represented $3,300,000,000 in endowed funds throughout the country.

Edward T. Devine of the Bellevue-Yorkville health demonstration in New York declared six principal motives prompted men to endow funds. These, he said, were sympathy for suffering, desire for divine esteem, desire for social esteem, familiarity with the charity, loyalty and the pleasure of doing good.

SENTENCED FOR MURDER.

Howard Van Orden, 22 years old, of 147 Twenty-first Avenue, Paterson, N. J., was sentenced by County Judge McLaughlin in Brooklyn yesterday to serve from twenty years to life in Sing Sing for the murder of Samuel Gutheit, a furrier, who was shot in his shop at 4,318 Fifth Avenue, Brooklyn, on Sept. 20.

Van Orden and Mrs. Mary McNamara Wilson, also of Paterson, were indicted for first degree murder. It is alleged that the woman accompanied Van Orden when the furrier was shot, but a jury which tried her separately from Van Orden acquitted her. Van Orden then offered to plead guilty to second degree murder, which was accepted. Van Orden was said to have shot the furrier in an attempt to get a fur coat for Mrs. Wilson.

Honest Teaching and Upright Example Never Fail to Make Good

Give the teachers a fair chance and let parents back them up in their good work. As "prepared places are for prepared people," let place hunters take notice of that fact and see to it that their children are faithful in regular attendance at their schools and diligent in studying their lessons, that they shall be fitted to take their part and go out to help earn their living. It is not fair to the teachers or to the children to allow the schooling to go by chance.

by Smith and Hayter, London, 1795

In the 18TH CENTURY when tea was an exceedingly precious and costly commodity it was kept under lock and key, and usually in caddies which were an index to its choiceness and rarity, on which "artists in silver lavished some of their best work." The caddies were generally made in pairs for black and green tea.

These two beautiful GEORGE III examples are octagonal in form and ornamented with delicately chased leaf, flower and foliated scroll decorations, the tops surmounted by ivory knobs. Each bears the crest of the Wardlaw family and the motto FAMILIAS FIRMAT PIETAS. They are contained in the original satinwood chest with inlaid border and ivory key-plate.

POLICEMAN'S DEATH LAID TO LIQUOR FEUD

OTHERS FACE QUESTIONING

Rivalry over the bootlegging "rights" in the Bay Ridge district of Brooklyn is believed to have led to the gang fight at Third Avenue and Sixty-ninth Street, Brooklyn, just before 2 o'clock yesterday morning, in which, as told in a late edition of THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday, a policeman in plain clothes was killed and two other persons were wounded.

Evidence developed during the day led Police Commissioner Whalen to say that the dead patrolman "was certainly not doing police duty" at the time of the fight and to announce that reports that he was implicated with one of the bootlegging factions were being investigated.

Another policeman and a former member of the force who is known to have been friendly with Charles (Vannie) Higgins, alleged leader of one faction, are to be questioned. Assistant District Attorney Hyman Barshay of Kings County announced. He did not divulge the nature of the information to be sought from them.

Three Held Without Bail.

Three men were held without bail on charges of felonious assault yesterday as participants in the fight. They were Higgins, who said he lived at the Hotel Stafford; Paul Eckert, 40 years old, who gave his address as 2,315 Dorchester Road, Baltimore, and Thomas Kilduff, alias Tommy Connell, of 7,910 Fort Hamilton Parkway, Brooklyn, who was wounded in the leg in the battle.

The charge against them was made felonious assault rather than homicide because of the admitted fact that the dead patrolman, Daniel J. Maloney, 28 years old, of 574 Seventy-seventh Street, Brooklyn, was killed by Sergeant Charles McGarty of the Hamilton Avenue station, who ran into the fight on his way home from duty.

Whalen Praises McGarty.

Commissioner Whalen warmly praised McGarty for his fearlessness in intervening in the battle, in which between forty and fifty shots were fired, and promised that departmental recognition would be given to him. The Commissioner pointed out that McGarty, who was in civilian attire, could have avoided danger but for his sense of duty.

Despite a severe examination by the police and Mr. Barshay, which lasted until 7 A. M., none of the three men under arrest offered an explanation of the shooting. Police records show a total of fifteen arrests for the three men, but Eckert is the only one known to have served time in jail, and that was a thirty-day sentence for bookmaking.

Although Higgins and Kilduff are alleged by the police to be the two rival leaders and old enemies, neither would give any assistance to the authorities. At their arraignment in the Fifth Avenue court, Brooklyn, before Magistrate Haubert, Kilduff was ordered sent to the prison ward of the Kings County Hospital and the others to the Raymond Street jail. Kilduff, as he hobbled away, turned to Higgins and said:

"So long."

Battle Follows Inn Party.

The shooting followed a party at the Owl's Head Tavern, Third Avenue and Sixty-ninth Street, Brooklyn, which was attended by Higgins and Eckert and their wives; Mr. and Mrs. William Bailey, a Mr. and Mrs. Benson, and a Mrs. Inez Dunnegan of 2,801 Elliot Street, Baltimore, according to Mr. Barshay.

Some time after 1 A. M. they adjourned to an alleged speakeasy at Fourth Avenue and Sixty-ninth Street, where they found Kilduff and Maloney, who was off duty and in civilian clothes, drinking. Despite their rivalry, Kilduff and Higgins were on speaking terms, according to the police, and they chatted for a while.

Higgins and his party left, closely followed by Kilduff and a moment later by Maloney, according to the police reconstruction of events. A minute later Fred O. Brand of 17 Crescent Terrace, Brooklyn, one of the proprietors of the Owl's Head Tavern, heard women screaming outside his place.

They banged on the door, imploring him to open it. Simultaneously the rattle of pistol shots started outside. Brand opened the door, and the women, who were almost in hysteria, rushed in, followed by the thick-set Kilduff, who knocked several of the women down as he rushed toward the rear of the place.

Pistol in hand, Maloney backed into the doorway, according to Brand. The restaurant man heard the hammer of Maloney's weapon click three times as it fell on empty cartridges, he later told Mr. Barshay. Then Maloney darted into the street again.

The fusillade outside continued, and a wild bullet sped through the open doorway and lodged in the shoulder of Harold W. Richards, 33 years old, of 8,678 Bay Parkway, Brooklyn, who had just emerged from the restaurant washroom. He was only slightly wounded. Kilduff meanwhile had vanished.

McGarty came along Sixty-ninth Street on his way home from the subway station at the corner of Fourth Avenue.

"I had walked about three-quarters of the way to Third Avenue when I heard the shooting," he said later. "I saw men running at the corner of Third Avenue and Sixty-ninth Street and noticed a good many automobiles around.

"I drew my gun and ran after a man who was shooting at another, and I yelled 'I'm a police officer.' No one paid any attention to me until the man I was chasing turned and fired a couple of shots at me as the man he was after ducked into the vestibule of the Owl's Head.

"I still had four shots in my gun and I let him have them. He fell down with his gun in his hand. I didn't know it was empty and hit his hand with my pistol until he dropped his gun. He looked up at me and said:

"'I know you. You're a sergeant from the Thirty-eighth. I'm a police officer, too.'

"He extended his hand and I said: 'Gosh, I'm awfully sorry.'

"He said: 'God have mercy on my soul.'

"I asked him to give me the lowdown on what happened, and he answered: 'Get me a priest quick.'

"In the meantime, the other man, Kilduff, ran out of the store door and fell on the sidewalk."

By that time the other participants in the fight had fled. Higgins was stopped by Patrolman William E. Reed, who asked him why he was running.

"To save my life," Reed quoted Higgins as replying.

Questioned at Station.

Higgins, Kilduff, Eckert, who was stopped by another patrolman as he ran from the scene; McGarty and Brand were all taken to the Fort Hamilton station, where they were questioned by detectives, Inspector John J. Sullivan, commanding officer of Brooklyn detectives, and Mr. Barshay.

Other detectives found a shotgun with a pistol grip on the sidewalk beside Maloney. There were shells for it in his overcoat pocket, as well as two pistols which had exploded shells in them. His service pistol was in his holster, fully loaded. They also found Miles O'Reilly, a New York Central Railroad policeman who lived across the street from the scene of the shooting, who corroborated McGarty's story.

Higgins's police record shows that he has been arrested eight times since 1915, although he has never been imprisoned. In 1915 and again the next year he was convicted of assault but was placed on probation both times. He was discharged by a magistrate after his arrest for assault and robbery in 1926 and last year he was discharged five times on charges of violating the Sullivan law, homicide, grand larceny, felonious assault and homicide with an automobile.

After he was arrested last August for carrying concealed weapons, Higgins accused the police of "hounding" him. A police report was made to District Attorney Dodd which charged that Higgins then owned the Cigarette, described in the report as "the fastest rum-runner in New York waters"; that he owned motor trucks used to transport liquor; that he ran an establishment "in violation of the Volstead act" and that he owned a large seaplane. He also kept a fleet of taxicabs registered in the names of individuals, the report said.

"On June 3, 1928, Higgins was sitting in a sedan with William Bailey, 653 Fifty-fifth Street, and others. Another car drew alongside and the occupants fired a volley into the Higgins car. No complaint was made by Higgins," the report continued.

"In March, 1928, Higgins flew to Baltimore in an airplane with four others. Higgins was shot by a Baltimore policeman.

"On Dec. 14, 1926, Louis Wallinler of 6,822 Third Avenue, a known criminal, was shot and killed. William Bailey, described by police as 'one of Higgins's trusted lieutenants,' was arrested. He was brought to trial in the Supreme Court on a charge of murder. Higgins testified that he played cards with Bailey the night of the murder. The jury acquitted Bailey."

Cleared of Homicide.

When Higgins was arrested last Aug. 11 on a charge of homicide, which was subsequently dismissed, Patrolman John McCarthy became involved in an argument in the Fourth Avenue police station in Brooklyn, in the course of which he tore off his badge and shouted:

"I don't want to be mixed up with a crowd of men trying to frame a man for murder. I'll resign first." McCarthy did resign not long after that.

Kilduff has been arrested six times since 1916, his record showed, but has never been convicted.

Eckert received a suspended sentence in February, 1920, for homicide in a case in which his automobile struck and killed a policeman, and served thirty days that same year for bookmaking. Although he said his home was in Baltimore, the police assert that he is known as "Coney Island Whitey" because of the amount of time he spends at that resort.

Maloney, the dead patrolman, was born Feb. 2, 1901, and joined the police force July 11, 1923. He was assigned to the Special Service Squad under Commissioner Enright but after six months was transferred to a Staten Island beat. Recently he has been attached to the Clinton Street Station in Manhattan. He was married.

HACKENSACK, N. J., March 19.—While Mr. and Mrs. Charles Killian of Franklin Avenue, Rochelle Park, were entertaining friends at a card party, all were surprised to hear Mrs. Floris Weisskerk, living half a mile away, telling Chief John Platt that a grass-fire was threatening several buildings and asking him to have the siren sounded as an alarm. This came over the Killians' radio very distinctly, but it was really a telephone message. Two of the guests were firemen and hurried to the fire house before the siren was sounded.

Radio experts were much interested in the incident and now residents of Rochelle Park have declared they will be careful that they say over the telephone if their private conversation is to be broadcast.

$722,000,000 BANKS AGREE ON MERGER

Woodward to Head the Board—Terms for Exchange of Stock Detailed.

An agreement to consolidate the Central Union Trust Company and the Hanover National Bank, resulting in an institution with capital funds of approximately $100,000,000 and total resources of about $722,000,000, was formally announced yesterday. The two institutions will be merged under the State charter of the Central Union Trust Company. While the name has not been officially decided, it is expected to be the Central-Hanover Trust Company.

The merger, which will bring together two banking institutions that have been active in Wall Street since Civil War days, will be made on the basis of an exchange of stock, according to the joint announcement made following meetings of the directors of the bank and the trustees of the trust company. The present stockholders of the Central Union Trust Company, under a plan voted by the trustees last month, will on May 2 received six shars of $20 par value stock for every share of $100 par value now held, this including a stock dividend of 20 per cent. This will increase the capital of the Central Union from $12,500,000 to $15,000,000, and when the merger takes place the capital of the Central will be further increased to $21,000,000.

Terms to Stockholders.

Of that amount, $15,000,000 will go to the stockholders of the Central Union Trust Company and $6,000,000 to the stockholders of the Hanover National Bank. The then shareholders of the Central Union will receive share for share in the new company and the stockholders of the Hanover will receive three shares of $20 par value stock of the new company for each share of Hanover then held.

George W. Davison, who has been president of the Central Union Trust Company since 1919, will be president of the merged company, and William Woodward, president of the Hanover, will be chairman of the board. Credit for the successful conclusion of the merger plans is given in Wall Street to Mr. Davison and Mr. Woodward, who had been negotiating for some time. In addition to being president of the Hanover, Mr. Woodward is one of the trustees of the Central Union.

The official and clerical organizations of the two institutions will be retained, and the board of directors of the Hanover and the board of trustees of the Central Union will be combined.

The trustees of the Central Union are James Brown, Johnston De Forest, Ernest Iselin, W. Emlen Roosevelt, Edwin Thorne, Francis M. Weld, Colby M. Chester Jr., Clarence Dillon, James N. Jarvie, Frederick Strauss, Cornelius Vanderbilt, William Woodward, George W. Davison, Frederic deP. Foster, Dudley Olcott, Ernest Sturm and John Y. G. Walker.

The Hanover directors are William Woodward, John B. Clark, E. Hayward Ferry, Ernest Iselin, Edgar Palmer, John J. Riker, William Warren Barbour, William Crawford, William Halls Jr., Edwin G. Merrill, John S. Phipps, Henry P. Turnbull, Henry R. Carse, Thomas Dickson, Henry W. Howe, Eustis Paine, Auguste G. Pratt, Francis T. Maxwell and John P. Stevens.

The headquarters of the new company will be at 70 Broadway, where the Central Union Trust Company had arranged to move on May 1 from its building at 80 Broadway. The details of the merger will be completed rapidly.

Merger Viewed as Logical.

The merger was regarded as logical, as the two institutions complement each other in their services. While the Central Union has built up a considerable commercial banking clientele, domestic and foreign, its principal service has been in the trust business, both personal and corporate. The Hanover is primarily a commercial bank and has long been one of the leading New York depositaries and correspondents for banks throughout the country.

Besides its offices in lower Broadway, the Central Union has two uptown offices, at Forty-second Street and Madison Avenue and at Fifth Avenue and Sixtieth Street. The Hanover, besides its main offices at 11 Nassau Street, has eleven branches, at 97 Warren Street, 135 William Street, 260 West Broadway, 231 Varick Street, 874 Broadway, Seventh Avenue and Twenty-third Street, Thirty-fourth Street and Lexington Avenue, 596 Sixth Avenue, 224 West Forty-seventh Street, 773 Third Avenue and Seventy-ninth Street and Lexington Avenue.

The foundations of the merger are deeply laid in the past, reaching back to the charter, which was granted to the Hanover in 1851. The Central Union Trust Company is the result of a merger which was completed in 1918 between the Union Trust Company, the charter of which was granted in 1864, and the Central Trust Company of New York, which obtained its charter in 1873.

The Hanover in 1861 was one of a group of New York banks that advanced $150,000,000 in gold to the government to help meet the first great demands of the Civil War. Both it and the Central Union have paid out large amounts in dividends to their stockholders. The Hanover, which paid a 100 per cent stock dividend on Jan. 10, authorized yesterday a quarterly dividend of $4 a share on the new stock. The action placed the new stock on an annual dividend rate of $16, equivalent to $32 on the old stock, which had been paying $24 yearly.

The stocks of the two banks have advanced steadily in response to the reports that a merger was being arranged and the general expansion in activity in the bank stock market. Stock of the Hanover was quoted in the unlisted securities market yesterday at 1,400 bid, $1,475 asked, an advance of $25 for the day. The new stock of the Central Union was unchanged for the day at $490 bid, $497 asked.

Breach of Promise Suit Settled.

When the $250,000 breach of promise action brought by Mrs. Lillian Bauer of 155 East Forty-ninth Street against Dr. Fred E. Smith, dentist of 2 East Eighty-sixth Street, was called for trial before Supreme Court Justice Churchill yesterday, counsel for both sides announced that a settlement had been arranged out of court. An unconfirmed report placed the terms of the agreement at $20,000.

Taxi Driver Guilty of Keeping Thug's Pistol; Admits Failing to Report Hold-Up to Police

Oliver Deardorff, taxi driver who said he had wrested a pistol from a gunman and was arrested when he told his story to a policeman, was found guilty of violation of the Sullivan law by Justices Solomon, Voorhees and Nolan yesterday in Kings County Court of Special Sessions and held in $500 bail for sentence March 28. When he was first arraigned a month ago his story aroused so much sympathy that Magistrate Rayfield declared the arrest an injustice. Yesterday, however, Deardorff's story varied somewhat from the one originally told, and other testimony indicated that he had not turned over the weapon to the police at the first opportunity.

He said yesterday that on the night of Feb. 21 a youth 18 years old took his cab at Sutter Avenue and Essex Street, and, after a thirty-cent ride, asked him for change for $10 and then covered him with the pistol. Deardorff struck it from his hand with a jack handle, he declared. He pocketed the weapon, which had fallen to the running board, he said, and the gunman fled.

He had not turned it over to the police at once, he went on, but had accepted another fare, and still others, until finally he stopped at a restaurant at Atlantic Avenue and Warwick Street to purchase food for his family. Men in the restaurant were discussing the price of pistols, whereon Deardorff volunteered that he had got his for thirty cents—the amount of the gunman's fare.

Patrolman George F. Zieger, who made the arrest, then took the stand to swear that the chauffeur had sought to convince him that he had a permit for the pistol; but, being unconvinced, the policeman said, he escorted him to the Miller Avenue police station.

Assistant District Attorney Charles M. Cohen asked Deardorff how many police stations and patrolmen he passed on his trip to Williamsburg and then driving about Manhattan. Deardorff said that he only knew the location of two or three stations in Brooklyn, but that he passed several patrolmen during the night and morning and did not speak to any of them or attempt to turn in the weapon till Zieger met him.

Others who testified yesterday included Lieutenant Edward F. Freeze and Detective Joseph H. Miller. Winstead W. Murrill of 232 West Seventy-fifth Street, a reporter for an evening newspaper, and two character witnesses who told of the good reputation of the defendant for being law-abiding and for working hard.

FASTER POLICE CARS TO PURSUE GUNMEN

COMMISSIONER TELLS NEED

He Declares His Men Must Be as Well Equipped as Gangsters as Soon as Possible.

The city police are to be equipped with motor vehicles which are fast enough to give them an even chance in the pursuit of the speedy automobiles used by criminals. On the plea of Police Commissioner Whalen, the Board of Aldermen voted unanimously yesterday that the Police Department be permitted to purchase, without the customary letting, $277,000 worth of new modern motor equipment. The order includes a large number of high grade cars.

In addition to 120 Ford runabouts at $450 each for routine duty, to replace small cars that are now old and dilapidated, there were authorized three Packard seven-passenger touring cars at $4,800 each, three Packard seven-passenger sedans at $6,000 each, ten Cadillac seven-passenger Imperial sedans at $3,900 each, twenty Chrysler seven-passenger sedans at $3,300 apiece, eighteen Chrysler five-passenger sedans at $1,900 apiece, six patrol wagons at $3,000 each, three emergency wagons at $6,100 each and twenty armored motorcycles at $750 each.

Whalen Asks Haste in Move.

Permission to omit the formality of public competitive letting was granted after Commissioner Whalen had appeared personally before the board and explained that the equipment desired could be purchased more cheaply if there were no public letting of the contracts, and after he had pleaded that the police "must be as well equipped as the gangsters and as soon as possible."

In stressing the need for high-grade cars and armored motorcycles, the commissioner explained that criminals seek to make their escapes in the best high-powered cars, and that if they are to be apprehended the police must be as efficiently equipped.

"Some of the present department cars," said Commissioner Whalen, "are held together by wires, and many of them are antiquated." The fact that they are in use twenty-four hours a day quickly wears them out, he declared. He also urged emergency patrol wagons for the exclusive use of police reserves to enable them to respond speedily to calls for aid.

Tells of Criminals' Fast Cars.

"Today you may have read of the shooting over in Brooklyn," the commissioner continued. "The cars were speedy and expensive. Criminals now are accustomed to use the best makes on the market. One of the largest and boldest hold-ups reported in Brooklyn in some time was that in which a gang hired a motor car, tried it out and returned it to the renting agent, saying that it failed to jump instantly on the spark. They wanted and they got another car with a quicker pick-up, and went to the house in Prospect Place, where they held up the card game. One of the players happened to be a good shot and three of the gunmen were killed. We must be as well equipped as the gangsters."

After the Board of Aldermen had approved his requests, Commissioner Whalen said he would buy the new cars as soon as he received the money.

TEN FLY TO CAPITAL, HONOR RUTH NICHOLS

MISS EARHART DROPS OUT

Special to The New York Times.

CURTISS FIELD, L. I., March 19.—A party of ten, founders of the Aviation Country Clubs movement, left this field in five planes this morning to attend a luncheon in Washington as the guests of F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War for Aeronautics. The luncheon was in honor of Miss Ruth Nichols who is leaving Washington Friday on a nation-wide tour in the interest of country flying clubs.

Miss Amelia Earhart, flying a Moth, was forced down at Philadelphia and later in the day returned by air to New York without completing the Washington trip. Others who made the trip included James B. Taylor Jr., president of Air Associates, who flew a Lockheed Vega and carried several passengers; Earl Osborn and George Post in an Avro Avian, George Pyncheon Jr. in a Consolidated Husky and Robert C. Oertel flying a Curtiss Fledgeling. R. Stuart Kilbourne, who was to have been in the party and took off with the others in his Laird biplane, returned to New York to keep an engagement without going to Washington.

On the return flight Taylor flew his Wasp-powered Lockheed from Washington to the Newark Airport in seventy-five minutes, which, according to other pilots, is a record for the trip with a commercial cabin plane.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Four planes of the aerial caravan of five which left Curtiss Field this morning for the luncheon given by F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War for Aeronautics, in honor of Miss Ruth Nichols, left Bolling Field this afternoon on the return trip.

The luncheon today was preliminary to organization of an aviation country club here. Guests included Rear Admiral William A. Moffet, chief of the Naval Bureau of Aeronautics; Assistant Secretary for Aeronautics David P. Ingalls, Major Gen. John A. Lejeune, retiring commandant of the Marine Corps, and Major Gen. James E. Fechet, chief of the Army Air Corps.

Miss Nichols will make her 12,000-mile tour in a new Curtiss Fledgeling plane, which is to be delivered to her here. She will be accompanied by Robert C. Oertel, a mechanic of the Byrd Arctic expedition, who will travel in another Curtiss plane.

WALKER PROPOSES FARE COMPROMISE

ALSO CLAUSE ON DEFICIT

But Insists in Message to Albany That City Must Have Full Control Over Transit.

Mayor Walker and his transit advisers sent word yesterday to legislative leaders in Albany that they were willing to have dropped from the Untermyer transit control bill a specific reference to the five-cent fare and also the provisions allowing payment of operating deficits of a unified traction system by taxation. In return they demanded passage of the bill in such form as to give the Board of Estimate complete control of the city's transit problem, without time limit or "trial periods," including power to fix the fare rate and to determine the means of meeting deficits.

This compromise plan, taken to Albany last night by Chairman William G. Fullen of the Transit Commission and Leroy T. Harkness, counsel for the B. M. T., was to be the subject of a conference in which Senator John Knight, Speaker Joseph A. McGinnies, Transit Commissioner Charles C. Lockwood, Commissioner Fullen and Mr. Harkness were to participate. Mayor Walker sent word that Senator Knight's proposal to make the fare five cents for a trial period of five years, and "self-sustaining" thereafter, was entirely unacceptable to the city.

Walker Opposes Proposals.

The Mayor expressed similar disapproval of Speaker McGinnies's suggestion that the fare be fixed at five cents for a five-year period, with the proviso that at the end of that time the Legislature should decide upon any revision thought to be necessary.

The city's compromise offer was formulated yesterday morning at a conference in the Ritz-Carlton Hotel in which Mayor Walker, Transit Commissioners Fullen and Leon G. Godley, Mr. Harkness and Chairman John H. Delaney of the Board of Transportation participated. The conference was a continuation of a four-hour session held in the same place Monday night.

The compromise offer, the conferees conceded, meant merely a change in the bill's language, it being understood that the Board of Estimate would fix five cents as the rate of fare on a unified system. Omission of permissive power to make up deficits from taxation, it was explained, was not significant because the unification plan could embody that process even though it was omitted from the enabling act.

Increased Taxes Feared.

The Mayor's transit advisers said that up-State legislators had been fighting shy of the five-cent fare clauses in the Untermyer measure, as well as the provision permitting resort to taxes to meet deficits, because of the political power exercised by large real estate interests, who fear that they will be subjected to increasing tax rates should the Untermyer bill prove to be a precedent to be followed in other cities.

Through his emissaries Mayor Walker notified the legislative leaders that in no event would he compromise on the five-cent fare principle. It is known that Mr. Delaney has advised him that this fare will be self-sustaining for the proposed unified system. The Walker Administration is committed to the resort to taxation to meet possible deficits, holding that since at least two-thirds of the benefits from subway operation accrue to real estate owners they should be willing to help pay for them in the form of increased taxes. A fare increase, it was pointed out, would be a far greater burden on the average resident of New York than would be the comparatively small tax rate increase needed to meet operating deficits.

SON, 8, SAYS HE SAW FATHER KILL MOTHER

Russell Carr Jr., 8 years old, returned to his home at 1,190 Rogers Avenue, Brooklyn, for lunch from St. Jerome's Parochial School yesterday just in time to see his father, Russell G. Carr, 39 years old, shoot his mother, Mrs. Margaret Carr, 38, to death, according to the police.

When Thomas Duffy and four other detectives of the Snyder Avenue station arrived at the four-room apartment on the top floor of the tenement house they found Carr seated on a chair beside the dead body of his wife. He mumbled incoherent replies to their questions. Last night he was being held in the Snyder Avenue station in a hysterical condition. Police said he was suffering almost a complete mental breakdown.

Inspector Sullivan said that about three weeks ago Carr had tried to smother his wife and had declared to her that he wanted to die. He suggested a suicide pact, but Mrs. Carr dissuaded him, Sullivan said, and Carr went to live with his mother at 1,717 Forty-fourth Street, Brooklyn.

Sullivan explained that Carr often had quarreled with his wife during the five months they had lived at the Rogers Avenue address. Their son told police he had heard his parents arguing as he walked through the apartment to the kitchen, where his mother was preparing his lunch.

Sullivan said the Carrs had been married nine years. Carr had been employed, he said, for some time as a chauffeur by the Borden Milk Company in Brooklyn and had enjoyed a good reputation for industry and responsibility. Carr was committed to the observation ward in Kings County Hospital.

Jury Splits Over Auto Fatality.

A jury in Judge Nott's part of General Sessions was unable after two hours to agree on a verdict yesterday in the trial of Mrs. Annette Jenkins, 28 years old, former motion picture actress, of the Hotel Ogden, on a second-degree manslaughter indictment charging her automobile killed a man last Christmas morning. The jury was discharged, and Mrs. Jenkins's bail of $5,000 was continued. Assistant District Attorney McGauley said that he would call the case for trial again in a few weeks.

The Situation in Tammany As Will Rogers Views It

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It don't mean nothing to you all in the United States, but to us here in New York, picking a Tammany Hall leader comes under the heading of news.

Some of Tammany is claiming that Smith, when Governor, gave the jobs to Republicans. Smith claims that makes it 50-50, that Tammany gave their votes in November to a Republican.

Jimmy Walker don't care much who they put in just so it will be somebody that will help him stay in, and Governor Roosevelt is so busy up in Albany with a pack of Republicans on his hands in the Legislature that he has no time to get mixed up in this.

But the whole town is in an uproar. Nobody don't know who to hand anything to. Yours,

LUNDBORG ARRIVES; HE DEFENDS NOBILE

OVERRULED BY AVIATOR

Captain Einar Paul Lundborg of the Royal Swedish Flying Force, rescuer of General Umberto Nobile last Summer when the airship Italia met disaster in Northern wastes, arrived yesterday on the Swedish ship Drottningholm eager to absolve the Italian leader of responsibility in leaving his comrades on the ice of North East Land.

He was in no way eager to discuss the rescue or the subsequent condemnation of General Nobile several weeks ago by a special Italian committee appointed by Premier Mussolini, but when pressed with questions, declared that he, and not Nobile, was responsible and alone deserving of whatever blame might be laid on the incident.

Captain Lundborg, who will study American developments in aviation and methods of training pilots, was welcomed to the city as a hero and acclaimed by representatives of official and unofficial organizations of Sweden and Italy and by representatives of aeronautical bodies of this country. A large committee, including members of Mayor Walker's committee for welcoming distinguished guests, went down the bay on the city yacht Macom and greeted the Captain at Quarantine.

Tells of Flying to Nobile's Aid.

When he left on the flight over Arctic wastes, which was to result in the rescue of the injured Nobile, Captain Lundborg had explicit orders to bring back the most valuable man of the lost party, he declared yesterday.

Captain Lundborg told how Nobile refused to be taken from the ice pack ahead of five remaining members of the crew who had been in the gondola, which was wrenched from the Italia's framework when she struck.

Nobile presented a list of the men in the order in which he believed they should be rescued, Lundborg said, with the general listed last.

The Swedish flier had previously refused to comment on the Italian committee's report, which held Nobile guilty of misconduct, but the question was repeated and Captain Lundborg was asked if he though the decision against Nobile unfair in view of the facts as he related them. Matters of good taste were involved in discussing a decision rendered by a competent committee, he declared, but added:

"I can tell you that the criticisms which have been directed against Nobile for leaving should by all rights be directed against me, for it was I who urged and insisted on his accompanying me first."

Says Crew Praised Nobile.

Lundborg said he thought Nobile was a great airship man and that members of the Italia's crew with whom he had spoken had praised their leader highly for his courage and said that he was a man of great endurance and of thoughtfulness for the men under him.

In the waiting room at the pier at West Fifty-seventh Street, the flier stood with his wife while members of the committees spoke briefly, praising him for his deeds and welcoming him to this country. He responded briefly.

Captain Lundborg will be feted by organizations of his countrymen and by the city while here. According to schedules announced yesterday, he will be received at City Hall today, at a luncheon to be given by Fairchild Aviation Corporation at the Harvard Club, and will leave for Washington this afternoon. He will visit Philadelphia and return to New York next week for further events in his honor by Swedish and Italian Chambers of Commerce and the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce.

TWO MORE INDICTED ON HARVEY CHARGES

WARRANT OUT FOR LATTER

GRAND JURY HEARS HARVEY

Borough President Is Said to Have Disputed Testimony That He Tried to "Frame" Berg.

Two indictments were returned yesterday by a Supreme Court grand jury, which completed the investigation of the attempt to bribe George U. Harvey, Borough President of Queens.

One indictment, charging aiding and abetting bribery, named Angelo Paino, Brooklyn sewer contractor, who was arrested last Friday on a bench warrant and released on $10,000 bail in connection with the bribery charges. Mr. Paino had admitted in court ownership of a $10,000 bank note which he said he gave to Frank H. Berg Jr. of Far Rockaway, former private detective, as a campaign contribution for Mr. Harvey. Berg and Albert Levin of Kew Gardens, convicted last week of attempting to bribe Mr. Harvey on Nov. 11 with the $10,000 bank note, were sentenced on Monday by County Judge Frank F. Adel to terms of from four to eight years at hard labor in Sing Sing.

The other indictment, charging perjury, named a defense witness in the Berg and Levin trial. The indictments were handed up to Supreme Court Justice Mitchell May. District Attorney Richard S. Newcombe moved for the transfer of the proceedings to the County court and this was granted.

Seek Man Accused of Perjury.

Mr. Newcombe refused to make known the identity of the the one against whom the perjury indictment was returned. Immediately after the indictment was returned detectives from Mr. Newcombe's office left with a bench warrant for the arrest of the one named in the indictment.

Less than two hours after the indictment against Paino was returned he appeared at the court house, accompanied by his counsel, Robert S. Johnstone, former judge of General Sessions, and Stanley L. Richter of 42 Broadway. The sewer contractor was smiling as he walked up the stairs to the District Attorney's office. He was asked if he brought any of the $10,000 bank notes with him, and answered, "No."

Mr. Paino at various times in the court house had exhibited a $10,000 bank note. When he testified as a defense witness last Thursday he had with him $182,000, of which $82,000 was in $1,000 bank notes and the remainder in certified checks.

When arraigned before Judge Adel counsel for Paino waived the reading of the indictment and entered a plea of not guilty, and his bail of $10,000 was continued. Judge Adel gave ten days to the attorneys in which to make any motions they desired and set the date of trial for April 8.

Wants More Time.

Mr. Johnstone said he did not think he would be ready to try the case on that date. He told the court he had been retained only on Monday and said that he did not wish to delay the trial, but thought it would require considerable time to prepare the case.

Judge Adel said he would let the April 8 date stand, but if additional time were needed he felt it would be granted.

Paino sat in the front row in the court room, guarded by Detective Gene Fallon from the District Attorney's office. While the attorneys were in conference Mr. Paino made a brief statement.

"This don't bother me," he said. "My lawyer will take care of this. There isn't anything to this. My work building subways and sewers is more important to me than this. After tonight I will be up early in the morning and out with my gangs."

He was asked if he would have either Berg or Levin testify in his defense, and the reply was, "That is up to my lawyers."

Grand Jury Hears Harvey.

Only four witnesses were heard by the grand jury before it indicted the sewer contractor. They were Mr. Harvey, Irving Klein, Superintendent of Highways in Queens; H. Howard Heysen, vice president of the National Bank of Far Rockaway, and John Sullivan, court stenographer.

The witnesses who appeared before the grand jury in the perjury inquiry included Mr. Harvey, Fritz Brieger, Superintendent of Street Cleaning in Queens; Clarence Schnell of 90-41 176th Street, Jamaica, and John Sullivan, the court stenographer. Mr. Schnell, it was said, is a political associate of Mr. Harvey.

It was reported that Mr. Harvey's testimony in the perjury case contradicted statements by a witness for the defense in the Berg and Levin trial to the effect that Harvey had sought aid to "frame" Berg. The Borough President had said this witness visited his home in Flushing on Nov. 23 and that the conversation there was overheard by Mr. Brieger and Mr. Schnell.

It was said Mr. Brieger and Mr. Schnell corroborated Mr. Harvey's testimony as to the conversation.

MUSIC

By OLIN DOWNES.

Krauss Makes His Bow.

Clemens Krauss, who is doubtless the last European conductor to appear as "guest" with an orchestra this season in New York, made his initial bow to a local audience last night as conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra in Carnegie Hall. Mr. Krauss is 36 years of age, a very tall man and large in proportion, rather self-conscious and inept on the platform, not given to gesticulation, and at home, at least, in music ranging from Mozart to Strauss and Reger of the German school. Six years ago he became director of the Municipal Opera and the Museum concerts of Frankfort-am-Main, and he will be director of the Vienna State Opera next season.

The richly varied experience of orchestra leaders that only a few years of concert reviewing in New York supplies teaches the lesson that no more than one swallow makes a Summer does one successful concert make a conductor. It is only justice, however, to observe that Mr. Krauss's first New York concert was a success. The audience was obviously pleased with him. The opening of the concert was of the bold and musically spectacular kind, for Mr. Krauss did not start with a Bach suite or a Vivaldi concerto. He opened with Richard Strauss's "Also sprach Zarathustra." He then played the Mozart "Serenata notturna" for two little orchestras; Reger's "Ballet suite" and Wagner's "Meistersinger" overture.

The interpretation of the vast and fantastic tone-poem of Strauss was highly effective. Mr. Krauss, like Mr. Koussevitzky before him, was handicapped by the pitch of Carnegie Hall's organ, but this cannot be held against him, and he was tactful enough to snap off the organ as quickly as he could after the great fortissimo C major chord of the opening, which was a little quicker than Strauss ordained in his score. That the opening of the poem had the requisite breadth is not in itself an immense accomplishment for a conductor, since the opening of "Zarathustra" cannot very well help sounding stupendous. Strauss wrote it that way, and it made Philip Hale think in the early days of the gates of eternity slowly swinging asunder. But after this passage other than simple interpretative problems assail the conductor, and these Mr. Krauss met with marked poise and feeling.

He held together a wildly rhapsodical piece of music. His tempi were thoughtfully established. Only once, in a rather sudden acceleration in the music "of joys and passions," did he depart particularly from the presumable logic of the score, when it appeared as if the tempo of the preceding measures had been a little too deliberate. The fugue was taken as slowly as it should be, and the theme "of the great longing," mounting from the strings of the orchestra, as fast. Moreover, Mr. Krauss was well aware of the significance that the horn theme, entering some time after the announcement of the "dance song" by the solo violin, and marked in the score "etwas ruhiger," has for the whole work, and particularly for what follows.

This thematic fragment, derived from an earlier idea, is worthy in its shape and in its lofty spirit of Beethoven, a fact which is wholly perceptible if the theme is intoned with sufficient breadth. Mr. Krauss saw that this was done. Then came the subtle and complicated questions of the treatment of the many themes, borne along on the swinging rhythm of the "dance song," that Strauss flings from the orchestra with apparent recklessness, but with a contrapuntal ingenuity and a dramatic appositeness to his program, which necessitate clarity on the one hand, and a tempo that whirls everything before it on the other, to the moment when the great bell announces the "Song of the Night Wanderer." The passage demands, among other things, a great arch of line. With Mr. Krauss that line showed strong and clear, and for once, when he came to the passage that Strauss conceived for the song of the liberated Zarathustra, the trumpets screamed across the orchestra, as they should, and the orchestra itself achieved some measure of the corybantic frenzy that the composer intended in this place.

Mr. Krauss was also fortunate in the broad tempo, the serene mood of the last page—the apotheosized music "of the great longing," and the echo of the theme of Zarathustra's disdain, and the sustained harmonies of wood and strings that mount and grow fainter, like receding stars in the early morning sky, while the basses pluck darkly at the unsolvable riddle of eternity.

It is immense music, at its very poorest. At its best it is the music of a composer who heard for a moment the laughter of the stars, and whose kindling fantasy soared up to them. And the frame of the composition is worthy of the dimensions of the idea. Mr. Krauss's reading of the score had imagination, and grip of the form.

This was the feature of the concert. The trifle by Mozart was well though not exceptionally played, and the skill of the concertmeister was recognized. The suite by Reger is one of the more inept creations of that choice spirit, whose attempts at the lighter vein are remindful of the playfulness of a cow. The Reger of the Hiller Variations and of other works, too, was a great if not an outstanding composer. It seems that he wrote the suite heard last night in gratitude for a performance of the Hiller Variations by Josef Stransky, whose musical responsibilities are heavy.

The final performance of the "Meistersinger" overture in turn reacted favorably for Mr. Krauss. It was not by any means a routine performance of a work that the orchestra could play from memory. On the contrary, the overture was played with contagious enthusiasm. The music was warmly lyrical in essence and, for all its movement, properly expository. When the orchestra, at the moment of Wagner's veritable explosion of genius, enunciated four themes at the same time, Mr. Krauss contrived that all four, and not merely two, were heard. He did this without overelaboration. He brought the well-known overture to a stirring climax.

Mr. Krauss will be heard later as the conductor of the last two weeks of the New York Philharmonic-Symphony season, when his repertory and his qualities as a conductor can be more closely estimated than at present.

One feature of the concert which made it especially interesting and instructive was the change made from Mr. Stokowski's seating of the players to a plan corresponding more nearly to the conventional procedure. The 'cellos no longer confronted the audience at the conductor's right; first and second violins were in their accustomed places, and the tone-quality of the orchestra improved thereby.

LOS ANGELES, March 19 (AP).—Mabel Normand, former movie star, is suffering from advanced tuberculosis, Dr. E. C. Fishbaugh, physician attending her, said today. Both lungs are affected, he said.

"Miss Normand is very sick," Dr. Fishbaugh said. The physician explained that while death was not imminent unless hemorrhages occurred, the actress had very little chance of recovering.

Greta Garbo Returns From Sweden.

Greta Garbo, Swedish film star, returned from a vacation to her native land yesterday on the Swedish liner, Drottningholm. She laughed at reports that the royal family had been alarmed at rumors of an engagement between Prince Sigvard and Miss Garbo. "He is very young," she said. "There is nothing in that report. In Sweden one meets everyone, and I did meet the Prince, but it means nothing." Miss Garbo said she had not made any tests for talking pictures.

"When I was a child there was one breakfast I ate without coaxing—Heckers' Cream-Farina. I still love it."

Heckers' Cream-Farina is the pure energy part of wheat prepared for quick effortless digestion. It gives instantly a buoyant feeling of renewed health and vigor. Doctors prescribe it as baby's first solid food and yet there is no more delightful, sustaining breakfast for adults. Delicious in puddings, soups, gravies and desserts. It is the U. S. Department of Agriculture Standard Farina.

WHAT IS MODERN?

MODERN ART . . modern furniture . . color . . with so much talk of being modern—what is modern?

The modern woman is the woman who accomplishes a great deal she must do, yet has time for what she wants to do.

Where our grandmothers rubbed, scrubbed, carried endlessly, (back-breaking work now done by electricity for a few cents) women now have time for study, culture, amusement. Yet they have cleaner houses and better nourished families than in the days when women worked so hard without electric conveniences to save their time and strength.

DO WE NEED A NEW GOD?

A startling challenge to believers and its answer

Odin is obsolete—Baal is banished—now into the limbo of forgotten things Yahweh must follow!

No voice, this, crying in the wilderness. Rather, Dr. Harry Elmer Barnes, Professor of Sociology at Smith College, denouncing Christianity and its God before the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Enraging believers; outraging their sensibilities . . . his voice a wrath, his armor a Satanic fury . . . . now in the April FORUM Dr. Barnes repeats his denunciation.

Then David, in the form of Canon William Sheafe Chase, Episcopal minister, comes forth in the same FORUM to fight for the Lord of Hosts. Canon Chase answers Dr. Barnes point by point and expounds the twentieth century Christian's answer to the challenge of science. These are calls to arms—this denunciation and its answer. Thought and talk seethe round them.

Other features

Not much less stirring are "The Sex Bogey" by Havelock Ellis . . . "Our Changing Morals" by Will Durant . . . "Our Lockstep Culture" by Stuart Chase—also in the April FORUM. Then, not clarion at all, by way of contrast, are "Secret Island" by Samuel Scoville, Jr. . . . "The Island Off St. George," a story of the devil and his enchantment, by Roger Burlingame—and a Socratic dialogue on Art.

The new FORUM

A good piece of magazine-making, this new FORUM, and astonishingly beautiful. It has been accorded such a cordial reception that the publishers are able to give readers the benefit of the economies of operation. With the April issue the new price will be 25c a copy. By subscription $2.50 a year; $4 for two years.

MOVIES TO AID N. V. A. FUND.

Annual Benefit Performance Will Be Given Here on April 21.

Branches of the motion picture industry allied with vaudeville will cooperate this year in the annual campaign of the National Vaudeville Artists' Club to raise money for its sick and benevolent fund, it was announced yesterday. It is planned to conduct the N. V. A. drive during the week of April 14 in almost every vaudeville and motion picture house in this country and Canada. Instead of several simultaneous benefits in New York as heretofore, there will be only one performance this year, at the Metropolitan Opera House on Sunday evening, April 21.

Among the vaudeville and motion picture executives on the N. V. A. committee are Harry Warner and Spyros Skouras of Warner Brothers-First National theatres; Sam Katz and Milton Feld of Paramount-Publix; William Fox, Harold Franklin and Charles Levin of the William Fox circuit; Hiram S. Brown, Joseph Plunkett and Major L. E. Thompson of the Radio-Keith-Orpheum interests, and Nicholas Schenck, Charles C. Moskowitz and E. A. Schiller of the Loew-Metro organization.

Last year, according to announcement, the N. V. A. spent nearly $550,000 in charitable work among the ill and unfortunate among vaudeville performers and others in the theatrical business generally.

Ruth Draper in D'Annunzio Scene.

Ruth Draper, it is announced, will again depart from her custom at her recital at the Comedy Theatre next Sunday night by representing a scene which calls for another player besides herself. Miss Draper will offer a scene from D'Annunzio's "Francesca da Rimini," in which she has appeared on the last two Sunday nights, at the Sunday night performances, in aid of the Duse Fellowship Fund. Hugh Miller will play the other rôle. The scene will be offered only on the Sunday night program.

MUSIC NOTES.

Arturo Toscanini has acceded to requests for Rossini's "William Tell" overture and will conduct it as a closing number at the Philharmonic-Symphony concerts tomorrow and Friday in Carnegie Hall.

Ralph Leopold, the pianist, was a guest at New York University yesterday, when the public was invited to a lecture recital on "Tristan and Isolde" in the Gould Memorial Library.

Stella Bloch, J. Thurston Noe and Dr. Neil Van Aken assisted at Wanamaker's yesterday afternoon in a second program in honor of the 300th anniversary of Hudson's Half Moon in New York Bay.

HOLDERS HERE ASK TO DEAL WITH HIRST

SEEKS DIRECT CONFERENCE

Negotiation Through Representative in London and With "Financial Advisers" Rejected.

The committee of American stockholders in the General Electric Company, Ltd., of Great Britain, which succeeded in obtaining a postponement of a sale of the company's stock to British subjects, yesterday sent a cable message to Sir Hugo Hirst, chairman and managing director of the company, in which it complained of "seeming discrepancies" in his public statements on the situation. The company had planned to sell its stock without granting the usual rights to stockholders to subscribe first to the issue, but to offer the stock exclusively to the British public. This the Americans opposed on the grounds that it was contrary to international corporate procedure and evidently was aimed at the American stockholders.

Would Deal With Hirst.

In its message the American committee announced its desire to deal directly with Sir Hugo. It intimated that discussions with financial spokesmen of the company here had been unsatisfactory and said the stockholders would not designate a representative in London to keep in touch with the situation. It asked Sir Hugo to make it plain whether he desired or did not desire a conference with an American committee before that committee started for England.

The cable message read as follows:

"We are bewildered by seeming discrepancies in your cables. Are we to understand, as we do from your dispatch of March 16, wherein you suggest that we 'appoint duly authorized representatives for discussion,' that you desire a committee of American stockholders to enter into conference with you on what we regard as an injustice in the proposed treatment of stockholders or are we to learn from your dispatch of March 18 that you do not find such a conference necessary? Before sailing for London, Messrs. Chadbourne and Swope of the committee representing American stockholders and themselves stockholders await your invitation to discuss the situation directly with you and not, as you said in your cable of March 16, with your 'financial advisers.'

Direct Information Asked.

"Surely we are in agreement that heavy stockholders of corporations have the right to discuss company matters with the management who are their trustees. Permit us to point out that, although you announced in the press that American objections would be met, and the public of both countries applauded your action, we had no knowledge of your intention beyond an unofficial cable from a representative of the Guaranty Trust Company, who gave us an outline of an unsatisfactory plan which he called his own, but we have no knowledge as to whether the plan was authorized by you.

"We have received no direct word from you except on two occasions, the first on March 16 and the second on March 18, and neither of these was direct, both coming through the Guaranty Trust Company, to whom the messages were addressed. To sum up: First, you imply you do not wish to see a committee of American stockholders at this time but desire a committee to name some one in London who could be in touch with them; this our committee will not do, as no member of the committee is there and the committee has no representation in London other than its London counsel. Second, you invited discussion not with you but with your financial advisers. Third, you personally have not vouchsafed to us any indication of changes intended to be made in proposals passed by the extraordinary meeting of stockholders on March 13. We are more interested in a plan whereby equity for all stockholders may be secured than in your suggestion that no information be given to the press."

EXPORTS OF NEWSPRINT.

Canadian Shipments, $10,615,726 for February, Below January.

OTTAWA, March 19 (Canadian Press).—Newsprint paper exports for February were valued at $10,615,726. This was a decrease, as compared with $11,973,615 for January, and also as compared with $11,822,383 for February, 1928. The figures were published today by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

Wood pulp and screenings exported in February totaled $3,198,828, as compared with $3,645,154 for January, and $3,403,212 for February, 1928.

Pulpwood exports for the month under review were $1,062,155. This was near January's total of $649,837, but was lower than the figure of $1,532,654 for February, 1928.

FORD OF CANADA ISSUE UP.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, March 19.—Plans for a new issue in Canada of Ford of Canada stock on or about April 6, priced at about $30 a share and with provision for the purchase of two new shares for each old share held, were reported here today by W. R. Campbell, vice president and treasurer.

It was indicated in financial circles here that the recapitalization plan, on which the stockholders will act March 26, is aimed to make secure control of the Canadian company by Henry and Edsel Ford and the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, the three present largest holders.

SPRING IS ALMOST HERE.

Vernal Equinox Comes at 9:35 P. M., but Forecast is Colder.

Astronomically speaking, Spring is here. The vernal equinox comes at 9:35 tonight. A drop in temperature probably will begin even earlier, according to the weather man, who promises colder weather for tonight. Thursday, he says, will be generally fair with westerly and northwesterly winds. This equinox, it should be explained, does not produce equinoctial storms. The stormy season on the North Atlantic begins late in August and continues with increasing severity until March or April. But there is no special period during this time more likely than another to be stormy. And the equinoctial storm is merely a name given the heaviest storm that may occur within a few weeks of an equinox. At the vernal equinox the sun is passing from south to north, and in the Northern Hemisphere the days are lengthening. When the sun is in equinoxes the days and nights are of equal length all over the world.

BAR MUSICIANS' PARADE.

The police denied yesterday a permit for musicians who are out of work to parade today in protest against sound motion pictures. A number of musicians who contend the "talkies" have cost them their jobs had planned to parade from the offices of the Musical Mutual Protective Union at 210 East Eighty-sixth Street to the headquarters of Local 802 of the American Federation of Musicians at 250 West Fifty-seventh Stdeet.

At 10:30 A. M. today a meeting is to be held at the A. F. M. local to consider plans to protect the musicians and many of those who are out of work are expected to attend.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Irregular and Nervous as Call Money Tightens to 10 Per Cent.

Yesterday's trading on the Stock Exchange, in character and action, was akin to markets of most days of the past ten, that is, there were sharp gains here and there in particularly favored stocks, mainly due to professional attention, sharp losses in other directions as pressure developed and beneath it all an undercurrent of nervousness and apprehension over the tight money situation and its possible effects on the ability of the market to get sufficient funds to carry on at its present pace. Funds were in scant supply and brokers who needed money were obliged to pay an increasingly higher rate of interest as the day progressed. The renewal was at 8 per cent, then the rate lifted to 9 and finally to 10 per cent, the maximum figure since March 8. What increased the apprehension was not so much the high charge for new money but that such an extraordinarily high rate should develop on the calling of but $15,000,000 by the banks, a comparatively small sum as call funds now go. Offerings in the time market, too, were meager, and such funds as did come in were quickly snapped up at 8 per cent for ninety-day accommodations.

The differences of opinion which have developed between such recognized money authorities as W. P. G. Harding, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston; Benjamin M. Anderson Jr. and Edward C. Stokes as to what measures should be taken to alleviate the present conditions of financial stringency and unrest, only serve to emphasize the complexity of a situation which appears curiously out of hand. Under the ministration of so many doctors of various schools it can hardly be wondered that the patient does not make better progress toward recovery. It would hardly prove a surprise, in view of the markets of the past few days, should brokers' loans once more show a good-sized increase on Thursday, possibly offsetting the $22,000,000 decline recorded last week.

There is reason to believe that yesterday's gyrations in the call rate were echoes of last week's government financing and of income tax payments, but, nevertheless, the report of the Federal Reserve member banks in leading cities as of March 13 in comparison with the same time last year reflected a material disparity between the expansion of security and commercial loans. Loans on securities were $897,000,000 greater than a year ago, while advances made on strictly commercial borrowing were $128,000,000 higher. It may be remarked, however, that the two principal factors in the stock market are pulling directly against each other. On the one hand is the extended brokers' loan account and high money rates; on the other, admittedly good business conditions and rapidly expanding industry. The situation is doubtless one of the most complicated and involved which has developed in this country since the passage of the Federal Reserve act.

Yesterday's industrial news, including the announcement of a 32,000-barrel daily average reduction in oil production and of a further stiffening in export copper prices, was generally constructive, although there was not much evidence that these developments received any but sympathetic attention in the stock market. There is a disposition, at the moment, to rely entirely upon the money market as the motivating factor. Trading, however, is to such a very large extent professional that even the high rates do not deter the operator who is attempting to bring his stocks to public notice.

The higher rates for money here, a situation watched closely by foreigners, attracted fresh credits from abroad and had the logical effect of depressing sterling and some of the Continentals as these exchanges were sold against dollar purchases. However, the declines were not wide or important ones and sterling remains well above the gold export point. Current receipts of gold from Germany will not have material effect immediately, at least, on the money situation.

Thermoid Company Acquires Controlling Interest.

A controlling interest in Southern Asbestos Company, manufacturers of asbestos cloth and yarn, has been acquired by the Thermoid Company, manufacturers of brake linings for automobiles and industrial machinery, it was announced yesterday. Public financing is being arranged through a banking syndicate composed of Schluter & Co., Inc.; Eastman, Dillon & Co. and Oliver J. Anderson & Co.

The plant of the Southern Asbestos Company at Charlotte, N. C., has sufficient orders to keep in full operation for a year. Its total assets on Oct. 31, 1927, amounted to $1,816,-055. The Thermoid company was founded in 1897. In addition to its principal product, brake linings, it manufactures clutch rings, rubber belting and hose, asbestos packing and other products.

R. J. Stokes, president of the Thermoid company, said the acquisition of the Southern Asbestos Company would insure Thermoid of a steady supply of asbestos yarn and cloth.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Outwardly the stock market offered little variation yesterday from that of the day before. There were violent buying demonstrations in parts of the Stock Exchange list in spite of the fact that the call-money rate was advanced in two jumps from 8 to 10 per cent. Speculators for the rise were not greatly disturbed, however, and continued to press their favorites to higher levels. The market had its weak spots as usual, but they were mostly in the less active issues. Professional interests seemingly were in control and were able to manipulate stocks almost as they saw fit. The sharpest advances were in about a dozen stocks that included Baldwin Locomotive, Anaconda, American Metals, Advance Rumely, Crosley Radio, Fox Film A, National Cash Register, Lambert, St. Joseph Lead, National Lead, Patino Mines and Wright Aero. Radio was the leader of the declining group, other weak issues being Air Reduction, Columbia Gas, National Bellas Hess and Gotham Silk Hosiery.

The Market Puzzle Grows.

It was observed in several quarters yesterday that the market has worked itself into that situation where even the most experienced traders find it impossible to hold a position. "We are again having an in-and-out market," one broker remarked. "Our best traders are flopping from one side to the other several times during the day. This is really a sidelight on the market that speculators would do well to appreciate. It is the present kind of a mixed, uncertain market that we nearly always have before a big break." Other commentators reasoned, with possibly more logic, that the market, although irregular at times, had not departed for more than a few hours from its forward course in spite of all obstacles that had been put in its path.

Money at 10 Per Cent Again.

The advent of 10 per cent for call money yesterday for the first time since March 8 fitted in with withdrawal of funds from the market by banks to meet payments of income tax checks. The machinery of the office of the collector of internal revenue is not such as to permit the cashing of checks in a single day so that withdrawals by banks are spread out over several days. Banks have had to build up their reserves this week, yesterday's calling of loans amounting to approximately $15,000,000. The prospect is for firm money rates for the next few days, with no really cheap money expected, in view of the season for increased commercial borrowing.

Railroad Labor.

An angle of the railroad merger situation seldom discussed came in for comment in railroad circles yesterday. This was the labor angle, which was discussed at a recent meeting of the Association of Railway Labor Executives. The meeting came to the conclusion that the interests of labor must be considered in any merger scheme, and recently a railroad labor publication discussed the position of labor in the situation. In recent years the railroads, except for the Western trainmen's controversy, which was settled by intervention of a Presidential commission, has been quite harmonious. Railroad men believe that before merger plans can be consummated there will be every opportunity to solve the labor problems involved.

An Inactive Stock.

Now and then shares are listed on the Stock Exchange which seldom see the light of day after they once are safely listed. One of these appeared yesterday for the first time in more than two years. It was a transaction in Pettibone Mulliken common at $13 a share. It was the first sale of this stock since Feb. 28, 1927, when a sale was made at $28 a share.

February Earnings.

The Kansas City Southern led in the race to publish monthly earnings for February by publishing figures yesterday showing slightly lower gross and net receipts, but these results were not expected in railroad circles to indicate a general trend for the month. Traffic was generally higher in February and, except in the Northwest, where weather conditions were untoward, increases are expected to be the rule. In the East weather conditions were favorable.

The Municipal Bond Buyers.

At a time when the general investing public has turned its back on the bond market in favor of stocks, the municipal bond market, which at best interests a rather limited class of buyers, is enjoying an extremely narrow demand. A small group of insurance companies, cognizant of the comparatively high yields now available in these tax-exempt securities, provides the backbone of the buying power now noted in the market. The manager of every syndicate in the municipal bond field submits the issue to the insurance companies on behalf of the banking group, and purchases of high-grade bonds are made accordingly. In an effort to capitalize on the current high yields as long as possible, these institutions are seeking long-term bonds of each issue.

Greene Cananea in Spotlight.

Transactions of 25,000 shares are rare enough even in boiling markets to excite comment, so Greene Cananea came in for attention yesterday when that number of shares was reeled off in one trade and 10,000 shares in another. The 25,000 turnover was at 192 and the 10,000-share block changed hands at 192½. Greene Cananea happens to be one of the market sensations. It nearly always has back of it a daring and energetic pool and frequently puts on a show, sometimes on the upside and just as often in the other direction.

MONEY.

Tuesday, March 19, 1929.

Stock Exchange call money continued firm, the comparatively light supply at lending table, while demand was good all day, lifting rate from renewal at 8 per cent to 10, highest in ten days. Banks called about $15,000,000. In time money, 8 per cent was bid for everything from 30 days up, and a little loaned that way for ninety days. However, not much was on offer, but what came in was quickly loaned. Commercial paper and acceptances were quiet and firm.

Mr. W. W. McFarland, President of the Company, summarizes the information relative to the Company and its subsidiaries as follows:

Business: The Warner-Quinlan Company was incorporated in 1903 in Maine. The Company and its subsidiaries constitute a complete unit in the petroleum industry, including the production, transportation, refining and distributing of petroleum and petroleum products. The asphaltic products are marketed under the widely known trade-mark "Montezuma Brand." The gasoline and oils are marketed under the trade-mark "Mileage."

The Company has entered into an agreement to acquire 56.4% of the common stock of the Municipal Service Corporation. This corporation was organized in 1924 under the laws of the State of New York to consolidate subsidiary companies established from 1917 to 1924; and through these subsidiaries it does a wholesale and retail business in gasoline, lubricating oils, greases and kerosene.

Property: The Company's refinery at Warners, N. J., is complete and modern in every respect. Its location on New York Harbor permits of shipments by either rail or water. The plant has a daily crude oil capacity of 12,000 barrels and with the enlargements in progress will have a daily capacity of 18,000 barrels. The Company through subsidiaries owns or operates bulk filling stations at Long Island City, N. Y., New Rochelle, N. Y., Inwood, L. I., and Secaucus, N. J., for the distribution of gasoline and controls through ownership, part ownership or lease 131 gasoline service stations in and around New York. The Company through subsidiaries owns, leases or has concessions for over 32,000 acres of land in the oil districts in Texas and Mexico. The developed properties are producing about 6,600 barrels of oil daily. The Company owns 163 steel tank cars of about 10,000 gallons capacity each.

Purpose of Issue: The proceeds of the sale of these debentures and of 122,089 additional shares of common stock being offered to stockholders will provide funds to acquire the common stock interest of the Municipal Service Corporation, to refund the cost of extensive improvements to the refining and other marketing facilities of the Company and to increase its working capital.

Assets: The consolidated balance sheet as of December 31, 1928, adjusted to give effect to the financing described next above and to include at cost in Investments the stock interest to be acquired, shows net tangible assets, after deducting all liabilities other than these debentures, of over $3,500 for each $1,000 debenture. Of these net tangible assets $5,329,096 represents net current assets.

These debentures will be followed by 610,448 shares of common stock. Dividends of $2.00 per share per annum are now being paid on the 488,359 shares of such stock now outstanding which are selling on the New York Stock Exchange at a price which represents an equity of over $17,000,000 junior to these debentures. Applied to the shares to be presently outstanding, this price represents a junior equity of over $20,000,000.

Earnings: For the year 1928, admittedly a poor year for the oil industry, the earnings of the Company and its subsidiaries, combined with 56.4% of the earnings of Municipal Service Corporation, available for interest and Federal taxes, after deducting reserves for depreciation and depletion, were $2,288,098 or over 5.4 times the annual interest requirement of these debentures.

For the 5 years, 1924 to 1928 inclusive, such earnings for the Company and its subsidiaries averaged $1,-488,826 per annum, and for Municipal Service Corporation such earnings for the 3 years 1926 to 1928 inclusive, averaged $391,094 per annum, which combined as above are equal to $1,879,921, or over 4.4 times the annual interest requirement on these debentures.

Indenture: These debentures in the opinion of counsel will be direct obligations of the Company and will be issued under an Indenture which will provide that the Company will not issue any secured obligations without securing ratably therewith the debentures of this issue then outstanding, except mortgages created or assumed as part of the purchase price on property hereafter acquired, and replacements thereof, and secured obligations of not more than one year maturity.

Convertibility: The debentures will be convertible into common capital stock of the Company on the basis of 20 shares for each $1,000 debenture, which is equivalent to a price of $50 per share. The Indenture will contain provisions to protect this conversion privilege against dilution through the issuance of additional common stock.

We offer these debentures, when, as, and if issued and received by us, subject to approval of our counsel, Messrs. Chadbourne, Stanchfield and Levy, of New York City. Delivery may be made in the form of temporary debentures of the Company exchangeable for definitive debentures when prepared.

IRVING TRUST PLANS CAPITAL INCREASE

Directors Vote to Split Shares 10 for 1, Then to Sell $10,000,000 in New Stock.

The Irving Trust Company, which, with resources of approximately $900,000,000, ranks as the fourth largest financial institution in New York and the second largest trust company in the United States, took action yesterday to increase its capital funds to $180,000,000 through the sale of new stock, which will be preceded by a split-up of the present capital stock on a ten-for-one basis and a reduction of the par value from $100 a share to $10.

The strengthening of the Irving's position in the front ranks of the great Wall Street financial institutions is part of a banking expansion which culminated in two large mergers in the last three weeks and in numerous capital increases in the last few months. It is the second capital increase to be made by the Irving in less than a year.

The announcement issued yesterday by Lewis E. Pierson, chairman of the board of the trust company, said that a special meeting of the stockholders had been called to vote on a recommendation of the directors to change the par value of the company's shares from $100 to $10 and also to increase the capital of the company from $40,000,000 to $50,000,000 by the issuance and sale to stockholders of 1,000,000 new $10 par value shares. After the change in par value has been effected each stockholders will have the right to purchase, at $35 per share, one share of this new $10 par stock for every four shares of $10 par value stock to which he becomes entitled in the exchange of his old stock. When approved by the stockholders and payment made, the company's capital structure will consist of $50,000,000 of capital and approximately $80,000,000 of surplus and undivided profits, a total capital investment of $130,000,000.

It was calculated last night that the rights to subscribe to the new stock will have a total value of $32,000,000 to the present shareholders of the company, one of the largest distributions of its kind made in the series of banking capital readjustments in the last year. The stock of the Irving Trust Company was quoted at $740 bid, $760 asked, yesterday, an advance for the day of $56. That price placed a theoretical market value of $74 a share on the new $10 par stock to be issued as a result of the split-up, and on that basis the rights to subscribe to the additional new stock at $35 a share were figured to be worth $8 each on the 4,000,000 shares to be issued in exchange for the present stock.

In reducing the par value of the stock the Irving is following a trend that has become general among the larger banks of New York,

"While we now have more than 11,000 shareholders in the Irving Trust Company," said Mr. Pierson, "our directors believe that an even wider distribution is in every way desirable from the institutional standpoint."

The stockholders' meeting to ratify the directors' proposals will be held on April 10. Warrants representing rights to subscribe to the new stock will be sent to stockholders of record April 17. May 17 will be the last day on which payment will be accepted for the new stock, and rights will be void after that date.

The Irving Trust Company increased it capital from $32,000,000 to $40,000,000 in June, 1928, when stockholders received the right to subscribe to one new share for every four then held. The $32,000,000 figure for the capital had been reached in November, 1926, when the institution absorbed the American Exchange National Bank.

Executives of the Irving Trust Company took occasion yesterday to deny officially the rumors that a merger with the Manufacturers Trust Company was being negotiated. The rumors also were denied by officials of the Goldman Sachs Trading Corporation, which has working control of the Manufacturers Trust.

From a letter of Mr. V. C. Stanley, president of The Gamewell Company, copy of which letter will be sent upon request he has summarized as follows:

BUSINESS: Incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts in 1924, this Company succeeded to a business established in 1869, sixty years ago, and is the largest manufacturer in the world of fire alarm and police signal systems. "Gamewell" equipment has been installed in over 1500 cities and towns in the United States including the 30 largest cities. In addition "Gamewell" apparatus is in use by many railroad and industrial companies, the United States Government, and many cities in Europe, Canada, South America, South Africa, India, Philippine and Hawaiian Islands and the Canal Zone.

The Company is rounding out its line of products by acquiring all the outstanding stock (with the exception at this time of two shares) of The Holtzer-Cabot Electric Company of Boston, a well known manufacturer of fractional H. P. motors (used in increasing quantities in signal systems as well as in other industries) special gongs, annunciators, hospital call systems, and other products which are clearly allied to the signal business of The Gamewell Company. The Company also is acquiring the assets of the Harrington-Seaberg Corporation, of Moline, Ill., engaged in the manufacture and sale of street traffic signalling devices and a patented advertising sign flasher. These acquisitions should greatly strengthen the position of The Gamewell Company, and, it is believed, should result in materially larger earnings.

PLANTS: The plant of The Gamewell Company at Newton Upper Falls, Mass., is a complete, self-contained unit and manufactures practically every part used in its apparatus. Electric power is used with group and individual motors and a great part of the product is from automatic machines. The plant and equipment are in excellent physical condition.

The business of The Holtzer-Cabot Electric Company has been established for 54 years and the plant, located at Roxbury Crossing, Mass., is of modern construction, in excellent condition and well equipped, and there is ample room for expansion.

The plant of the Harrington-Seaberg Corporation at Moline, Illinois is new, having been finished in August, 1928, and the land owned will permit expansion to double capacity of present plant. The plant enjoys excellent transportation facilities.

EARNINGS: The combined net earnings, after depreciation and Federal Income Tax, for the last three fiscal years of The Gamewell Company (fiscal year ended May 31), The Holtzer-Cabot Electric Company (fiscal year ended July 31), and of Harrington-Seaberg Corporation (fiscal year ended December 31), have been certified by Messrs. Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co. as follows:—

Fiscal Years ended in	Combined Earnings

For the twelve months ended December 31, 1928, such combined net earnings, predicated on book inventories, as certified by Messrs. Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co. were $787,795.93, and on the same basis for the last six months of 1928 were $436,013.98, the latter being equivalent to $3.67 per share for said six months on the 118,928 shares of stock presently to be outstanding.

WORKING CAPITAL: The consolidated balance sheet as of December 31, 1928, adjusted to give effect to this financing and to transactions incident thereto, as certified by Messrs. Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co., shows current assets of $3,536,748.25 and current liabilities of $466,602.71, a ratio of 7.58 to 1, indicating that the Company is in a strong liquid position. Valuable patents and franchises are reflected in this balance sheet at a nominal valuation of $1.00.

DIVIDENDS: The business of The Gamewell Company has paid dividends uninterruptedly since 1882. Since incorporation in 1924 dividends on the common stock of The Gamewell Company have been paid each year at the rate of $5 per share per annum.

THE COMPANY HAS AGREED TO MAKE APPLICATION TO LIST THE COMMON STOCK ON THE NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

All legal matters pertaining to this issue of stock will be passed upon by Messrs. Warren, Garfield, Whiteside & Lamson and J. W. McAnarney, Esq. of Boston. Temporary certificates will be delivered entitling holders to participate in dividends which may be paid after March 16, 1929.

INCREASING MARKET for AUTOMATIC COUNTERS

Enormous, indeed, are the daily production figures of many individual plants in each of many industries. Yet, enormous tho the figures may be, they are also accurate—automatic counters, attached to plant equipment, make them so.

The fact that the need for automatic counters is growing with the increase of mass production methods is one reason for the recommendation of the capital stock of Veeder-Root, Incorporated, formed last year by the merger of The Veeder Manufacturing Company and The Root Company. The two merged companies have each had a satisfactory record of earnings in the past and have attained a high position in their fields during the many years they have operated.

Further information will be furnished upon application.

Business: Allen Manufacturing Company, Inc., incorporated under the laws of the State of Delaware, is acquiring the business, and all assets of Allen Manufacturing Company, a Tennessee Corporation which has been engaged in the manufacture of stoves and ranges in Nashville, Tennessee since 1892. The business has prospered throughout its history, and all of the operations and expansions were made out of the earnings of the Company. In 1906 the Company brought out the Allen Princess Range, with many new distinctive features, a number of which were patented. In 1920 the Allen Manufacturing Company pioneered the Parlor Furnace. This gained wide popularity because of its attractive design and finish and because it combined the "old time fireside cheer" with modern heating efficiency. The construction of this furnace is covered by patents.

Today the Allen Manufacturing Company is doing business in practically every state in the Union, in Canada and in Japan. The Company is the second largest manufacturer of quality parlor furnaces in the country, with over 4,500 dealer agents.

Current Assets: The balance Sheet of the Company as of December 31, 1928 after giving effect to the present financing shows Current Assets of $762,902.35 and Current Liabilities of $53,059.34 or a ratio of over 14 to 1. Cash alone amounted to $251,307.12 or 4.7 times Current Liabilities.

Earnings: Net Earnings, after depreciation and Federal Taxes for the past 3½ years as certified to by Messrs. Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co., have been as follows:

Six Months Ended 12-31-1928	140,226	3.50	1.58

The above earnings show an average of $223,982 for the past 3½ years, or at the rate of $5.62 per share on the Class "A" Stock which is equivalent of 2½ times the annual dividend requirement on the 40,000 shares Class "A" Convertible Preference Stock. Such average earnings have been at the rate of $2.25 per share on the Class "B" Stock. For the year 1928, earnings were over 3 times dividend requirements on Class "A" Convertible Preference Stock, and at the rate of over $3.00 per share on Class "B" Stock. Current earnings are running at a rate substantially in excess of last year.

Dividends: The Class "A" Convertible Preference Stock is preferred as to cumulative dividends at the rate of $2.25 per share per year, payable quarterly, on the first days of January, April, July and October. It is anticipated that a dividend of $1.00 per share per annum will be declared on the Class "B" Stock.

Management: The management and control of Allen Manufacturing Company, Inc., will continue in the hands of the men who have been responsible for the development and success of the Company. W. F. Allen, President, has been connected with the Company since its inception, over 30 years ago and has been active head of the business for the past eleven years. G. W. Noland, Secretary of the Company, has been active sales manager for the past seven years; Albert H. Wood, Treasurer, Neil H. Cargile, Engineer and C. A. Carl, Plant Superintendent, constitute the balance of the management and by virtue of their training and experience are well qualified for their respective positions.

URGES RATIFICATION OF U. S. STEEL PLAN

Taylor Sends Letter to Holders Asking Capital Readjustment Approval at April Meeting.

STOCK CHANGES OUTLINED

Authorized Preferred to Be Fixed at $400,000,000, Eliminating $150,000,000 Redeemed.

Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the finance committee of the United States Steel Corporation, believes that the capital readjustment recently approved by the directors "will be highly advantageous to all of the stockholders and conducive to the best interests of the corporation." His views are set forth in a letter which has been sent to stockholders urging ratification of the plan which will be submitted at the annual meeting of the corporation in Hoboken on April 15.

The company proposes to fix the authorized issue of preferred stock at $400,000,000 and thus to eliminate from the amount of the specified authorized issue the $150,000,000 par value of preferred stock which was redeemed through the conversion thereof into $150,000,000 of the ten-sixty year bonds of 1963. Of the $400,000,000 issue that will remain authorized, $360,281,100 is outstanding and there is left unissued a total of $39,718,900 which may be issued for future corporate purposes.

It is also intended to increase the authorized common share capital from $753,321,000, of which $711,623,500 is outstanding, to $1,250,000,000, consisting of 12,500,000 of $100 par shares. Part of the additional stock will be offered to stockholders on terms yet to be announced. It is generally believed that the stock will be offered at about $150 a share in the ratio of one additional share for every six already owned. The proceeds and such funds as may be required from the treasury will be used to retire all or part of the corporation's funded debt, which consisted at the end of last year of $124,830,000 of fifty-year 5 per cent bonds and $136,555,000 of ten-sixty year 5 per cent bonds.

The stockholders will also be asked to approve the employes' stock subscription plan and to authorize the trustee of the mortgages securing the bond issues to surrender to the corporation any stocks or securities held as collateral, upon the satisfaction and release of the bond indentures.

PLANS BANK INVESTING.

Formation of a new investing company to be known as the Bankers National Investing Corporation, which will be the first company of this character to deal in the securities of small loan companies, was announced yesterday by Clarence Hodson & Co. This company will not deal alone in small loan securities, but will confine itself largely to the financial field, buying and selling the securities of commercial banks, insurance and other finance companies.

The bankers declare that out-of-town commercial bank stocks are now an attractive investment from the standpoint of both present yield and enhancement in value, particularly when they are thoroughly diversified. Not being distributed to the general public direct, as are the larger metropolitan bank stocks, they represent through an investment company of this kind, the bankers state, a chance for the investor to participate in present earnings and dividends as well as enhancement in value.

PALESTINE BANK BOARD.

Stockholders of the Palestine Holding Corporation held their first corporate meeting yesterday to elect permanent directors. Jacob Siegel, acting president of the corporation formed to do a general commercial banking business in Palestine, reported that more than half of the stock has been sold, and a resolution was passed providing that sale of stock shall continue for only ninety days more. It is expected that the corporation will then start doing business.

Seventeen directors were elected as follows: Morris Eisenman, David Epstein, Isidore Fine, Louis Germain, Pincus Glickman, Jacob Goell, Mark L. Goell, Henry Gold, David Jacobs, Cyrus Leventhal, A. P. Lubell, Israel Matz, Israel Rokeach, Jacob Siegel, David Surdut, Louis Weinstock and Benjamin Winter. More will be elected later. The office of the corporation is at 41 East Forty-second Street.

Deny National City Merger Plan.

Reports that negotiations are being conducted looking toward a merger of the National City Bank and the Farmers' Loan & Trust Company, which gained some circulation in the financial district yesterday, were denied by officials of both institutions. It was stated definitely that no such negotiations were in progress. The strength of National City Bank shares yesterday, while reflecting the merger rumors, was in line with the general improvement of bank shares. National City shares closed at $412 bid and $417 asked, up $15 net for the day.

Expect Rise in Chicago Rediscount.

CHICAGO, March 19.—It was persistently reported in La Salle Street today that the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank again would take the lead in another upward revision of rediscount rates for the Federal Reserve System. The directors of the Chicago Reserve Bank will meet on Friday and are expected to advance this rediscount rate from 5 to 5½ or 6 per cent. It is no secret that an increase has been discussed at several recent meetings.

MARKETS IN LONDON, PARIS AND BERLIN

LONDON MONEY IS TIGHTER

LONDON, March 19.—Although sterling remained firm today at $4.85½, the markets showed irregularity. War loan was the only gilt-edged security which showed activity, rising 1-16 to £102 3-16.

The apathy of today's market was puzzling, especially as the Bank of England announced the purchase of £894,200 of bar gold—nearly the whole of the South African output. Home rails made a late rally, Great Western shares improving ¾ to £80¾.

Leyland Motors, which have been moving upward consistently, jumped again to 48s 3d. Other motor shares, however, were irregular. His Master's Voice shares rose ⅛ to £18 3-16 in the Gramophone group and Vocalion shares also advanced 3¼ on the proposed arrangement with the Electramonic Company. General Electric shares dropped 3 to 62s. Kolster-Brandes shares reacted to an 11-16 premium.

Telegraph shares improved generally with the exception of Radio Corporation, which dropped to 102½. Dunlop shares made a good showing, rising 4½ to 24s. Mexican Eagle shares led the oil list with an advance of 7½ to 14s. Among shipping shares, Royal Mail declined 1½ to 69s ½d. Declines also occurred in Imperial Chemicals, which reached 40s 3d, Kreuger & Toll shares, Anglo-Persian oils and Rio Tintos.

Money was tighter on Lombard Street, where short loans commanded a rate as high as 5½ per cent. The usual charge was 4¾ to 5 per cent. Old day-to-day money was renewed at 4½ to 4¾ per cent.

Berlin Quotations Advance.

BERLIN, March 19.—Confidence that the firmer tendency of the Boerse would last was shown today by extensive speculative purchases. The upward move was greatly assisted by the considerable number of purchasing orders from abroad which awaited the opening of the session.

The purchases included stocks which have been neglected for some time, including zinc shares, which gained 10 points, and Hohenlohe shares, in which Henry Ford is supposed to be interested. Mining shares, including Essener coal, Electro values, led by General Electric shares, dyestuffs, Salzdetfurth and Transradio shares were in demand.

The last named shares were 7 points higher following rumors that the American Radio Corporation had bought a large parcel of them.

HISTORY—BUSINESS

Mangel Stores Corporation is being organized under the laws of the State of Delaware to acquire all of the outstanding shares of stock of Mangel's, Inc., a New Jersey company, incorporated in 1916 as The New York Waist House. The company started in business with $70,000 capital and 5 retail stores, specializing in the field of ladies' apparel. Since that date, the stores in operation have grown as follows:

End of		End of		End of

At present 92 stores are in operation in 86 cities, including a new store on State Street, Chicago, the largest of the chain, opened in February and already doing business at the rate of approximately $1,000,000 per annum. Based on leases in hand and in prospect the indications are that the chain will be increased to about 110 stores in 1929. The merchandise consists chiefly of popular priced women's dresses, underwear and hosiery purchased by a central buying organization maintained in New York City.

The business is done solely for cash on a relatively small fixture investment per store and with a merchandise turnover usually as high as eight times per annum.

The growth of the business is illustrated by the fact that sales, which started at $213,000 in 1916, increased to over $8,500,000 in 1928.

The company has never failed in any year since its inception to show a satisfactory profit on sales. In the years 1924 to 1926 it changed its merchandising policy, concentrating on the introduction of dresses in place of waists, so that in 1926 its profits were smaller than in previous years. The change in merchandising methods has been amply justified by the earning record since that date.

EARNINGS

The sales and net profits of the company and subsidiary for the years 1926, 1927 and 1928, after deducting all charges, including depreciation and Federal taxes at current rates, and after being adjusted to include in each year an amount ($35,390.66) equal to 5% interest per annum less taxes on the proceeds which the corporation will receive as a result of this financing, as certified by Messrs. S. D. Leidesdorf & Co., were as follows:

	Sales	Net Profits
1928	8,543,488.14	467,104.23

The average earnings, as stated for the last three years, were over 2.7 times, and in the year ended 1928 over 4 times the annual dividend requirements on preferred stock presently to be outstanding.

In the fiscal year ended December 31, 1928, the earnings as stated were at the rate of over $2.82 per share on the 125,000 shares of common stock to be presently outstanding.

Sales up to March 1, 1929, were 47% ahead of the corresponding period of 1928.

ASSETS

The balance sheet as of December 31, 1928, after giving effect to the present financing, as certified by Messrs. S. D. Leidesdorf & Co., shows net tangible assets of $2,628,255 equal to over $150 for each share of preferred stock presently to be outstanding.

MANAGEMENT

The management of the business will remain in the hands of the men responsible for its growth and success, who will own a substantial majority of the common stock of the corporation. Wertheim & Co. will have representation on the board of directors.

Application will be made to list these stocks on the New York Curb Market.

Insurance Stocks

During the past year Insurance Stocks have had a material drop from the high prices reached last May, and during the past few months the market has continued to sag, but we believe now is the time to make a purchase in the present market.

Great activity has taken place in Bank and Trust Company stocks, and for a time has overshadowed the market in Insurance Stocks, but we believe an investor who is content to buy Insurance Stocks at present levels should realize a very handsome profit in the future.

Upon request we will be very glad to offer suggestions.

The addition to the bank's gold reserve since the low point of April, 1924, when it stood at 441,815,000 gold marks, amounts now to 2,205,059,000 gold marks, or $524,804,042. The gold holdings of Jan. 7 this year, 2,729,345,000, were the highest in the Reichsbank's history.

The largest outstanding note issue since the reform of the currency in 1924 was 4,930,020,000 marks, on Dec. 31, 1923. In gold values this was the largest since the war, although in terms of the old depreciated paper the circulation reached 496½ quintillions of marks, or 496½ billion billions, on Dec. 31, 1923.

The Reichsbank's rediscount rate remains at 6½ per cent, to which it was reduced from 7 per cent on Jan. 12.

But Pig Iron Output Slumped in February, Our Aide Reports.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—British industry in February experienced a rather marked slump in the production of pig iron while the production of steel increased as compared with the preceding month, the Department of Commerce was informed today by Commercial Attaché William L. Cooper, in London.

Both imports and exports fell off sharply during the month. Imports amounted to only 160,035 gross tons as compared to the January total of 244,267 tons, a drop of slightly over a third, and the smallest tonnage imported in any month since early in 1924. Exports dropped off 41,116 tons to a total of 380,075 tons.

Despite the fact that there were 140 blast furnaces in operation at the end of February, as against 139 in January, pig iron production decreased from the January total of 583,900 ton to 519,600 tons during February.

The production of steel, however, continued the improvement of recent months, increasing from 761,600 tons in January to 782,900 tons in February. The number of open hearth furnaces lighted also increased during the month, there being 312 in operation during February, as against 304 the previous month.

NO PERSIAN OIL CONCESSION

Secretary of Legation Says Reports Are Without Foundation.

Prince M. Firouz, secretary in charge of economic affairs at the Persian Legation in Washington, in a statement yesterday at the Hotel Plaza denied that oil concessions in North Persia had been given to any foreign country.

"There have been reports circulated," he said, "that the Standard Oil and the Anglo-Persian Oil Company have in their possession oil concessions in the north of Persia. I would like to point out that the North Persia oil concessions have yet not been definitely given to any foreign company and such reports are devoid of foundation.

"The Persian Government has laid as a definite part of its policy the encouragement of American capital to help develop Persia's vast natural resources, and there is no doubt that there is a big opportunity for American capital to enter the country, which will result in mutual advantage to both Persia and the United States.

"American export commodities to Persia, which are chiefly automobiles, are on the free list, and the tariff facilities granted by the Persian Government to American exports is in itself proof of the sincerity of the Persian Government and its ardent desire to promote economic relations between the two countries. I would like to point out that any readjustment in the tariff will be watched with close interest and the Persian Government feels confident that any revision will be based on facts rather than on sentiment, in which case it is to be hoped nothing will be done that is detrimental to the commercial relations of the two countries."

BIDS FOR SHANGHAI PLANT.

American Company Offers $50,000,000 for Electric Concern.

SHANGHAI, March 19 (AP).—Authorities of the international settlement who are considering sale of the settlement electric light and power plant have opened bids for it.

The American and Foreign Power Company bid about $50,000,000 in gold, the British Trusts Associated, Ltd., $36,000,000 and other British companies smaller sums.

The authorities will consider the bids in April.

At the offices of the American and Foreign Power Company here last night it was stated that although the international banking group with which it is associated had made the higher bid, the fact that the Association of British Trusts had offered "local control and other alleged advantages" had caused the latter to declare that their bid was the more attractive.

This marks the first publicly announced move of the American and Foreign Power Company to secure a public utility property in the Far East, or, for that matter, outside of the two American continents.

BRITISH CAPITAL CUT RULING

Judge Approves $47,500,000 Armstrong-Whitworth Reduction.

LONDON, March 19 (AP).—Mr. Justice Romer approved today a scheme for the financial reconstruction of the great Armstrong - Whitworth steel, coal and iron concern, by which the total capital will be written down from $55,000,000 to $7,500,000.

The judge remarked that the company's assets had been permanently depreciated by $70,000,000 and that the Bank of England, realizing the national importance of the company, had patriotically abandoned its position as a secured creditor and taken a position as an ordinary shareholder.

The Rise of Investment Trusts

IN 1925 there were approximately 23 investment trusts in the United States — Today there are over 150 with a total capitalization of over one and one-half billion dollars. To the forward-looking investor this is a phenomenon that bears careful investigation.

We have prepared a Special Letter giving a concise history of the rise, development, present status and future prospects of Investment Trusts.

Chain Store Stocks

During the past fifteen years, publicly held stocks of most of the leading well-managed chain store systems have shown an average market value appreciation, over five to fifteen year periods, ranging from 100% to 600% per year.

Stocks of chain grocery store systems have, almost without exception, proven among the most profitable of all chain store securities, due in a large measure to the facility with which such organizations expand through increases in store units and sales volume.

Chain grocery store stocks usually sell at prices on which dividend yields are very low. Most of them sell at prices ranging from 20 to 35 times annual earnings per share. It is worthy of note that original investors in the stocks of chain store systems, when such stocks are first offered to the public after a long period of strictly private ownership and development, have received the greatest benefit.

In the immediate future, a banking group headed by ourselves will offer the common stock of an old established growing and progressive chain grocery system enjoying an excellent reputation in the communities served, which is reflected in an average sales volume per store substantially above the average for chain grocery systems generally.

We believe this system will register very considerable growth during the next few years and that the investor purchasing stock of the system for permanent investment will secure the benefit of ultimate market value appreciation commensurate with that which has been registered by many other well managed grocery chains.

I. T. & T. TO PURSUE EXPANSION PLANS

EXPECTS NO CHANGE IN LAW

But Will Watch Any Efforts to Get White Act Modified—Interest in New Buffalo Company.

The International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation, which competes with both the Western Union Telegraph Company and the Radio Corporation of America in the foreign and domestic communications business, does not at present expect to alter its front with reference to either of its competitors, it was stated authoritatively yesterday, but will pursue actively its previously announced plans to expand its domestic land-line business and to create an international and domestic wireless system as well.

According to well informed persons, the International organization does not expect any change to be made in American legislation with respect to cable and radio companies for several years, and until such time its officials consider it futile to predicate its expansion on a hypothetical development. Any action taken by others with a view to obtaining a modification of the White act, however, will be closely observed by the International organization.

Subsidiaries Expand Activities.

Because of the triple nature of its activities in communications, not to mention its telephone businesses in numerous foreign countries, International is a natural competitor of both of the other great American companies. Its subsidiary, the Postal Telegraph and Cable Corporation, is rapidly expanding its activities in the United States in rivalry with the Western Union. Two other subsidiaries, the Mackay Radio and Telegraph Companies of New York and San Francisco, are building two separate chains of international radio stations, in a Latin America and the Pacific.

As regards the much-discussed pick-up and delivery services of the Radio Corporation in the United States, Postal Telegraph holds much the same position as does Western Union as regards contracts with the Radio Corporation. Because the latter is a competitive organization, the telegraph-cable companies naturally feel that to handle Radio's inland service penalizes their own business to some extent, and that the conditions they make must take this fact into account.

The fact that the Radio Corporation plans to serve thirty-one American cities only at the start is not considered so important by the telegraph companies as the fact that by making its entry only at the largest business centres, Radio will be able to skim a good part of the cream of the telegraph business, which explains somewhat the expressed differences between two of the companies. It is therefore natural that the competition which will follow upon Radio's entry into the domestic field will be of the keenest nature.

Early Action by Commission Unlikely.

The Mackay companies as well as the Radio Corporation are dependent on the Federal Radio Commission for the wave lengths they require for domestic point-to-point communications. Even when the commission is brought back to full strength, however, it is not expected to act for some time, or until the Presidential position with respect to communications has been sounded.

In the meanwhile all the communications companies are interested in knowing when the Universal Wireless Communications Company of Buffalo plans to begin operations. The Federal Radio Commission late last year granted wave lengths to this company, to be used in establishing domestic wireless communications among 110 cities, conditioned on the inauguration and maintenance of regular operations between a number of cities by the close of 1929.

CHANGES IN CORPORATIONS.

James L. Kilpatrick, operating vice president of the New York Telephone Company, was elected yesterday a director of the company at the annual meeting of stockholders, held in the company's building at 140 West Street. All retiring directors were re-elected. The directors later re-elected James S. McCulloth, president, and all other officers of the company.

W. J. Webster, chairman, and William de Krafft retired yesterday as directors of the Atlas Powder Company. They were succeeded by C. F. Backus of Laird, Bissel & Meads and E. W. Moorhouse, general manager of the Zapon Company.

To Stockholders of Close Corporations:

How will the heirs of each stockholder be compensated to the full extent of his holdings?

How will the other stockholders be enabled to purchase the interest of the deceased without taking "money out of pocket"? How do they know they will have the funds at that time to buy the interest of the deceased?

How can they be assured that there will be no introduction of unknown, outside interests which may disrupt the smooth working of the affairs of the corporation?

AN immediate and definite assurance that these problems will never impair the profits of your business or cause great inconvenience or loss to your heirs is probably worth much to you. The Equitable, realizing this, has prepared a plan which will give you this assurance.

MOST OPTIONS RISE IN COTTON MARKET

Selling Pressure Reduced and Gains Range Up to 9 Points—December Declines.

REPORT ON GINNING TODAY

Following the decline of more than $3 a bale from high levels of the month, the cotton market was subjected to less general selling pressure yesterday, and after irregular price changes over a range of $1 a bale, quotations on the Cotton Exchange ended nine points higher to one point lower than on Monday.

A combination of more favorable weather in the south and uncertainty over today's final report of the Census Bureau on the actual amount of cotton ginned from the crop of 1928 tended to restrict operations during the greater part of the day. Steady covering of March obligations advanced the spot month to 21 cents at one time and increased the premium over May to 6 or 8 points, which was the widest spread so far. After a recovery of nearly 20 points for near deliveries, trading became more active the last hour and liquidation toward the close of the market brought the lowest quotations of the day in the final dealings.

Owing to the increased ginning shown in the last report, larger figures are expected for the final period as well, which will be added to the 13,891,000 bales ginned to the middle of January.

WHEAT PRICES DROP IN SLOW MARKET

OPEN INTEREST A RECORD

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 19.—There was nothing in the general run of the news today to induce enthusiastic buying of wheat and while there was buying by local traders and commission houses early which made a moderate advance, the finish was at the bottom, with net losses of ⅞ to 1⅛ cents. Early buyers found support lacking when they tried to sell. Some stop loss orders were caught on the way down, with the break checked by buying against bids. Winnipeg lost ½ to ¾ cent. Liverpool was ¼d higher to ¼d lower.

There has been a material contraction in the outside trade of late, and many of the local element have been working on the buying side. It has been hard to trace what has become of all the grain sold of late, and despite scattered liquidation, which has developed on the breaks, the open interest at the close on Monday was 148,976,000 bushels, the largest on record.

Crop reports from the Southwest were mixed, with the Kansas weekly summary confirming some damage in Western counties by high winds, but there has been little Winter killing in the leading producing sections. Conditions in the Southwestern counties were reported as above an average for this season by a local observer. Purchases of 25,000 bushels of wheat were made to come here from Omaha during the day.

Primary receipts today, 1,093,000 bushels; week ago, 1,146,000 bushels; last year, 653,000 bushels. Shipments, 939,000 bushels; week ago, 623,000 bushels; last year, 433,000 bushels.

Corn broke sharply toward the last after a minor upturn early, and closed ¾ to 1⅛ cents lower with March showing the most strength in the face of purchases of 90,000 bushels to come here from Missouri River terminals by a leading industry.

The spot basis was steady to ¾ cent higher. Bulk of trade in futures is of a local character, and the market is easily influenced at times.

Primary arrivals today, 708,000 bushels; week ago, 700,000 bushels; last year, 957,000 bushels; shipments, 495,000 bushels; week ago, 473,000 bushels; last year, 775,000 bushels.

Oats closed unchanged to ⅜ cent lower with March showing the most strength. Shipping sales were 83,000 bushels. Rye was dull and ¼ cent higher to ⅜ cent lower, the former on March.

Prices for the principal grains were as follows:

COPPER AND LEAD STRONG IN MARKETS

FUTURES DROP IN LONDON

Decline £3 a Long Ton—Lead Is in Good Demand and Still Higher Prices Are Expected.

Pronounced strength in copper and lead again featured the non-ferrous metal markets yesterday, with the advance of 1 cent a pound in copper sustained and the position consolidated, while lead advanced 25 points to 7½ cents a pound, New York basis.

After the uncertainty caused by withdrawal of producers of copper from the local market Monday, the quotation yesterday morning was fixed at 22 cents, delivered Connecticut Valley points, and 22¼ cents, c. i. f. usual European destinations.

Domestic purchasers bought all copper at the new price that producers would offer, but the inquiry was less eager than in previous sessions. Foreign consumers quickly took up the 4,500,000 pounds of copper allotted through Copper Exporters, Inc.

A more cautious attitude on the part of consumers both here and abroad was apparent. In London, copper futures dropped £3 a long ton, canceling almost half of the £7 advance of the previous day. In the domestic trade, however, the opinion was prevalent that copper would advance further. Interest now centres on the price at which copper will sell for August delivery, when producers open their books for that month.

The advance in copper was reflected yesterday in an increase in brass and copper products by the American Brass Company, manufacturing subsidiary of the Anaconda Copper Mining Company. Brass products were raised ¾ cent a pound, while copper products, except copper wire, were raised 1 cent a pound.

Lead also was in good demand yesterday at the new price, as established by the American Smelting and Refining Company, with only moderate tonnages available. Most of the independent producers were unwilling to sell at the new level in expectation of still higher prices. An advance in the London quotation caused a corresponding jump here. Uncertainty regarding shipments from Northern Mexico is one of the main factors in the present advance.

STEEL OUTPUT STILL RISES.

Ingot Production Now 94½% of Capacity for Entire Industry.

Although steel ingot production is close to practical capacity, there has been another moderate increase during the past week. The United States Steel Corporation is producing at slightly more than 97 per cent, compared with a shade below that figure in the preceding week and a fraction below 96 per cent two weeks ago. Independent steel companies increased their operations to about 92½ per cent, against 92 per cent a week ago and 91 per cent two weeks ago. For the entire industry the average is placed at 94½ per cent, against 94 per cent in the previous week and 96 per cent two weeks ago.

At this time last year the Steel Corporation was running at 88½ per cent, independents at 78 per cent, and the average was 84 per cent. The current rates, therefore, are up 8½ per cent for the Steel Corporation, 14½ per cent for independents and 10½ per cent for the entire industry as compared with a year ago.

ACT ON LOFT ROW TODAY.

Insurgent Stockholders Will Seek to Oust Present Officers.

Insurgent stockholders in Loft, Inc., candy manufacturer and chain store operator, will seek to depose the present officers of the corporation at the annual stockholders' meeting in Long Island City today, according to an announcement made by them last night. Jerome Simmons, attorney for the insurgents, said that a group of stockholders represented by him had obtained sufficient proxies to "make a complete shift of control."

The insurgent group proposes to name an entirely new board of directors, he said. The present management is composed almost entirely of New York men, headed by George L. Loft, son of the corporation founder, while the group opposing it is said to be under the leadership of interests in Chicago.

Dandango Corporation to Expand.

The Dandango Corporation is planning to take over the car-trimming operations of several automobile manufacturers, H. S. Sallop, president, advised stockholders yesterday. It recently announced the formation of a separate company to manufacture a new type of removable automobile upholstery. Stockholders, according to Mr. Sallop, will shortly receive rights to purchase stock in the new company.

Machine Makers Active.

Business in machine tools and machinery has been so active this year that the industry may be said to be enjoying a boom period, according to American Machinist. Productive activity continues on a high plane and inquiry for equipment is sufficient in volume to bring the sales total for the first quarter to a point well in excess of the same period last year.

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday—5% per cent for the best names. Monday—5% per cent for the best names. The quotations are for six months' paper.

Buyers Here Show Gain.

A gain in the number of buyers registered in the market during the week ended yesterday was shown in comparison with the figures of the preceding week and those of a year ago. For the week just ended 955 buyers were reported, which compares with 878 in the preceding week and 843 in the corresponding week a year ago, according to the lists published in THE TIMES. Yesterday's arrivals were 420, an increase over last Tuesday, when 371 were reported.

Advance Ticking Prices.

McCampbell & Co. yesterday announced an increase of one-half cent per yard on a number of Sibley tickings. J. L. Baily & Co. had made no changes in their prices last night, while at the offices of Wellington, Sears & Co. it was said price advances had been contemplated but had not yet been put into effect. The new Sibley prices are guaranteed against decline and are understood to cover goods for delivery in the next ninety days. The thirty-two-inch eight-ounce ticking is now 22 cents instead of 21½ cents per yard on all patterns except styles 5, 7 and 9.

Design Bureau Expands Scope.

Original designs intended for use on rayon and cotton fabrics are now being registered by the design registration bureau of the Silk Association of America, it was announced yesterday. Extension of the scope of the bureau's work follows the request of cotton and rayon manufacturers, who for some time have felt the need of design registration in their particular industries. Procedure for registering cotton and rayon designs is similar to that followed for silks. An original drawing must be submitted and the designs are registerable for a period of one year.

Muslin Prices Are Raised.

An advance of one-half cent per yard on Fruit of the Loom muslin, bringing the price to 18½ cents, was announced yesterday by Converse & Co. The advance, which took effect at once, covers deliveries to the end of June, it was stated. Other advances on bleached goods ranging from one-eighth to one-half cent have been announced in the trade by other companies during the last few weeks.

Feature New Jewelry Ensemble.

A new development in novelty jewelry, said to be meeting with marked favor, is the ensemble tie-up of shoe buckles and necklaces. The buckles feature designs of contemporary art and are matched in color and pattern with the necklaces. The items are available in the popular sun tan bronze and also in silver or gold finishes. Shoe buckles this season have been meeting a much stronger vogue, a factor in this being the departure from the traditional designs of this merchandise. The buckles wholesale from $3 up and the necklaces from $4.75.

Aim to Curb Dishonest Bulk Sales.

A resolution aimed at curbing losses to creditors arising through bulk sales by dishonest debtors was passed yesterday by the board of governors of the American Clothing and Furnishings Credit Bureau. The resolution declares "that all bulk sales notices received by members of the bureau be immediately referred to the board and that such bulk sales notices be acted upon as quickly as possible by referring to a corresponding attorney for investigation. "If necessary, a petition in bankruptcy will be filed before the confirmation of the bulk sale," the resolution added.

Need New Term for Modern Art.

The term "modernistic art" is falling into marked disfavor with a number of both manufacturers and retailers, it was pointed out here yesterday. The reason for the antipathy is that the words have been used to designate any or all designs which are out of the ordinary and which usually are of the very freakish type. The suggestion was made that the time is ripe for the coining of a new term which is more fully descriptive of the new trend in art and which will at the same time not frighten consumers with its freakish connotation.

Low-Priced Ingrains Not Feared.

Belief that manufacturers of "dip-dyed" hosiery will suffer most from the production of ingrained stockings manufactured to retail at $1.95 was expressed yesterday by the makers of the ingrained product which sell at $3.95 and $4. According to the view taken by these manufacturers, the innovation will enjoy a consumer preference over the "dip-dyed" variety and may act as a trade help in creating a demand for the higher price ranges.

Children's Underwear Novelty.

Two mills manufacturing children's underwear have started the production of knitted cloth underwear with printed designs of nursery rhyme characters, it was learned in the trade yesterday. Although the plan has been under discussion for some time, it is understood the two companies now producing the garments are the first in the field. They will be followed shortly, however, by other firms. Because of the complicated process necessary in manufacturing the products the designs are expected to be restricted, with one or two patterns allotted each manufacturer.

Gray Goods Continue Quiet.

Conditions in the gray goods market showed little change yesterday and the inactive tone of the last few days continued. Attempt to trade at prices at an eighth or sixteenth of a cent under the market, however, still met with refusals on the part of holders. Prices of 6½ cents for 38½-inch 60-48s and 7¾ cents for 38½-inch 64-60s were asked and there was some light trading at these figures. There were also some sales made at 8¾ cents for 37-inch 68-72s. Sheetings continued featureless.

SERVEL, INC., BUYS PLANT.

That of Bockstege Furniture Will Be Used for Auto Body Business.

Servel, Inc., has bought the plant of the Bockstege Furniture Company to provide for expansion of its automobile body business, known as Hercules Better Business Bodies, it was announced yesterday by Colonel Frank E. Smith, president of the company. This will constitute an entirely new plant for the body business of the company. The company has also purchased land at Windsor, Ont., where it is building a plant for the Canadian and export trade.

The Hercules Body business, conducted as a subsidiary of Servel Inc., showed an increase of 50 per cent in 1928 over 1927, and orders booked for the first quarter of 1929 are 75 per cent in excess of those booked for the same quarter of 1928.

THE CUSTOMS COURT.

The practice of sorting camel's hair into three grades before shipment from China makes all importations of such wool liable to double duty under Paragraph 18 of the emergency tariff act of 1921, the United States Customs Court ruled yesterday in a decision which denied the protest brought by A. H. Ringk & Co., of New York.

A claim for duty at 15 cents per pound as unwashed wool provided for in the first part of Paragraph 18 was made in the protest.

In denying the petition, however, the court explained that the division of the wool into grades placed it in the category of "sorted wool." If the wool had been shipped to the United States in its original matted form it would have escaped the higher rate, the decision states, and adds that "the fact that no one ships it that way cannot change the rule of construction as we see it."

REDUCES FALL DRESS GOODS

Price reductions of from 7 to 22½ cents a yard on repeated fabrics featured the opening yesterday of women's wear woolens for Fall by the American Woolen Company. Particular stress is placed in the lines on plain and novelty broadcloths, suedes, velours, meltons, chinchillas, boucles, poiaires and camel's hair fabrics, as well as an extensive range of fancies. The staples comprise about the same number of fabrics as a year ago and are available in forty colors. Dress woolens came in for considerable attention, the expectation being that the dress trade will play up these cloths in Fall models.

The new prices and numbers of outstanding repeated fabrics are as follows: A0528, $2.62½; A09701, $2.65; HH24017, $1.80; II3266, $1.90, and S11186, $1.45. The well-known "duy-bloom" suede is priced at $3.27½, against $3.50 last year. The all-wool broadcloths are twenty in number and range from $1.75 to $2.22½. They are sold spot-proofed and sponged.

With the announcement yesterday that the Standard Oil Company of California had increased the tank wagon price of gasoline 6 cents a gallon at San Francisco and Los Angeles, it was believed in Wall Street that a general advance by marketers on the Pacific Coast was imminent and that the price-cutting contest in that section was about to end.

The price reductions, which have been somewhat demoralizing to the oil business in California in the last few weeks, resulted from the efforts of a number of companies to enlarge their distribution through dealers by means of allowances or discounts below the posted tank wagon prices. Consumers have been able to buy gasoline at retail in certain areas at as low as 11 cents a gallon, including the tax of 3 cents a gallon.

TUG OWNER LOSES VERDICT.

High Court Reverses $30,000 Award to New York Marine Co. Over Crash.

Litigation arising from the collision of a tug and a sunken dump scow in the harbor three and one-half years ago ended yesterday when the United States Circuit Court of Appeals handed down a decision for John G. Mulligan and Merritt-Chapman & Scott, who were sued by the New York Marine Company. This reversed an earlier decision of the United States District Court, which held Merritt-Chapman & Scott liable to the extent of $30,000.

One tug of the New York Marine Company was sunk and two others were damaged Sept. 26, 1925, when they struck a scow owned by Mr. Mulligan, which had been sunk in Buttermilk Channel. Merritt-Chapman & Scott had been engaged to raise the scow, but it moved before operations started.

Report Vauclain Plans to Retire.

Reports that Samuel Vauclain is planning to retire as president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works were circulated in Wall Street yesterday, but could not be confirmed. His retirement, according to the reports, will be announced shortly. In the same quarters it was reported on Monday and later unofficially confirmed that Baldwin soon will readjust its capital structure in such a way as to split the present common stock on a basis of possibly four or five new shares for every old share outstanding.

In return, Crucible has received an interest in Krupp Nirosta and licenses to manufacture under all its patents. Other licensees of Krupp Nirosta automatically receive rights to fabricate under the Johnson patents.

PLANS AIR MAIL ROUTE, BERLIN TO CHERBOURG

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Plans for establishing a German air mail service between Berlin and Cherbourg in connection with the new North German Lloyd liners Europa and Bremen, which will be put on the New York-Cherbourg-Southampton-Bremen run in July and August, were disclosed today by the Department of Commerce.

The new service, according to the steamship company, would cut the time of delivery of mail between New York and German cities to six days, as compared with nine to eleven days as at present. According to a report from Consul Samuel H. Wiley at Cherbourg, the North German Lloyd has laid the project before the Cherbourg Chamber of Commerce.

Plans include an air mail service between Cherbourg, Cologne and Berlin in connection with the arrival and departure of the two new German liners at Cherbourg. The company has asked permission to use the landing field at Querqueville, two and a half miles from Cherbourg, now under control of the French Navy.

Ernest R. White, Superintendent of Foreign Mails, Post Office Department, explained that the German mails to New York via Cherbourg are extremely heavy, the German service providing an intermediary for mails from the Baltic countries and Central Europe.

BIGGEST FERRYBOAT IS LAUNCHED BY CITY

MRS. BERRY IS SPONSOR

Goldman, Speaking at Exercises, Says a Larger Vessel to Cost $1,000,000 Will Be Started.

City officials and delegations from every civic group on Staten Island were present yesterday afternoon when the Dongan Hills, newest and largest of the fleet of municipal ferryboats, was launched at the yards of the United Drydocks, Inc., at Mariners Harbor, S. I. About 2,500 persons were present, 1,000 of whom made the trip from Manhattan on the reception boat Macom and the ferryboat American Legion.

A temporary stand, draped with bunting, had been erected near the bow of the boat. Commissioner Albert Goldman of the Department of Plant and Structures, representing Mayor Walker, was the principal speaker. He said the growth of traffic between Manhattan and Staten Island since the erection of the two bridges between New Jersey and Staten Island, required the transfer of ferryboats from other lines to the Manhattan-Staten Island service on week-ends and made necessary the expansion of the municipal fleet. The Dongan Hills will be on this route.

Commissioner Goldman also announced that another boat, larger than the Dongan Hills, and costing about $1,000,000 would be started soon, an appropriation having been obtained last week. He said he expected the boat to be completed before the end of the present year. Borough President John Lynch of Richmond, Controller Charles W. Berry and County Judge Harry Tiernan, also spoke.

When the New York delegation, which included the band of the Department of Street Cleaning, arrived at the pier of the drydock company, at Mariners Harbor, a parade headed by Controller and Mrs. Berry, proceeded to the platform, four blocks away. Just before Mrs. Berry, sponsor of the boat, broke a bottle of a mineral water across the bow of the boat, Commissioner Goldman presented a bouquet of roses and a diamond-studded bracelet to her as the gift of the builders.

After the boat had gone down the ways she was returned to the pier by three tugboats and was boarded by the visitors.

The Dongan Hills is 265 feet long and her breadth over guards is 66 feet. Her hull, molded, is 46 feet wide and 19 feet, 9 inches deep. She is equipped with modern safety conveniences and is designed to make eighteen knots. The boat is named for the home town of Controller Berry.

MITCHELL ORDERED OUSTING OF SNOOK

CALLED CHANGE NECESSARY

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Attorney General Mitchell declined to explain the causes for the removal of John W. Snook today as warden of the Atlanta penitentiary, but assumed responsibility for demanding Mr. Snook's resignation, which is effective March 31.

It became known today that Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, as Assistant Attorney General in charge of prisons, had sent a brief telegram to Mr. Snook requesting his resignation. This was not accepted by Mr. Snook as reflecting the opinion of the Attorney General. Accordingly, he wrote to Mr. Mitchell, inquiring whether it had his approval.

Attorney General Mitchell, in reply, said to Warden Snook:

"The request for your resignation was sent at my direction. Before taking this action, I had reviewed the entire situation and all the material in the department files relating to the administration of the Atlanta penitentiary for a considerable time past, and became and am satisfied that a change in the administration of the prison is necessary in the public interest. Upon the change of administration such as has just occurred, I feel free to exercise my best judgment in such matters and make changes in the administration as the conditions seem to require.

"The thirty-day period specified in the letter asking your resignation was for the purpose of giving you as long a time as the public interest would permit to arrange the removal of yourself and family from the institution and in order not to be more peremptory than the conditions make necessary.

"If you do not need that period of time to complete your arrangements, I will be glad to have your resignation effective at an earlier date. In any event the request for your resignation is renewed, to be effective not later than the date originally specified."

To this Warden Snook replied in part:

"I heartily agree with you, and feel that as head of the Federal Prison System you should have the privilege of placing as head of the different institutions men of your own selection, whose ideas of penology and prison administration coincide with yours.

"Since my incumbency here, on account of the stress of business, I have only taken 16 days annual leave of absence and if, under the regulations, you can grant me such leave as you would feel justified, it will be appreciated. If, on the other hand, you cannot, it will, as Mr. Lincoln said, be all the same."

SEATS IN CONGRESS FOR CABINET URGED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Attendance of members of the President's Cabinet at sessions of the Senate and House, with the right to participate in debate on questions affecting their respective departments, will be proposed in a bill that will be introduced by Representative Kelly of Pennsylvania, Republican, when Congress assembles in April.

Mr. Kelly believes his proposed reform will have the support of President Hoover. A like bill introduced by Mr. Kelly in 1922 was endorsed by Mr. Hoover, who then held the office of Secretary of Commerce.

In a letter written to the Pennsylvania member at the time Mr. Hoover said that he did not believe any fundamental criticism could be directed against the plan "except by those who would deliberately exaggerate it as an attempt to establish a form of parliamentary government." He added:

"Any one who understands the basis of such European organization will at once recognize that such a step as you propose has no relation whatever to this form of government."

Mr. Hoover in his letter of 1922 suggested that the Kelly bill, then under consideration, might be worked out by a rule that could establish the process of interrogation of Cabinet officers through written interrogatories with notice.

"This would avoid unnecessary attendance through rigid provisions and would also secure, to Congress, immediate and prompt information as to the executive and other matters," he wrote.

The Kelly bill of 1922 authorized members of the Cabinet to attend sessions of the Senate and the House with the right to take part in debate under such rules as the two branches might prescribe. A provision of the bill calling for such attendance of Cabinet members each week probably will be modified in the new draft to be presented by Mr. Kelly in April.

With the induction of a new administration and discussion of plans for the reorganization of the executive departments, Mr. Kelly believes this to be a good time to introduce the reform he proposes.

"Responsible government is what President Hoover wants and this proposal is in conformance with that idea," Mr. Kelly said.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 19.—The results of today's voting in the East Toxteth division of the first of the five Parliamentary elections scheduled for this week give the Conservatives a victory by a plurality of only a third of that by which they won the seat at the last election. In 1924 the Conservatives had a plurality over Labor of 9,519 and a clear majority over the Labor and Liberal votes combined of more than 5,000. Today their plurality was cut to 3,129, and the two other parties combined polled more than 3,000 in excess of the Tories.

Although the Liberal candidate was third in today's triangular contest, his party made the best showing of all as compared with the 1924 figures. The Liberal vote jumped more than 2,000, while Labor polled about 100 less than in 1924 and the Conservative vote fell off 6,000.

East Toxteth is in the Liverpool region, where there is much unemployment. Today's election was the first since David Lloyd George announced the Liberal Party plan to cure unemployment. The result gives the first tangible set of figures upon which the Liberals can find any ray of hope of rehabilitating themselves since the campaign began.

A 2-Inch No Man's Land Menaced A $5,000,000 Deal

Land with a large building, in an important section of New York, was to be procured for the site of a mercantile establishment. The transaction, when completed, and the new enterprise in operation, would represent more than $5,000,000.

The trouble was, a two-inch slice, as it were, cut through the building, which apparently was owned by no one—a realty No Man's Land. This fraction of the holding was not described in any of the deeds at hand.

A transaction involving so substantial a sum of money necessitated extra precaution, and the developers did not dare to go ahead without title insurance. They came to us.

Could we insure it? Whence came the faulty description? Was the title to this tiny strip of valuable New York realty hidden away in some scheming pocket?

Experts were put at work, and it was discovered that, fifty years back, a tired surveyor had transposed two figures, making the discrepancy.

This fact and the undisputed possession by the holders for a period of years determined the issue. We insured the title and made possible the location of an institution which employs hundreds of people and is known to every resident of New York City's largest Borough.

His Old Poker Debt Years Later Became a Title Flaw

More than sixty years ago, a group of men sat down to play poker, on a Mississippi packet. Those were the days which Mark Twain immortalized: days of heavy drinking and high play.

When the last hand was on the table, the loser paid with a deed to property in Bayside, Long Island.

Years passed; the property changed hands, increased in value, and a cautious buyer, looking up the records, found that this deed contained a clause to the effect that the title might be redeemed at any time upon payment of this debt with compound interest.

The purchaser refused to carry out his contract without a title policy, and, knowing the quality and expedition of New York Title Service, applied to us. An exhaustive search was made and quit-claim deeds obtained by the owner's attorney.

The purchaser now "knows he owns the property," and has that peace of mind which Title Insurance affords.
